DISASTER IN NEW DEAL: BORAH

CHICAGO MAKES A SANE HOLIDAY OUT OF ITS 4TH

Firework Casualties Relatively Few.

Two Fireworks Deaths

Only two persons in all United States died as result of fireworks on Fourth. One hundred eighty-three was the death toll counted to 3 o'clock this morning as reports of casualties in all sorts of other accidents poured in. Details on page 4.

Chicagoans demonstrated yesterday that Independence day can be fittingly celebrated without abandonment of "safe and sane" principles.

Up to midnight no fatalities due to fireworks or trafic accidents were reported. After midnight this morning, however, there were four motor accidents in which two men, a woman and a girl lost their lives.

The fact that there were no automobile deaths in the county on the Fourth is considered remarkable in view of the fact that thousands of automobiles crowded the highways through the whole day and immense throngs gathered on the beaches, at the World's Fair, in the parks, and at nearby resorts.

Decline in Fireworks Casualties.

Police reports showed that the use of fireworks, which is contrary to city ordinance, was widespread, and that about thirty-five persons had been injured. Most of these injuries were slight, however, and no fatalities were believed likely from this cause. In 1932 the number of persons injured by firecrackers was 55 and in 1933 the number was 35, with one fatality.

This record of fireworks safety contrasts dramatically with the "good old days" when explosives played a more prominent part in the observance of the Fourth. In 1900, when THE TRIBUNE pioneered in a campaign for saner celebrations, 406 persons died in the United States of lockjaw growing out of fireworks injuries. Even in 1908 Chicago had 12 deaths and 112 cases of injury.

Four Perish in Drownings.

Four persons lost their lives yesterday in drownings in Chicagoland. They were:

ADOLPH ROTHSCHILD, 19 years old, 1519 South Sawyer avenue, who sank in Lake Michigan off Marquette park beach at Gary.

AUGUST BRAASCH, 44 years old, 6042 South Kolmar avenue, drowned in Lake Eliza, southwest of Valparaiso, Ind.

EDWARD HOLLANDER, 16 years old, said to have been a Chicagoan, drowned in Flint lake, north of Valparaiso.

STEWART BEHRENS, 16 years old, 1727 East 83d place, who sank after he had been attacked by cramps while swimming in Doescher's lake, three miles east of Crete.

Among those seriously injured was Robert Gruber, 18 years old, 1540 Barry avenue, whose back was broken when he dived into shallow water at Maple lake, 95th street and Wolf road.

Girl Hit by Stray Bullet.

Dorothy Spears, 8 years old, 3030 Arthington street, was struck in the foot by a stray bullet as she stood in front of her home. The Marquette police arrested Walter Murphy, 17 years old, 915 South Fairfield avenue, as the careless handler of a firearm. He denied the shooting. Stephen Shira, 27 years old, attendant of a filling station at 51st street and Western avenue, also suffered a slight wound from a stray bullet.

Kolmar Movar, 46 years old, 1155 Independence boulevard, and Eleanor Sullivan, 11 years old, 3319 Walnut street, were others wounded by stray bullets fired by unidentified persons.

Those who suffered severe hurts from fireworks included Robert Bagley, 8042 Langley avenue, whose left eye was put out by a toy torpedo. It was learned that the explosive had been purchased from the store of Robert Banville, 539 East 79th street, and Banville was arrested on a charge of violating the no-sale ordinance.

Two Boys May Lose Eyes.

Andreas Vassilos, 10 years old, 5516 Drexel avenue, and Bruce Drinkall, 6 years old, 114 North Karlov avenue, suffered eye injuries when fireworks exploded in their faces. Physicians feared each would lose the sight of one eye.

Theresa Baer, 9 years old, 2228 Blue Island avenue, was burned on the neck by a firecracker tossed at her by an unidentified youth, and Jennie Monkus, 15 years old, 2007 Canalport avenue, was hurt in the left eye by a torpedo hurled by a boy.

In commenting on the absence of deaths in automobile traffic the

BUROCRACY HIT AS DESTRUCTIVE TO THE NATION

Common Man Seen Chief Victim.

The text of Senator Borah's speech is printed on page 8 of this paper.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., July 4.—[Special.]—In a temperate but relentless appraisement of the New Deal as an unconstitutional invasion of our tradtional liberties, Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] warned the nation in an address for the National Radio forum tonight that the Roosevelt recovery program spells disaster for the common man.

What is being established under the Roosevelt régime, in the view of Senator Borah, is not Nazlism, not Fascism, not communism, but "simply that meddlesome, irritating, confusing, undermining, destructive thing called burocracy."

And burocracy he defined as "that form of government which steals away man's rights in the name of the public interest and taxes him to death in the name of recovery." Burocracy, the Idaho senator asserted, "has destroyed every civilization upon which it has fastened its lecherous grip."

Opens Individual War.

In this most notable attack to date on the principles of the Roosevelt program Senator Borah inaugurated the single-handed warfare on the New Deal he will wage in a series of public addresses in various parts of the country before the November elections.

Like Daniel Webster defending the constitution against the nullificationists and disunionists, Borah chose this 158th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence to warn his fellow countrymen of the dangers of the scrapping of constitutional principles which he finds inherent in the New Deal.

After paying an eloquent tribute to the authors of the constitution the senator pleaded for a reconsecration of the country on American principles. Confessing the tragic and disillusioning consequences of our engagement in the world war (for which he voted), Mr. Borah declared it his opinion that our departure from the policies of Washington and Jefferson in that episode "proved no more disappointing and disastrous to the intereats of the American people than will be our departure from the principles embodied in the constitution of the United States in domestic affairs."

Common Man Chief Victim.

It is the common man who will be the chief victim of our new burocratic form of government, the Idahoan asserted. The influential and powerful have demonstrated that they "can generally obtain all the rights and privileges they desire under any form of government." But the "freedom and political rights" of the toilers are being more and more limited, whether under European dictatorships or the American burocracy.

Inasmuch as he never once mentioned the President, one could only surmise whether the senator had Mr. Roosevelt in mind when he said that burocrats as well as dictators are emulating the practice of Augustus Cæsar, who, when preparing to "take over some new block of power," would "deliver a eulogy on the virtues of the republic and announce his deep solicitude for the liberties and happiness of the people."

"For a government that is regimenting every activity, the eventual curtailment of the freedom of the press is only a natural and inevitable step, in the opinion of the Idaho senator.

Can Say "Too Many Papers."

"The government," he said, "has as much right to say there are too many newspapers as to say there is too much cotton being grown. It has as much right to reduce the size of newspapers and turn the printers on the street as it has to force the reduction of cotton and turn the sharecroppers onto the highway. The government has as much right under the constitution to say that the great newspapers of the country should be limited in circulation and curtailed in issue as it has by law to curtail the acreage of our wheat fields."

In a country in which every man is not free to pursue his calling free of arbitrary burocratic dictation a free press, Mr. Borah asserted, is "only a temporary delusion."

"If the government," he went on, "can take away the right to grow cotton and force the grower to plant

Mrs. Insull in N.Y.; to Reach Here Tonight

New York, July 4. — [Special.] — Traveling tourist class, Mrs. Samuel Insull came back from Europe today to rejoin her 74 year old husband now awaiting trial in Chicago on charges growing out of the collapse of his billion dollar utilities empire.

She professed complete confidence in the magnate's "vindication" when his case has been heard.

"I am sure of it," she told reporters in a brief interview in her cramped quarters while the Majestic was steaming up the bay from quarantine. "I believe implicity in Mr. Insull's honor. I should know, for I have known him many years. I have never known a dishonest suggestion to enter his thoughts."

Met by Samuel Jr.

Mrs. Insull was met at quarantine by her son, Samuel Insull Jr., who sat by her side during the interview. After her twelve pieces of baggage, including six trunks, had been inspected—a proceeding that took up the better part of a sweltering hour in the pier shed—Mrs. Insull and her son left for a mid-Manhattan hotel to get some rest preparatory to taking a midnight train for Chicago, where she will arrive about 6:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The whole case was something of a mystery to her, it seemed. Particularly did she protest her inability to understand how a man "who had always been known for his honesty in business should suddenly, in his seventy-fourth year, be charged with violating principles he has always maintained."

He Expects Vindication.

The "best answer" she could think of to the question was a quotation from a statement made by her husband when he left Europe in custody on board the Exilona some months ago on his way back to face whatever fate the jury may have in store for him. In that statement Insull said: "When I am heard my judgment may be discredited but my honor will be vindicated."

After quoting this statement Mrs. Insull paused a moment, surveyed the faces of her interviewers one by one, and then, as if by afterthought, went on:

"May I tell you of one incident? It to be of whatever assistance she could be to my husband, there was a report current that Mr. Insull had 10 million dollars put away. Madame Kouryoumdjogiou told the official who made the statement that Mr. Insull was a poor man and had nothing. The official would not believe her. He told her: 'Well, then, if he did not put it away he was a great fool.'

"When this story was repeated to Mr. Insull he said: 'I could be rich still, but I did not want it.'

"'Could you have put aside 10 million dollars and no one know about it?' he was asked. To which his reply was: 'I could have but did not, and the fact that I did not causes me no regret.'"

The woman referred to by Mrs. Insull is Mme. Helene Kouryoumdjoglou, whose home in Athens was a haven for the utilities magnate when he was fleeing the jurisdiction of the American courts, a flight which took him as far as Istanbul.

Asked about her reaction on returning to Chicago, where she once ruled socially, Mrs. Insull said:

"The great thing in my life is to be with my family, and that is the only definite line to follow. I like Chicago. I like it even better because I will find there my grandson, whom

Judge Upsets $15,000 Love Balm for Girl

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EDMONTON, Alta., July 4.—Ignoring the verdict brought in by a jury in the Brownlee seduction case last Saturday, Justice W. C. Ives of the Alberta Supreme court today handed down a written judgment in which he dismissed both the action of Vivian MacMillan and her father, John MacMillan, against Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta, and the counter action of Brownlee against the MacMillans for conspiracy. No evidence was offered by the premier to support his counter charge.

On Saturday the jury awarded Miss MacMillan, a former government stenographer, $10,000 and her father $5,000 damages. Justice Ives' judgment today was short. It reads:

"In this action the father joins with his daughter in the action for seduction of the daughter by the defendant. The jury by a special verdict of questions and answers have found that seduction took place on Oct. 13, 1930, and have awarded damages to the parent plaintiff in the sum of $5,000 and to the daughter in the sum of $10,000.

Says Girl Was Unharmed.

"Upon the verdict being announced by the jury, counsel for the defendant moved for dismissal of the action on the ground that there was no evidence of any interference with the daughter's services to the parent to which he was entitled and no evidence that the seduction in any way interfered with the daughter's ability to serve.

"It is quite clear that the daughter left her home in Edson with the consent and approval of her parents and was accompanied to Edmonton by her mother. It is equally undoubted that no illness resulted from the seduction and no evidence that the ability of the daughter to render services was in any way interfered with.

Dismisses the Action.

"In my opinion the law is well settled that damage is the gist of the action and I am also of the opinion that the damage necessary to found a right of action in the woman must be of the same character as gave the master his right of action, that in loss of service or at least an interference with the woman's ability

Hitler Victims Buried; Denied Church Rites

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 4.—Even in death there is no peace for former Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher, his young wife, and Heinrich Klausemer, leader of the Catholic Action party, all of whom were slain last Saturday by Chancellor Hitler's strong arm squads. These three were buried today and all were deprived of the religious rites in which their families believed.

Although denounced as traitors and accused of plotting against Hitler, Von Schleicher's friends turned out in great numbers to show their conviction that he was unjustly slandered. Telegrams of sympathy have been pouring in on the bereaved family. Former prominent generals bravely signed their names to indignant telegrams speaking of the "comradely assassination." It was difficult, however, for the former chancellor's friends to find out the time and place planned for the funeral.

Block Family's Telephones.

The telephones of all near relatives of Von Schleicher and his wife have been blocked, since the authorities were anxious to prevent the family from telling details of their deaths.

Military Chaplain Schleigel had announced that he would officiate at the funeral whether it was forbidden or not. At the gate of the chapel in the borough of Lankwitz, however, every one, including the chaplain and Gen. Kurt von Hammerstein-Equord, former army chief, was turned away by police. Nazi guards took the urns away and ordered the mourners to disperse.

The Catholic church had planned a pontifical mass for Klausemer. His relatives, devout Catholics, were looking forward to the consolation of the religious rites. When they called to claim the body they were told that he had been cremated, which is a violation of the holiest rites of the church.

Church Authorities Terrified.

Catholic dignitaries appeared too terrified to give a reason why the high mass will not be held. A spokesman at the papal nuncio's office with a trembling voice assured inquirers that nothing was known of the funeral. Three other prominent Catholic offices seemed terrified when questioned.

The cremation of Klausemer and many other Catholic victims of the bloody repression of the "revolt" is expected to cause serious difficulties in the negotiations between the German government and the Vatican for an interpretation of the concordat. The bishops had been preparing a pastoral letter, which was to have been issued yesterday, but it was recalled at the last minute.

PILOT BLOWN OUT OF FAIR BOAT BY BLAST; RESCUED

An explosion of the gasoline tank of a lagoon boat at A Century of Progress late last night hurled Robert Olenick, 19 years old, 1236 Rosemont avenue, the pilot, into the water. Unconscious and severely burned, he was in danger of drowning when Charles Rawle, 5340 Hyde Park boulevard, pilot of another of the lagoon boats, plunged in and saved him. The boat was towed to an anchorage at 14th street and the Fair firemen extinguished the flames. No passengers were aboard.

Olenick, a college athlete, was alone in the boat when the accident occurred near the Administration building pier in the north lagoon. He had just taken on gasoline and when he started the motor a spark ignited oil on the engine and the flame was communicated to the tank. Olenick was given emergency treatment at the Fair hospital.

GENERALS SEE OPPORTUNITY TO SEIZE POWER

Hindenburg Refuses Papen Resignation.

Nazi News in Nutshell

The following were the chief developments of the situation in Germany yesterday.

The regular army, with the full approval of President von Hindenburg, was reported to be preparing to dictate to Chancellor Hitler how he should run the government.

Opposition of Roman Catholics grows. "Forceful measures" against Nazi regime are threatened.

President von Hindenburg refused to accept the resignation of Vice Chancellor von Papen.

The name of Fritz Beck, head of the foreign academic bureau, was added to the list of those killed Saturday. It was understood that he was shot by a hot-blooded Nazi without official authorization.

The killing of four Silesians "attempting to escape" was revealed.

Many refugees were reported crossing into Poland.

HAMBURG, July 4.—Medical experts have been watching Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany for several days and it is believed they have detected symptoms of incipient insanity, according to authoritative information received here today. The generals of the Reichswehr [the German regular army], who are now in control, think they may be able to exploit his mental weakness for their own purposes. If he should prove recalcitrant, it is said, they plan to find a good excuse to remove him from activity.

The reichswehr has taken all the profits earned by Hitler's ruthless purging of the Nazi party, in which many persons were slain, and is now in supreme command in Germany with the full approval of President Paul von Hindenburg.

Junkers Are Terrified.

It is not believed there will be any early action against Hitler, because the Junkers, who hope to gain the support of the reichswehr, are still terrified. The only real opposition to Hitler is coming from the Roman Catholics, who are threatening to take forceful measures.

The heavy industry capitalists are also pulling wires, hoping to be able to control Hitler in the future through the control of funds. The feeling here is that the danger of war has been pushed into the background by the events of the last week-end. The reichswehr generals are realists, who know that Germany would have no chance now against France, and they will avoid any incident which might give France an excuse to make war before they are ready, which will not be for several years.

PAPEN STAYS IN CABINET

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 4.—Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, leading critic of extremist Nazi policies, will remain in the German cabinet. His resignation has been rejected by President Paul von Hindenburg.

This was the word which Chancellor Hitler brought back from Neudeck, in East Prussia, where he hurried by plane yesterday to report to the aged president on his "purging" of the Nazi party and to discuss what should be done about the vice chancellor.

At yesterday's cabinet meeting Von Papen had insisted that he wished to be relieved of his ministerial duties. The cabinet, however, urged him to remain as minister without portfolio to supervise activities in the Saar in preparation for next year's plebiscite, which will determine whether that area will be French or German. Von Hindenburg, who is a close friend of Von Papen, apparently sided with Hitler and ordered the vice chancellor to retain his post.

Will Take a "Leave."

Von Papen, however, will take a protracted "leave of absence." The official reason given for this is that only one vacancy, that created by the execution of Capt. Ernst Roehm, head of Hitler's Storm Troopers.

Von Papen and Hitler were closeted in a secret conference tonight. The purpose of the meeting was not announced.

Although the breach between von Papen and the Hitler government has thus been glossed over, several members of the vice chancellor's office still remain in prison. Fraulein von Stotzingen, his private secretary; Herr von Tschirsky, his personal adjutant, and Baron von Savigny were questioned by Nazi officials today. Relatives of Fraulein von Stotzingen were told that they would be "allowed to write her," which indicates a longer imprisonment.

Meanwhile, Victor Lutze, the new Storm Troop chief, again issued orders today that the July vacation period be carried out as planned. The order virtually eliminates the Storm Troops as a factor in the life of the country for the time being.

During July they are forbidden to assemble either in uniform or civilian attire anywhere in the country except by special permission of their group leaders. These, in turn, as well as all other commanders, are to hold themselves continuously at the disposition of their superiors. It is again emphasized that the "daggers of honor" are to be cleansed of their inscription bearing the name of the "traitor," Roehm. This will not be easy, for the name is deeply engraved on one side of the blade.

Saxony Chief Fired.

It was announced tonight that Baron Manfred von Killinger, chief of the Storm Troopers in Saxony, has been removed from his post. Von Killinger, it was revealed, had been arrested and placed in a concentration camp and later released. It had been rumored that he had been executed. Von Killinger was a naval commander at the battle of Jutland.

Col. von Bredow, who formerly belonged to the staf of Gen. von Schleicher, who was killed "resisting arrest," was shot yesterday, charged with "trying to deal with a foreign power."

The death of Gustav von Kahr, former premier of Bavaria and former friend of Chancellor Hitler, was confirmed today. An official announcement said he died of "heart shock." It was learned, however, that he and his two daughters fled recently after a bomb had damaged their home. The bombers left a note saying: "We don't want traitors."

Von Buelwitz, press chief of the Storm Troopers, was also executed, it was learned.

Seize Two Hungarians.

Two Hungarian newspapermen, Joseph Martin and his 21-year-old son, were arrested yesterday. Martin, like many other Hungarians, sympathized with the Nazi régime. He was a Storm Trooper, helping in the press department in Berlin. He was seized when he delivered a message to his Storm Troop chief, Loenecke, who had been arrested, concerning the latter's wife and children. Martin's son was taken into custody later.

The Hungarian minister lodged a protest at the foreign office, which immediately "detailed a special commissar to watch over the lives of the two foreigners."

The German secret police informed the Hungarian legation that they could not say when the trial of the pair would begin, and that it might last for weeks.

NEW ATTACKS ON JEWS

BERLIN, July 4.—(AP)—Four names were officially added today to the list of persons killed in Chancellor Hitler's war on "traitors" in Silesia. The announcement said that "for attempting to escape while being transported from Hirschberg to Goerlitz on the night of July 2" an attorney named Forester, a married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Zweig, and a merchant named Charig were killed.

This would seem to indicate, informed persons said, that measures had been taken against Jews in that section of Germany.

Reports from both Silesia and Bavaria were disturbing. Dispatches from Warsaw told of Silesian refugees fleeing across the border by the hundreds. Some two thousand already have entered Poland, these reports said.

The violent speech yesterday of Gov. Helmut Brueckner of Silesia warning priests not to oppose the government caused fears that an anti-Catholic move was under way.

Nazis Badly Disorganized.

Berlin was without news from the provinces, the correspondents of newspapers apparently being unable to get through their dispatches.

Reports from Bavaria intimated that the Nazi party is badly disorganized in its home state as a result of participation in the mutiny of many sub leaders of the Storm Troops, the brown shirted army which placed Hitler in power.

The London Sunday Express and two Swiss newspapers describing events of recent days were banned. The Swiss papers which were suppressed were the Basler Nachrichten of Basel and the Neue Zuerichter Zeitung of Zurich.

Several protests have been made to the foreign office, it was learned today, over the failure of the government to disclose the identity of the "foreign power" which Chancellor Hitler said was involved in the plot of Capt. Roehm and others.

Three ambassadors made separate calls at the foreign office today after the French attempt to organize a collective protest failed.

United States Ambassador William E. Dodd, the French ambassador, Andre Francois-Poncet, and Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador, each said after his call that he had seen Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath to "talk over the general situation."

The Russian ambassador, it is understood, intends to make a protest later.

There has been much speculation as to what country Hitler meant, most of the guesses being France and Russia.

Nazi Party Expels Prince.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 4.—Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former kaiser, has been expelled from the Hitler Storm Troops and the Nazi party and is again a private citizen.

Not that Prince Auwi, as he is known, seems to have been guilty of anything special. He was merely too close to some of the alleged traitors in the Storm Troops. Especially he was a friend and intimate of Karl Ernst, the Berlin-Brandenburg commander, who was shot and is said to have died crying, "I am innocent! Heil Hitler!"

The provincial leaders of the Nazi movement have been summoned to a conference at Flensburg, near the Danish border, to discuss a general party organization. By train and airplane the Nazi leaders are pouring in there this evening. Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and some of the other higher chieftains flew there in ten government airplanes late this afternoon.

GERMANY WILL LET 'TRUE ARYANS' GIVE UP JEWISH NAMES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 4.—True born German Aryans bearing Jewish names will be permitted to change them to German names, Minister of the Interior W. Frick ruled today. He explained that names like Hirsch and Goldschmidt, which were originally German, are now generally regarded as Jewish, therefore their bearers as well as bearers of names like Solomon, Israel, and Moses may adopt Christian sounding names. A Jew becoming a Christian is only permitted to change his name if his own sounds "ridiculous or offensive."

AUSTRIA'S EYE ON GERMANY; BOMBS STIR UP NEW FEAR

Test Air Raid Defenses Along Border.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, July 4.—Chancellor Engelbert Dolfuss and the government are elated at the disintegration of their Nazi foes across the German border as a result of the tragic events of the last few days. However, the tiny chancellor tonight was dismayed at what appears to be a renewed outbreak of terrorism from the Nazi forces within the Austrian border.

Following yesterday's explosions in Linz, where high powered bombs were placed in the police station, bursting with much damage, the bombings spread to Vienna today. This afternoon a bomb exploded in the palace of justice, causing considerable damage, but no loss of life, and later in the evening another blew up a telephone booth in a street near the stock exchange. Other sporadic explosions occurred about town.

Events in Germany continue to be watched here with all absorbing interest, both by government leaders and the populace. The question asked by every one is, What will be the repercussion here? Will the dissolution of the Nazi Storm Troops in Austria end the agitation among Nazis here, or not? The renewed bombings do not seem to indicate it.

Stage Air Raid Tests.

The government's fears were given concrete expression today through orders to the population of Wels, in upper Austria and along the Bavarian border, to submit to rehersals of putting on gas masks and taking positions in cellars. They also went through rehersals of sheltering from air raids. The same rehersals will be carried out in Vienna within a few days, it is understood.

Vice Chancellor Prince Ernst von Starhemberg also went to Salzburg on the Bavarian border to attend a Heimwehr meeting and to inspect the border patrols, which have been strengthened along the whole German frontier. Heimwehr partisans here declare that Capt. Ernst Roehm, chief of staf of the German Nazis, who was executed, and his crowd were mostly responsible for supplying Austrian Nazis with their ammunition.

Public opinion in Austria in any case is still uneasy and in the cafés one hears generally expressed the belief that disturbances are just beginning in the reich and that more bloody events are to follow.

Remove Swastika Flag.

It is considered here of considerable significance that at Kufstein, on the Bavarian Tyrol frontier, the swastika flag was taken down from the German railway station, which is in international territory. The flag had been there since Hitler's advent to power. At Kufstein also the Bavarian Brown Shirts have been dismissed, and Austrian legionaires who had been wearing brown shirts are now in civilian clothes. According to the Viennese papers tonight, reports from over the border say that the Austrian Nazis are in a state of panic and furious at Hitler and are seeking some way to escape.

The police and the Heimwehr are renewing their search for Nazi hiding places and warning customers to stay away from stores known to be Nazi sympathizers. The police also suppressed the Neueste Nachrichten, official organ of the pan-German party in Austria.

HINDENBURG, AT 86, FAILS TO BE SHAKEN BY CRISIS IN GERMANY

NEUDECK, Germany, July 4.—(AP)—Paul von Hindenburg, Germany's 86 year old president, showed again today that nothing—not even such events as those of the last few days—can disturb him mentally or physically.

He received Chancellor Hitler between 11 and 12 o'clock last night and talked to him for about an hour and a half about the measures taken by Hitler which caused the deaths of some men the president has known personally.

The president was up again at 8:40 a. m. today, sticking close to his schedule, with which he never permits anything to interfere. Rainy, cool weather compelled him to give up his daily walk in the park, but late in the afternoon he appeared on a balcony wearing a dark gray suit and overcoat.

Von Hindenburg will receive the king and queen of Siam tomorrow. He showed great interest today in the seating arrangements for the state function for the Siamese rulers.

Arrest 8 Germans on Ship as Anti-Hitler Plotters

OSLO, Norway, July 4.—(AP)—Eight German tourists aboard the North German Lloyd vessel Sierra Cordoba, charged with complicity in the plot against the Nazi government, were arrested today by the captain of the ship. He acted on orders received by wireless from Berlin. The tourists were placed under restraint and the Sierra Cordoba proceeded to North Cape.

GUNS DRAWN AS FIRST CONGRESS OF SPAIN ENDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 5 (Thursday).—A rough and tumble fist fight between the Socialists and Catholics, which almost degenerated into a bloody battle as the opposing deputies pointed guns at each other, marked the adjournment at 1 o'clock this morning of the first session of Spain's second republican congress. It was in session seven months.

Amid the uproar the cabinet of Premier Ricardo Samper Ibanez obtained a vote of confidence, 191 against 62, on its plan to settle the rebellion of the Catalan autonomist-regionalists, who are fighting Madrid's annulment of the Catalan agrarian reform.

The uproar was provoked when José Maria Gil Robles rushed back from a honeymoon with one of Spain's richest heiresses in order to save the Samper cabinet with the 116 votes of his Catholic group. The Catholic deputy Oriol became so excited by his eloquence that he suddenly stood up and drove his fist with full force into the face of a Socialist deputy seated near him. The burly Socialist ex-minister, Indalecio Prieto, plunged into the center of the fight brandishing a businesslike revolver, and soon there was a heavy display of firearms in the chamber. Neutral deputies formed a solid wall between the irate Catholics and their Socialist foes and the row was finally ended.

MUSSOLINI'S PAPER DEFENDS EXECUTION OF HITLER'S ENEMIES

MILAN, Italy, June 4.—(AP)—Executions of Nazi rebels in Germany were defended today in an article published by Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo D'Italia.

It was the newspaper's first comment on the German "purge by blood." The drastic measures were sanctioned, but it was observed in the editorial that there might have been a better way out of the reich's difficulties. It would have been wiser, it was observed, to have taken measures in advance which would have obviated the necessity for such ruthless action.

"The ability to put an end to such a situation is an excellent example of power," the newspaper said. "But it would have been wiser to prevent the causes that gave rise to such fatal circumstances.

"The right to execute traitors and enemies is not a new discovery. It is the most legitimate revolutionary reality that exists."

The editorial concludes that usually executions should be carried out only on the authority of courts. But it was said there are "exceptional occasions when the individual servant of revolution has the right to administer justice with his trigger finger."

FRENCH CABINET PERILED BY ROW OVER RIOT QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 4.—France's political difficulties, which have been overshadowed in the last few days by events across the Rhine, took a grave turn today—only four days before the trial period given the national government by the powerful war veterans' organizations expires.

An open split occurred in parliament between the right and left, which threatens to end the political truce on which the cabinet of Premier Gaston Doumergue is founded. The split came in the committee charged with placing the responsibility for the revolutionary violences of Feb. 6, when the national government was born of the worst disorders in the history of the third republic.

The entire conservative membership walked out after a stormy session because the left majority committee refused to place the responsibility for the huge death toll of that day on the shoulders of former Premier Edouard Daladier and his ministers, or Adrian Bonnefoy-Sibour, who succeeded Jean Chiappe when the latter was ousted from his position as prefect of police. Instead they laid it to violations of law on the part of the mob, and to the errors of minor police officials.

PREMIER SEEKS 'NEW DEAL' POWER TO RULE BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, July 4.—(AP)—Legislation for an economic "new deal" was presented to parliament today by the government of count de Brocqueville, prime minister.

The government will be empowered to adjust taxes, regulate long and short term loans, modify salaries and pensions of state and public utility employés, and supervise communal and provincial budgets.

SNOWDEN HURLS CRY OF 'TRAITOR' AT MacDONALD

Launches Vicious Attack on His Old Friend.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 4.—Viscount Snowden, former chancellor of the exchequer in the Labor government, startled the house of lords last night by launching a vitriolic attack on his one time close personal friend and cabinet colleague, Prime Minister MacDonald.

VISCOUNT SNOWDEN.

Snowden was said by political observers to be taking his vengeance on the national government, and the prime minister in particular, for repealing his scheme for the taxation of land values. The former chancellor's onslaught was made in his usual quiet voice from the opposition side of the house of lords, but he incorporated in it most of the harsh words in the vocabulary of political invective.

Calls MacDonald Traitor.

MacDonald, who is at Lossiemouth, Scotland, on the first stage of a three months' vacation ordered by medical advisers, was denounced as betraying his colleagues in the Labor party and the country.

"The cabinet found the prime minister such an amenable instrument of Tory policy," Snowden declared, "that it has come to the conclusion that there are no professions which he made, no pledges which he gave the country which he will not repudiate, no humiliation to which he will not submit if they only allow him still to be called prime minister.

"The Tories have no use for MacDonald except for exhibiting him on their platform in chains as the one-time Socialist who has seen the error of his ways and found salvation in the spiritual home of the Tory party.

"He will be used for the same purposes as the reformed drunkard at temperance meetings."

Charges Party Politics.

Snowden charged that repeal of the land tax was a matter of party politics which "exposed the hypocrisy of the claim that the government was a national government."

He referred to the recent statement of Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain that what the country needs is honest political leadership.

"I quite agree," Snowden acidly commented.

A strong contrast to Snowden's bitterness was the mollifying appeal to bury the hatchet made by Viscount Sankey, lord chancellor. He referred to Snowden and MacDonald as lifelong friends who, with Henderson, were responsible for the rise of the Labor party. He deplored the viciousness of Snowden's attack.

"He is not entitled to impute motives to a man who cannot defend himself, in such language," Sankey said. "The time is not far distant when Lord Snowden, myself and many of our old friends and associates will go down into the great silence. I hope that, whatever the political differences there may be, Viscount Snowden and many of his old friends of the Labor party will once again be personal friends before that time comes."

DILLINGER HURT SO HE CAN'T DRIVE AUTO, IS REPORT

Indianapolis, Ind., July 4.—(AP)—John Dillinger, said an unnamed ex-convict quoted by the Indianapolis Star tonight, is suffering from a permanent injury so serious that he no longer drives an automobile.

The informant, said by the Star to have been formerly in state prison, where he knew Dillinger, was quoted as having told police he learned of the arch criminal's condition when he saw him in Chicago several weeks ago.

Dillinger's right leg trembles, his gun hand twitches as though palsied, and the injury gradually is affecting his entire right side, according to the paroled man's story as related by the Star. When under strain of great excitement, however, Dillinger is able to move rapidly, the man said.

Improper treatment for a bullet wound suffered during a series of bank robberies has resulted in the nervous condition, the informant claimed.

PRESIDENT GETS 35 POUND FISH IN BAHAMA WATERS

ABOARD U. S. S. GILMER, ACCOMPANYING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, July 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today wore a blue jersey, an old pair of trousers, a white seagoing hat—and was perfectly happy. It was an Independence day after his own heart. He caught a 35 pound barracuda and for five hours bobbed about in a launch which cut through choppy waters west of Long Island in the Bahama group.

The interlude of old clothes and fishing was an incident of the long vacation cruise which will take him all the way to the Hawaiian islands. The cruiser Houston, on which the President is traveling, dropped anchor this morning in a sea on which short waves danced. Clouds obliterated the rays of the tropical sun.

Ten barracuda were hauled up during the day's fishing. The 35 pounder caught by the President was described as "the granddaddy of all these bad, fighting fish." The President returned to the Houston at about 2:30 p. m. just as a blanket of fog settled down over the war vessel. A heavy downpour of rain followed.

Tomorrow the President will be off Cape Haitien, where he will meet President Vincent of Haiti on shipboard.

MACE CAPTURED FROM CANADA IN 1813 IS RETURNED

TORONTO, July 4.—(AP)—The mace of the Upper Canada parliament, captured in the war of 1812-'14 by United States troops, was formally returned to Canada today at a good-will ceremony attended by high government officials, soldiers, and sailors of both countries.

The Toronto regiment and Queen's rangers formed a guard of honor as American soldiers and sailors marched, unarmed, into Old Fort York. Just 111 years ago American forces led by Gen. Zebulon Pike stormed and captured the fort on Toronto's waterfront.

INA CLAIR SAYS SHE MAY MARRY EUROPEAN PRINCE

New York, July 4.—(AP)—Ina Claire, star of the stage and screen, returning today from London, said she might be married to Prince Ferdinand von Lichtenstein.

"We have discussed getting married," she said. "We're not sure that we will be. He is coming over in two weeks. There may be something definite to announce then."

She was indignant, she declared, that reports should have been circulated that the European nobleman is still a married man.

"Prince von Lichtenstein has been divorced for many months," she said. "His wife, an Englishwoman, was remarried a week ago."

Miss Claire wished it understood he was divorced when she first met him.

"I made two childhood resolutions—never to get interested in an actor and never to get interested in a married man," she said. "I broke the first resolution when I married John Gilbert. But I have always kept the second."

Holiday Bomb Sets Off $50,000 Blaze in Joliet

Damage estimated at $50,000 was caused late last night by a fire that destroyed the yards of the Webb & Gray Coal company on East Marion street, Joliet. Included in the loss was coal valued at $35,000. The fire is believed to have started when a rocket bomb set off by celebrants landed on the roof of the company offices. Motorists reported that while the fire was at maximum intensity it could be seen a distance of twenty miles.

Argue Over Last Drink; 1 Dead, 1 Stabbed, 1 Seized

Ottawa, Ill., July 4.—[Special.]—An argument over who should have the last drink from a whisky bottle tonight resulted in the death of John Benik, 67, a laborer, and the serious stabbing of John Voich, his friend. The successful drinker was George Schmagein, 38 years old, who was arrested by Sherif E. J. Welter.

Horror Seizes Germans as Significance of Hitler's Action Sinks in Upon Them

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, July 4.—[By Telephone to Paris.]—As the smoke of Hermann Goering's firing squads lifts, Germany begins to open its eyes.

In this part of the country, at least, the first spontaneous feeling of relief that Chancellor Hitler had purged the Nazi party of its most sinister elements has given way to general uneasiness, which is rapidly developing into horror.

There is a mounting wave of revulsion as the names of those arrested or shot gradually leak out, revealing that the government "cleanup" was a veritable holocaust, and that many "executions" were simply assassinations.

Student Exchange Chief Slain.

Munich is agast to learn that the bodies of three victims of Saturday's action were found alongside a country road and that a fourth victim, Dr. Fritz Beck, well known to United States students here as director of the German foreign academic exchange bureau, was shot at his desk by two assassins.

Three of the most prominent members of the Bavarian nobility have been missing since Saturday, and there are even rumors, quite possibly unfounded, that Gen. Von Epp has been arrested.

Although the government does not dare let the public get hold of a foreign paper, and the local papers are not yet allowed to print many of the details which were officially released to the foreign correspondents in Berlin Monday, there is already a growing skepticism over the official story that there was a plot against the government.

Germans Ask Some Questions.

"How could the left wing Nazi leaders, like Capt. Ernst Roehm, to say nothing of people like Edmund Heines, who was virtually a bolshevik, have been plotting with Gen. Kurt von Schleicher?" is a question you hear common people ask when they think there is no danger of being heard.

Another question hitherto unheard in Hitlerite Germany is: "Why doesn't the government tell us what really happened? Is it afraid to let us know?"

It is the first time Germans have asked themselves such questions since Hitler came to power. Thoughtful Germans who analyze the official communiques and check on the multitude of rumors flying about have already answered these questions for themselves. Their view, which checks with the opinion of most foreign observers here is a gloomy one for Germany.

Seen as Cold Blooded Massacre.

FIRST—They see in the government's cleanup action a cold blooded massacre of all possible rivals to the present rulers of Germany, and apparently settling all the grudges which in many cases may have been merely personal ones.

SECOND—They see in the whole affair a combination of duplicity and callous ruthlessness suggesting a court of intrigue and Asiatic despotism and promising new horrors for Germany when the victors of today start falling out among themselves.

THIRD—Above all, they see the final liquidation of the Nazi revolution as a movement of enthusiasm and the beginning of a dictatorship of pure terror like that of Josef Stalin in soviet Russia.

As far as this correspondent can discover, this is an accurate interpretation of events. Until last Saturday the régime appeared to be based on mass hypnotism through propaganda with the concentration camp and the blackjack in the background. Today it is based on Hitler's black uniformed private police and the secret political police, both under Heinrich Himmler, one of the chancellor's oldest collaborators. Together they are a perfect duplication of the Russian GPU (secret terrorist police).

Nation Coming Out of Trance.

For several weeks Germany has been coming out of a hypnotic trance, and there are dangerous signs of a real awakening of something like independent judgment among the masses.

It is the opinion of most observers that henceforth official propaganda will have no effect on the population, and that Hitler will have to govern against the will of the majority of the population.

It is evident everywhere that the Brown Shirt militia [Storm Troopers], which is the people's army, after all, is seriously demoralized, and certain elements are downright mutinous.

If the bulk of the Brown Shirts are called back to service after the month's furloughs which began July 1 and given back their arms, their questionable loyalty will be a permanent menace to the régime. If they are not called back, the government will have the problem of finding something for them to do, because large numbers of them are unemployed.

Seriousness Is Illustrated.

The seriousness of the problem was illustrated Saturday when a foreigner in Munich who chanced to see a company of Storm Troopers coming out of their barracks to go on furlough followed them and saw that they marched straight to the night refuge for the destitute.

With the opposition only driven underground instead of being stamped out, and serious economic misery threatening through the winter, it appears that Hitler's position was only strengthened momentarily by Saturday's coup.

What competent foreign observers here anticipate is not a popular movement against the government, but more fights among the chiefs. Many think that the bloodshed of last Saturday and the medieval methods the government inaugurated are only the first act in a drama which, as in the Elizabethan tragedies, will end by most of the actors killing one another off. As a dénouement they foresee the reichswehr stepping in, probably with but possibly against Hitler.

Some think another act may be expected very shortly, others think there will be a lull marked externally by an effort to conciliate the foreign powers, and internally by increasing infrequency of the propaganda circus.

Few Germans carry their speculations so far, and the uneducated masses haven't got beyond a vague suspicion that something is rotten somewhere.

Aristocrats Hard Hit.

Munich is chiefly preoccupied with the local consequences of the cleanup action. The aristocratic, and particularly the Bavarian royalist circles, are heavily hit, and the list of those shot grows daily.

Particular indignation is expressed over the arrest of Prince Yesenburg, right hand man of Gen. von Epp, and Guttenberg, president of the monarchist league, and Baron Redwitz, another prominent royalist, who were taken from their homes by the black police and have not been heard from since.

There is no way of knowing how many Munich citizens have been shot, but one can be sure of at least four names not yet officially announced. One is Beck, another is Lieut. Scheringer, reichswehr officer, who was tried in Leipzig in 1930 for spreading Nazi propaganda in the army but who turned communist in prison. Hitler appeared as a witness at his trial and there made his famous prediction that "heads will roll in the dust." A third is Senner, a personal friend of Heines and proprietor of a restaurant here much frequented by the Brown Shirts. The fourth is Gustav von Kahr, who was blamed by the Nazis for the failure of Hitler's putsch in 1923.

Rumor Roehm's Mother Suicide.

There is a persistent report here that Capt. Roehm's mother committed suicide. Investigation by THE TRIBUNE today finds this unlikely, but it throws light on the thoroughness with which news is being kept under cover. When THE TRIBUNE correspondent arrived at the luxurious house set in a flowering garden near the Isar river, where Roehm installed his mother, he found two black helmeted sentries with rifles at the front door.

In answer to the ring a woman in her forties opened the door and explained that she was Roehm's sister. She said it was impossible to see her mother.

"She is too badly shattered," the woman said in a faint voice. "I have only been here two days. We were all overcome by this tragedy."

As she spoke one of the sentries stepped up behind the correspondent so as to be sure and not miss a word. The woman looked at him nervously and said:

"I'm sorry, but I can't give you any information," and then closed the door.

Guard Home Night and Day.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that sentries have been standing night and day in front of Mrs. Roehm's door, keeping the aged, grief stricken woman virtually a prisoner in her own house—unless she is really dead, after all.

At the Stadelheim cemetery there are two unmarked, board covered mass graves where Roehm and six other official victims of the Schutz Staffel firing squads were buried. There are no wreaths on them. They were all removed on official orders. One of the wreaths was meant for August Schneidhuber, chief of the Munich police, who was executed.

These seven victims were buried quietly with no religious rites. There is no way of telling in which grave Roehm lies. There is no guard at the cemetery, and a crowd of gaping villagers stands around uneasily, staring at the sinister board-covered holes.

In addition to the four absolutely certain victims mentioned above, there are reports which may or may not be founded of four others. They are Commander von Loosow of the Munich garrison; Von Seisser, commander of the Munich police at the time of the Hitler putsch; former Minister of the Interior Stutzel of Bavaria, who was severely beaten up when the Nazis came to power last year, and Father Muhler, organizer of the Catholic Action party in Munich.

Dives 110 Feet to Death While 10,000 Cheer Him

Portland, Ore., July 4.—(AP)—With the applause of 10,000 spectators ringing in his ears, Roland McCall, long distance swimmer and high diver, plunged to his death in a beautifully executed swan dive today from a platform 110 feet above the Columbia river. As he struck the water the crowd's attention was diverted to nearby races and few knew that McCall came up, swam a few strokes and then sank. His body was not recovered tonight.

BROWNS DURING PARTY.

Dumas, Ark., July 4.—[Special.]—John Rice, 18, was trying to stay under water the longest this afternoon during a swimming party at Lake Lemmon. Two hours later his body was recovered.

Injuries from Fireworks Are Relatively Few.

conditions of the highways and recalled that the average number of deaths daily from this cause in Cook county is about three. It was an indication of careful driving, they said, that there were no fatalities, with the volume of trafic many times the normal.

Although the day dawned with a cloudy sky and there were sprinkles of rain, motorists refused to let this deter them, and the county highway police reported all roads crowded at 9 a. m. The greatest congestion was noted on the routes to the resort country in southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois and northern Indiana.

Usually the Fourth of July motor caravans move in one direction—outward. But the influx of World's Fair visitors yesterday almost equaled the outward movement. So great was this influx that the visitors, added to the Chicagoans who also went through the gates, carried the Fair attendance to 179,096 by midnight.

Veterans Join in Ceremony.

While the most of the organized celebrations of Independence day centered at the Fair, veterans' organizations held a ceremony at the Chicago Historical Society building in Lincoln park.

There soldiers of the civil war, the Spanish-American war and the world war met to dedicate trophies. These were two civil war cannon, a naval gun removed from the flagship of the Spanish fleet at the battle of Santiago, and a British field gun used by American troops in France.

Suburbs of the south and west sides and the north shore held community celebrations with fireworks displays, picnics, parades and patriotic addresses commemorating the 158th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

200,000 in Forest Preserves.

The threatening weather did not keep picnickers away from the forest preserves. Emmett Whealan, president of the preserves board, estimated the crowds at about 200,000.

"We issued permits for 302 large picnics of more than 100 people each, the greatest number ever issued for a Fourth of July," he said. "In addition there were thousands of small family groups.

MINOR CASUALTIES FROM FIREWORKS IN CHICAGOLAND LISTED

Among those who suffered minor injuries from fireworks while celebrating the Fourth of July in Chicago and the suburbs were:

Seize Suspect in Holdup of Brewery Truck Drivers

Paul Lupo, 1506 George street, was arrested yesterday by Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station and was identified last evening as a robber who held up two brewery truck drivers recently.

183 DIE ON 4TH; ONLY TWO IN U. S. FROM FIREWORKS

Prison Grandstand Falls and Kills Three.

New York, July 4.—(AP)—At least 183 persons died today as millions of citizens celebrated the 158th anniversary of Independence day.

Fireworks—once the chief killer on the holiday—claimed two lives, those of a five year old Chinook [Mont.] girl and a woman in St. Paul. In 1903, records of the American Medical association showed, 466 persons died, mainly from fireworks and gunpowder accidents.

Automobiles on trafic clogged highways and lakes and rivers claimed most of the victims.

Tabulation by Causes.

Tabulations showed the following deaths:

Fireworks, 2.
Autos, 73.
Drownings, 70.
Accidental shootings, 3.
Other causes, 26.

Five persons were burned to death in the flaming wreckage of an airplane at St. Ansgar, Ia. All were Iowans.

In New York City three inmates of the Welfare Island penitentiary were crushed to death when a grandstand collapsed as they watched a baseball game between prison teams. Fifty-six others were injured.

Two Voluntary Prisoners.

Two of the dead, drug addicts voluntarily confined to Correction hospital on the island, died almost immediately of spinal fractures. The third, serving a sentence for unlawful entry and due to be released in five days, suffered a fractured skull and died within an hour.

The stand, constructed of iron pipe and boards, was built by Welfare Island inmates and had not been completed. More than 200 men occupying it rose to their feet as a 60 yard dash was about to start.

The stand swayed dizzily for a moment and crashed. The occupants were thrown into a heap, a struggling mass.

California Plane Death.

There was one airplane death in California.

Harold E. Wright, 26, Lemoyne, Pa., a racing driver, was killed at the York [Pa.] fair grounds when his car overturned in a race.

Despite the police drive here for a safe and sane Fourth, however, more than 1,400 were injured by fireworks bootlegged into the city. The number exceeded by more than 200 the accidents recorded in 1933.

But from American colonies abroad to the tiniest hamlet in the United States the day was celebrated with festivities and ceremonies. Orators waxed patriotic; picnics, beaches, golf, racing events and the great outdoors entertained millions.

PERSHING PARADES ONCE MORE IN PARIS IN JULY 4 OBSERVANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 4.—Gen. John J. Pershing, white haired, gaunt, and erect, marched once more through the streets of Paris behind the Stars and Stripes and the tricolor of France today at the head of a procession of American and French dignitaries and former soldiers, celebrating July 4.

The 74 year old former American commander stood before the statue of George Washington during the ceremony there. Beside him was Gen. Gouraud, one armed hero of the Dardanelles, who is now military governor of Paris.

The day's observances included a pilgrimage to Lafayette's tomb, where J. Theodore Marriner, American chargé d'affaires, recalled Gen. Pershing's first visit there in 1917. A simple ceremony was held, in which all of the American patriotic organizations in Paris deposited wreaths.

The celebrations ended this evening with the rekindling of the flame at the tomb of the unknown soldier under the Arc de Tiomphe by James R. Connelly, veteran, who was wounded in action.

3,000 Observe 4th in London at American Embassy Party

LONDON, July 4.—(AP)—Ambassador Robert W. Bingham entertained between 2,000 and 3,000 persons at a garden party today in celebration of the Fourth of July. A military band played American airs.

FIREWORKS BRING NO RAIN, ASSERTS WEATHER EXPERT

The old theory that noisy fireworks inevitably bring rain was exploded yesterday by Chief Forecaster C. A. Donnel as children and grownups, too, celebrated the Fourth of July by shooting fireworks and rockets.

"The idea that 'noise makes rain' is a very old one," said Mr. Donnel, "and it has flourished since the days of Plutarch, who observed that clash of shields and swords and the shouts of warriors caused rain."

Later, this idea changed slightly and the rains were attributed to louder noises of firearms and cannon on the modern battlefield, the forecaster said, and amateur rainmakers tried to produce deluges by shooting off bombs.

Mr. Donnel referred to the average daily precipitation since 1871 for the month of July in the Chicago area to show that July 4 and 5 rainfall usually is light. This table follows:

July 1	.08 inch	July 17	.06 inch
July 2	.13 inch	July 18	.06 inch
July 3	.18 inch	July 19	.13 inch
July 4	.13 inch	July 20	.11 inch
July 5	.11 inch	July 21	.10 inch
July 6	.11 inch	July 22	.08 inch
July 7	.24 inch	July 23	.08 inch
July 8	.08 inch	July 24	.08 inch
July 9	.11 inch	July 25	.06 inch
July 10	.12 inch	July 26	.14 inch
July 11	.13 inch	July 27	.13 inch
July 12	.05 inch	July 28	.12 inch
July 13	.07 inch	July 29	.10 inch
July 14	.13 inch	July 30	.03 inch
July 15	.09 inch	July 31	.11 inch
July 16	.10 inch

"The reasoning that the rains fall on the 4th or 5th of July due to the vibrations of exploding fireworks is not only fallacious, but the records of the weather bureau for 60 years as shown in the table indicate the opposite—that more rain falls on July 2 than on either the 4th or 5th of the month," he added.

PAINTER ENDS OWN LIFE.

Neenah, Wis., July 4.—[Special.]—Fred Raess, 45, painter, selected the Fourth of July to commit suicide. Raess fired a 32 caliber bullet into his head in the garage at his home while his wife and two children were asleep in the house. Relatives know no reason for his act.

LIBERTY BELL IS RUNG AGAIN FROM LITTLE AMERICA

Philadelphia, Pa., July 4.—(AP)—Tonight, 158 years after, tradition says, a boy cried, "Ring, grandfather, ring for liberty," the nation's most famous bell was sounded again from the southernmost region on the earth.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, using facilities of science the nation's founders never dreamed of, transmitted an electric impulse by radio from Little America which tapped the Liberty bell with a rubber mallet.

A group watched at Independence hall, where the cracked bell is kept.

Cold Records for 50 Years Smashed in New Zealand

WELLINGTON, N. Z., July 4.—(AP)—While the United States mopped its brow in torrid summer weather today, the northern half of New Zealand shivered in a cold wave, marking the most unusual weather conditions in half a century. Heavy snowstorms and a bitter gale crippled communication lines.

Moscow Sees Its First July 4 Frolic in 16 Years

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., July 4.—(AP)—The first official American celebration of the Fourth of July on Russian soil in 16 years was held in Moscow today. During the morning there were two baseball games in which the players, including Ambassador William C. Bullitt, were American citizens. The American colony was entertained at a reception and dance at the embassy this afternoon.

FAIR'S JULY 4TH CROWD IS SECOND LARGEST OF YEAR

Throngs View Events at Exposition.

As the center of Chicago's Fourth of July celebration, the World's Fair yesterday drew its second largest crowd of the year. At midnight the electric meters had recorded 179,096 visitors.

Because there were few special festivities outside the Fair in the Chicago area to draw the crowds, the attendance soared steadily. It was early in the evening, around 7 o'clock, that the opening day's figure of 154,663 was passed. This was made on Saturday, May 26.

Overcast skies were believed to have kept the crowd from equaling last year's July 4 attendance of 232,517. Fair officials, of course, had no expectation that the day's total would approach the 1934 record of 470,000 visitors. This was set on May 31, the first children's day, when thousands of the young visitors were admitted free.

Throngs See Fireworks Show.

Everything found at the usual July 4 celebration was offered at the Exposition yesterday. Fireworks played a large part and the night crowds saw one of the largest and most elaborate pyrotechnic exhibitions ever given at the Fair. The Lagoon theater provided an ideal spectators' stand for the fireworks show which was directed from Northerly Island.

The first official recognition of Independence day came at noon when the troops in Camp Roosevelt on the island fired the rolling, reverberating "Salute to the Union" of 48 guns. It was fired from two 75 millimeter pieces. The blasts came at five second intervals

At 1:30 p. m. the Colonial Village, which drew a good crowd because of its historical associations, held a program in which George T. Buckingham was the principal speaker.

Dunne Gives Reception.

United States Commissioner Edward F. Dunne gave a formal reception in the Federal building lounge late in the day for city, county, state and federal officials, and army, navy and marines corps officers. Chicago consuls of foreign governments were also present.

In the receiving line with Commissioner Dunne were his daughter, Mrs. Arthur T. Leonard; Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, Admiral and Mrs. Wat T. Cluverius, Col. and Mrs. M. M. Keck, and Maj. Chester L. Fordney.

Friendly Japanese-American relations were emphasized in an international two-way radio broadcast during the afternoon from the Swift bridge. The Chicago Symphony orchestra played the Japanese national anthem and several American tunes, then John Barton Payne, head of the American Red Cross, spoke to the Japanese nation from Washington. Tokio reciprocated with speeches from United States Ambassador Joseph Clark Grew and Prince Iyeshto Tokugawa, head of the Japanese Red Cross. A number of Chicago Japanese were in the audience.

Today Is Children's Day.

Today is Children's day again at the Fair. All visitors under 12 years of age will be admitted at the main entrance for five cents. Many of the concessionaires will cut their rates to that figure for children.

Special programs have been arranged for the day, among them a baby bathing beauty contest on the Midway boardwalk between 2 and 4 p. m. All entrants must wear bathing suits.

Century of Progress Notes

Russian day at the World's Fair has been set for Friday, July 13. The guest of honor will be Alexander Antonivich Troyanovsky, newly appointed ambassador to the United States. He will remain in Chicago until July 15 to give the signal which will start the around-the-world flight of a huge Sikorsky airplane, piloted by William H. Alexander, former naval instructor, and carrying a crew of four.

The flag of Tunisia, a scarlet crescent and star in a white circle on a scarlet field, will be formally raised for the first time in the western hemisphere on French Independence day, July 14, in the Tunisian village at the Fair. The French consul in Chicago, Rene Weiller, will be present. Tunisia has been under the protection of France since 1881.

Before the first of July, Swift bridge was visited by an average of 69 per cent of the Fair attendance. With the arrival of the Chicago Symphony orchestra the average has jumped to 76.4 per cent.

A new record for the running broad jump was set yesterday at the Chrysler motors exhibit, but the record is for automobiles. Neil Oldfield, nephew of the famous Barney, one of the "hell-drivers" on the Chrysler track, was piloting a Plymouth at 50 miles an hour when it struck a ridge of clay and bounced. It traveled 41 feet through the air before the wheels struck the earth. Young Oldfield made an almost perfect "four point" landing and kept driving.

The spirituals and camp meeting hymns of the Mundy jubilee singers will be augmented by interpretative dancing by the Katherine Dunham group of folk dancers in the program beginning at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Court of States.

Chester Kinnamon, 25 years old, who trains the two police dogs used in the Hollywood movie exhibit at the World's Fair, was severely bitten on both hands Tuesday night when he attempted to break up a fight between his charges.

While American flags flew gayly from every staf at A Century of Progress and military bands blared martial music in honor of Independence day the Dutch flag over the Dutch Village on the Midway on Northerly island was at half staf yesterday in observance of the death of Prince Henry, husband of Queen Wilhelmina.

HOTEL MANAGER SHOOTS SUITOR OF WOMAN GUEST

A quarrel between Miss Marietta Hayes, 25 years old, and William Beltz, 28 years old, 4194 Berkeley avenue, in the girl's room at the Waldorf hotel, 6139 Ellis avenue, ended last night when Beltz was shot and critically wounded by Lloyd Bennett, the hotel manager, who was trying to quiet them.

Beltz, who is said to have been a suitor of Miss Hayes, entered the room with his brother John, 19 years old, and Harry Vonhaste, 23 years old, 4329 Lake Park avenue. With the girl, who is a divorcee, were her two year old child, her sister, Helen, 23 years old, and her mother, Mrs. Cora A. Hayes of West Frankfort.

Bennett said Beltz and his companions ordered him out of the room when he warned them to be quiet, so he went to the lobby and got a pistol.

When he returned to the room, Bennett told Woodlawn police, the three men seized him. He said William Beltz struck him, and he fired two shots at him. One lodged in Beltz' right arm and the other penetrated his chest below the heart. Bennett, John Beltz, and Vonhaste were held at the Woodlawn station after the shooting.

ROCKEFELLER, 95 THIS SUNDAY, RESTS DURING 4TH

Lakewood, N. J., July 4.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller Sr. will celebrate his ninety-fifth birthday next Sunday at "Golf House," his early summer home outside of Lakewood, it was learned today, instead of following his usual custom of spending that day at his Pocantico Hills, N. Y., estate.

Members of his household revealed the change in plans, while from other sources it was learned Mr. Rockefeller has not been in the best of health this week. He was confined to his room on Monday. Although his condition was improved today, he had no visitors to aid him in celebrating the Fourth of July.

Mr. Rockefeller was able to sit out under one of his prized shade trees part of this afternoon. He was amused by the chatter and antics of the 4 year old daughter of his chauffeur, Vincent Frasca.

CODES NO HELP IN TIRE INDUSTRY, SAYS FIRESTONE

Magnate Lauds Fair on a Visit Here.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Harvey S. Firestone, the tire manufacturer, visited A Century of Progress yesterday and talked upon a variety of subjects. He praised the Fair, said that codes so far have not helped his industry and discussed the world's rubber supply, telling how Thomas A. Edison worked for a domestic rubber plant.

From a chair on the balcony of his exhibit at 23d street Mr. Firestone talked meditatively for an hour and watched the vast holiday crowd surging through the grounds beneath him.

The veteran rubber manufacturer said he had been in sympathy with the aims and purposes of the NRA, and for a year had worked hard for it. Recent developments in the industry, however, have convinced him, he said with some emphasis, that the tire manufacturers' and dealers' codes have not been helpful. "I can say that honestly," he declared.

Fight in Industry "Appalling."

Mr. Firestone called "appalling" the hot competition over auto tire guarantees now raging in the industry. He would not predict how far it will go.

"If the NRA could do anything to eliminate bad practices it could have stopped that," he said.

Reviewing the history of tire guarantees, the manufacturer recalled that the guarantees have, in recent years, advanced from 3,000 to 35,000 miles, "and those claims, as every one knew, were sales expedients."

When the codes came, said Mr. Firestone, he and other manufacturers agreed upon a "standard warranty," guaranteeing tires against defective workmanship and material, and asked that it be included in the codes.

Tells of Johnson Pledge.

Gen. Johnson, the recovery administrator, agreed and for about a month last spring the warranty provision was in effect.

"Then," Mr. Firestone continued, "for some unexplained reason the provision was dropped for a 30 day period and later for an indefinite period. As the result of this, appalling competition has grown up. I regret the condition the industry has gotten into."

Recently, tire guarantees have advanced from one to two years. It was the end of this struggle that Mr. Firestone would not attempt to foretell.

FAIR GUARDS ITS AUTOGRAPHS OF NOTABLE GUESTS

A leather bound book in which distinguished guests of A Century of Progress are asked to sign their names is becoming so valuable that it has been removed from a table drawer in the Trustees' lounge at the Fair to a vault in the controler's office.

The book probably will go eventually to the archives of the Chicago Historical society and will be considered among the most valuable collection of autographs in existence, according to Captain John A. Reilly, superintendent of official events for the Exposition, who is in charge of the volume.

Entries in the book were begun in Feb. 4, 1931. They include virtually all the important political figures of this country, many ambassadors and other notables from foreign countries, writers, actors and others in public life. Among the signatures most plainly written is that of Franklin D. Roosevelt, dated Oct. 2, 1933, below which is the less clearly legible signature of Eleanor Roosevelt.

TAMMANY TOLD BY COPELAND TO BACK NEW DEAL

New York, July 4. — (AP) — Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] told a notable gathering of Tammany Hall's braves today that a dictatorship in this country is "impossible." He lauded President Roosevelt's adherence to constitutional government and pleaded for the wigwam's whole hearted support of the administration.

It was the first time in more than 20 years that Tammany society gathered for its traditional Fourth of July celebration bowed in defeat—the result of the last mayoralty election.

The New Yorker, who has been in the senate since 1922, termed support of the administration program "a personal responsibility" of each Tammany member. The wigwam was filled with notables of the society, but the absence of one of its sachems—former Gov. Alfred E. Smith — was an exception.

Firestone and Son Visit World Fair

Harvey S. Firestone and his son, Russell S. Firestone, as they visited the World Fair yesterday.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

FAIR FOUNTAINS 'SOOTHE' CROWDS; 15 ON GROUNDS

Called Most Popular of Single Features.

It may be the fascination that falling water holds for all laymen, it may be the sense of quietude and peace that water induces, but whatever the lure may be, it is a well known fact that the 15 fountains playing night and day at A Century of Progress draw the largest crowds of any single feature of this year's Fair.

People apparently watch the fountains not because they are phenomenal, although some of them are, but because they are soothing, and because the sight of them, while drawing out the imagination, obliterates such fair begotten ailments as swollen feet and rumpled clothes.

The 100 benches placed alongside the music-color fountains in the Firestone building are jammed at all hours, onlookers form a steady black line along the railings of the two bridges flanking the Grand fountain in the North lagoon, while the geranium bordered replica of the Garibaldi cascade in the Italian village and the fountain of pearls in the Belgium village are among the best drawing cards of these two gay spots.

Water Flow Is Heavy.

Although from 3 million to 10 million gallons of water is consumed daily at the Fair for domestic use, 500,000 gallons of it for the 450 drinking fountains, no estimate has been made of the total water pumped through the 15 display fountains. The Grand fountain, which is said to be the largest in the world, spouts forth 67,125 gallons of water a minute, or nearly 20,000,000 gallons in its five hour day. It is at its spectacular height between 9:30 and 11 at night.

Although it has been in operation since May 25, the Grand fountain really attained completion for the first time last night, for at that time 180 thousand-watt bulbs of colored lights were used, exactly double the amount in use previously. The result is a fairylike mountain of iridescence.

How to Work It.

Some of the working details of this fountain, which may be obtained from the spray drenched control room under the 12th street bridge are:

1. Punch 12 buttons and you start pumps working at the rate of 2,425 horsepower.
2. Punch 9 buttons and you start 622.7 kilowatts of lights to glowing.
3. Switch them all off again and you've stopped the output of a stream of water sufficient to service a city of 100,000.

Other fountains of interest are in the Hall of Science court, in the court of the Electrical building, outside the Western Union building, in the court of the General Exhibit building [three fountains and four rocket pools], in the Kohler exhibit gardens, in the Travel and Transport building [2], and at the 26th street entrance.

Hardware Dealer Killed by Fumes from Auto

Bernard Gapinski, 40 years old, 3545 Fullerton avenue, was found dead yesterday in a garage in the rear of 3557 Fullerton avenue. Death was due to carbon monoxide gas generated by his automobile engine, which he was repairing in the closed building. Gapinski was a hardware merchant.

'GAS' REPLACES GUNPOWDER IN JULY 4 OUTINGS

A Million Ride Highways of Chicago Area.

BY HAL FOUST.

Approximately 350,000 automobiles with nearly a million passengers were on the highways of the metropolitan area yesterday enjoying the new independence introduced by modern pavements and motor cars. The burning of gasoline supplanted in a large measure the old time consumption of gunpowder in the city's observance of Fourth of July.

Most of the motorists were Chicagoans, leaving the city for a day of viewing scenery or for jaunts to the summer resorts that abound within a few hours of the loop. Other cars, as indicated by their license plates and their loads of luggage, were visitors from nearby and distant states, in all likelihood en route to or from A Century of Progress.

Congestion at a Minimum.

Estimates from the best available sources indicated that it was one of the heaviest trafic movements of any holiday in these parts, yet congestion was comparatively light. There were no prolonged blockades, such as were common before the main roads were widened a few years ago.

The holiday excursionists into the country began to leave the city late Tuesday afternoon. On the Dunes relief road in northern Indiana, for example, Anthony J. Drahurd of the Hoosier state police reported that there was a steady stream of Chicagoans en route to Michigan resorts at 11 o'clock Tuesday night and again at 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

He said it was a larger crowd than a year ago. Policeman Mann Tabor of Gary, who has been assigned to U. S. highway 12 and 20 for eight years, said it was the biggest crowd in history.

Some Reckless Motorists.

Conditions were similar on the main highways to the lakes of northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, found that outbound trafic at 10 a. m. in Milwaukee avenue consisted of a solid double column with reckless, fast drivers occasionally using the lanes to the left of the center lane of the pavement.

The inbound tide of motorists began in the middle of the afternoon due, perhaps, to the threat from overcast skies and to the dread of trafic jams after dark. It was a steady influx that continued well into the night—spread over so many hours that the highways with their improvements of the last few years were able to handle the movement without serious congestion.

A Few Loafers Found.

A few ignorant or selfish drivers loafed on the busy arterial routes, near the center line or astride lane markers, getting in the way of motorists with distant destinations. Other leisurely drivers, however, abandoned the main highways for pleasant byways where the countryside could be enjoyed free from the press of fast trafic.

In contrast to the free movement on country pavements, where large sums have been spent, trafic jams caused by Fair crowds and by unimproved city streets frequently occurred in Chicago. One of the heaviest was at the north end of Lincoln park's outer drive, where motorists emerged from a four lane highway onto narrow Foster avenue and Sheridan road.

In the downtown area, Michigan avenue was filled. At Ohio street and Lake Shore drive, where there was no trafic policemen on duty, there were constant jams between motorists on the drive and those moving to and from Navy pier.

SHOOTS GIRL, KILLS SELF.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 4.—(AP)—A suitor whose pleas were discouraged today shot and seriously wounded Miss Opal Kresen, 16, of Minneapolis, and then shot and killed himself. The suitor was George Fimon, 34, farmer of Hutchinson, Minn. He had fired twice at Miss Kresen in a rooming house here. She is in a critical condition.

MRS. ROOSEVELT IN N. CAROLINA; INSPECTS HAND WEAVERS' CRAFT

Asheville, N. C., July 4.—(AP)—The hand weaving artcraft of the North Carolina mountaineers today drew the interest of America's first lady. Driving in her own car through southeast Kentucky, east Tennessee, and western North Carolina, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here last night on an "off the record" vacation trip.

With Mrs. Roosevelt were her friends, Miss Nancy Cook and Miss Marion Dickerman, both of Hyde Park, N. Y. Mrs. Roosevelt said she had no plans for spending the Fourth except to inspect various hand weaving industries in this section.

"I can't say when we shall leave here, for I have no plans for future engagements or trips other than being in Chicago on July 9," she said.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she was chiefly interested in studying the hand weaving industry in this section because of the possibilities of utilizing it in some part of her furniture plant at Hyde Park.

FIVE KILLED AS HOLIDAY PLANE CRASHES IN IOWA

Machine Carried Four July 4 Passengers.

St. Ansgar, Ia., July 4.—[Special.]—Four men and a young woman were killed here today during a Fourth of July celebration when the airplane in which they were taking a holiday ride crashed to earth and burst into flames. Rescuers were unable to extricate the bodies of the occupants because of the heat.

The dead were Fred Symington, 35, of Ackley, Ia., pilot and owner of the plane; Edward and Daney Libersky of St. Ansgar, and Marvin Miller and Gladys Ueker of Grafton, Ia.

Falls on Street.

The plane was flying low over St. Ansgar, which is about 30 miles northeast of Mason City, when the covering was torn loose from a wing. The ship went into a spin and crashed on the street.

The pilot had taken up a number of passengers during the celebration, which was the first Fourth of July fete held here in 20 years. He had brought the plane from Waterloo, where he had housed it for the last five months.

Parachute Jumper Killed.

Streator, Ill., July 4.—[Special.]—Pat Marvin Blansett, 27, was killed here this evening in an attempt to do a triple parachute jump from a balloon. The accident was witnessed by about 5,000 persons who had gathered downtown for Streator's celebration of Independence day.

With three parachutes strapped to his body Blansett leaped from the balloon at a height of several thousand feet. The first 'chute opened, but when the stunt man cut loose from it the second failed to spread out and he fell with plummetlike swiftness to death on the Santa Fe railroad tracks.

Blansett's wife, to whom he was married only six months ago, was in the crowd of onlookers.

Plane Loses Gear, Lands on Back; Three Unhurt

A Laird biplane flown by Dixon Webb, pilot at the Harlem airport, 87th street and Harlem avenue, lost its landing gear and nosed over on its back last evening when one wheel struck a soft spot during a take off. Webb and two passengers, Elmer J. Englehardt, 2532 North Harding avenue, and LeRoy Readdy, 2539 Cochran street, Blue Island, were uninjured.

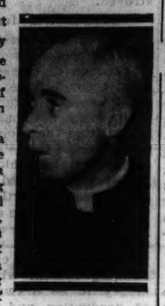
FOUND DEAD IN GREENHOUSE.

Paul Szyminski, 35 years old, was found dead yesterday in his quarters in the greenhouse at 2013 Wilmette avenue, Wilmette, where he was employed. He was apparently a victim of heart disease.

REV. JOHN O'HARA IS ELECTED HEAD OF NOTRE DAME

Becomes 12th President of University.

Notre Dame, Ind., July 4.—[Special.]—The Rev. John F. O'Hara, C. S. C., was elected twelfth president of the University of Notre Dame today by the provincial council of the Congregation of Holy Cross.



REV. JOHN F. O'HARA.

Father O'Hara has served as vice president for a year, succeeding the Rev. Michael Mulcaire, C. S. C., and he has been acting president for exactly a month, serving out the term of the late Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., whom he succeeds.

Father O'Hara resigned this morning as a member of the provincial council. It was not announced whether he will continue as prefect of religion, a position he has held since 1917, and through which he has become known to thousands of students, alumni and outsiders.

Handled Layden Appointment.

Father O'Hara handled the details on the appointment of Elmer Layden as head football coach and director of athletics last winter. He also came into the public eye when he made a reference in a speech last January to the Columbia "course in concubinage," a course in free love with which the New York school experimented and dropped after a short trial.

He was one of the pioneers in the drive for clean movies. In his Washington's birthday speech this year to the seniors he assailed indecent movies and also sterilization by the Hitlerites, branding the latter "race suicide."

Resigned in 1906.

Father O'Hara was born in Ann Arbor, Mich., May 1, 1888. As a youth he became private secretary to the American minister to Uruguay, Edward C. O'Brien.

Ill health forced his resignation, and in 1906 he went to the Argentine to recuperate. On his return to Montevideo in 1906 he made business surveys for the American bureau of commerce, in an effort to find markets for North American goods. He returned to the United States in 1908. He entered the University of Notre Dame in 1909, receiving his bachelor of philosophy degree in 1911. He was ordained a priest Sept. 9, 1916, in Indianapolis.

He studied Latin American history at the Catholic university in Washington, D. C., for a year, returning to Notre Dame as prefect of religion in 1917.

CRACKER BURSTS, HUEY JUMPS, THEN HE LAUGHS

Baton Rouge, La., July 4.—(AP)—The Louisiana legislature convened uproariously today, with members tossing firecrackers under one another's feet—exploding one that even upset the dignity of Senator Huey P. Long.

Long had marched into the senate and had leaned over to talk a moment with one of his supporters.

Suddenly a firecracker boomed just beneath his feet.

Long jumped a foot as spectators and senators shrieked with laughter.

The senator took it good naturedly, hurrying up the aile, his arms waving in mock surrender.

Senator G. D. Davis, a "country boy" from La Salle parish, opened the senate with a Fouth of July oration.

His escort provided a firecracker salute as he walked into the chamber, strewing his path with "crackers."

As the crowded galleries roared, Davis launched his address. The moo of a cow echoed dismally from somewhere.

"This is the greatest——," he shouted.

A whole string of firecrackers went off in front of the rostrum. Senator Paul Chaisez, in the frotn row, rose from his seat and blamed Senator Fred Oser for the display. Davis plunged on.

"Gentlemen, America today stands on the threshold——" Again the "cow" mooed.

"Gentlemen of the senate, I am gettin' serious about this thing now——" The cow wouldn't remain quiet. Another firecracker boomed.

"I swear I am gettin' serious," Davis repeated passionately. A firecracker went off immediately under his left gum boot. Davis paused long enough to shake the boot.

Senators Dore and Terzie took seats of honor in the press box, just back of Davis. They listened intently, solemnly and, occasionally, casually tossed firecrackers into a wastepaper basket.

Davis wound up in a blaze of oratory, leaving the audience breathless. Stillness settled over the chamber.

The mooing "cow" broke the silence.

BODY RECOVERED FROM LAKE.

Police yesterday recovered from the lake the body of John H. P. Smith, 57 years old, 5100 Ingleside avenue, a salesman, who was drowned while swimming Saturday night.

Marie Dressler Still Clings to Life; Condition Same

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 4.—(AP)—Marie Dressler, sheltered from the noise and excitement of Fourth of July at a Montecito estate, clung to life tonight, her condition remaining practically unchanged. Ill with cancer and resulting complications, the 62 year old motion picture actress is given no hope of recovery by her physicians. She has passed an early crisis, however, and Dr. Franklin R. Nuzum, her chief physician, said no bulletins would be issued until her condition reached another critical stage.

NEW DEAL BODES DISASTER, BORAH TELLS AMERICA

"Burocracy Taxes You to Death," His Opener.

and thereby force thousands to the point of starvation, it is only a question of time, and it has always been so, until this creeping paralysis of burocracy benumbs the hand of the editor."

Must Depend on Initiative.

For recovery of prosperity, Mr. Borah holds, we must depend upon the initiative, self-reliance, resourcefulness, and energy of individual citizens. But farmers and business men are being subjected to arbitrary restraints which are "superinducing fear and confusion" and retarding recovery. Moreover, the senator added, they "will retard it indefinitly."

"If permitted to act under general just and equal laws, with an adequate monetary system and an adequate banking system, protected from the exactions of monopoly, free also from the restraint and dictation of burocracy, the people will win this war against depression," he continued. "Destroy their morale, and the fight is lost."

The monopolists are still flourishing under the NRA with both political parties in their clutches, according to Mr. Borah. In 1932 the Democrats declared the fostering of monopolies under the Republican régime one of the chief causes of the depression. The Democrats, said the senator, were right. But as soon as the Democrats came into power they suspended the anti-trust laws as the result of which "monopoly was never more unrestrained or more ruthless than at the present time."

Dumb on NRA Monopoly.

What exasperates the senator is that the Republicans, looking for issues, are dumb on the subject of the extortions of monopoly being perpetrated under the aegis of the NRA. But the two parties, he defiantly asserted, will be unable to smother this issue in the approaching election. He is going to stir it up and if the powers that be don't keep him off the radio, the senator said he would report progress on this issue about the middle of October.

The theory of the New Dealers that over production was the chief cause of the depression is all wrong, according to Mr. Borah, and even more preposterous is the punishment being meted out to small business men who were not responsible for the economic plight of the country. The senator professed himself ready to support the Roosevelt administration in so far as it fights monopoly, governmental extravagance, speculation and other real causes of the depression.

"But the effort," he concluded, "to fasten a strangle hold system of burocracy upon the people generally, to place producers and small business men in a network of laws and rules and regulations which not only embarrasses the people but aggravates their distress I shall oppose in every way I know."

DIES AFTER TRUCK FIRE.

Dubuque, Ia., July 4.—[Special.]—David Burch, 20, Dixon, Ia., died in Mercy hospital here today of burns received yesterday when the beer truck in which he was riding crashed into a narrow gauge freight train at Zwingle, Ia. The gasoline tank broke and the truck was enveloped in flames.

TEXT OF SENATOR BORAH'S ATTACK ON NEW DEAL

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4.—(Special.)—Following is the text of the speech tonight by Senator William E. Borah of Idaho for the National Radio Forum:

"Friends and fellow citizens: This is our national birthday. I have been asked to speak on subjects appropriate to the occasion. I am happy to do so. The Fourth of July is peculiarly an American institution. The occasion has its privileges. One is to talk of ourselves as a people without intending, or very much caring about, offense to others.

"Let us, therefore, take in a full breath of pure American air and speak our minds on old time naked Americanism—naked and unashamed. Let us pay simple tribute to American patriots, to American institutions, to American character, to the flag, and to that conception of liberty and personal freedom which finds its finest expression in the Declaration of Independence, its noblest embodiment in the constitution of the United States and its highest practical exemplification in the daily deeds and lives of American citizens, the real builders of American civilization.

Victory for Popular Rule.

"The great controversy in 1776 was really a controversy between a government of law and a government of men, between arbitrary power and a government by the people. The same controversy continues and will probably continue for all time to come. That battle was fought out on American soil from 1776 to 1789, and the theory of a government of law prevailed.

"Great was the triumph at Yorktown when we won our independence; but the victory would have been fruitless had it not been for the triumph at Philadelphia in framing a constitution and in the establishing of a government of law. The supreme achievement in governmental affairs was when that task at Philadelphia was completed and it was found that nowhere in that magnificent fabric of free government was there a niche or corner in which was lodged, or in which legally there could ever be lodged, a single iota of arbitrary power.

"When we read the story of other revolutions, the setting up of other governments, when we read the bloody tale of arbitrary power in current events, and then contemplate the scene at Philadelphia, the serenity of purpose, the unselfish devotion, the vision, the wisdom of those men, it all seems akin to divine guidance. I have no words to express your veneration or my veneration for the men who led in public affairs from 1776 to 1789, who finally set up our framework of government, and I shall not undertake to do so.

Teachers for the World.

"What they did and what they would have taught the world to do have received the commendation and praise of the lovers of liberty in all lands and in all tongues. Any feeble effort of mine to place a just estimate upon their work would be impious.

"If I could have my deepest desire I would make this 159th year of our national independence, just beginning, a year of homecoming to America. I would retrace some steps of recent years, not in criticism, but in the light of experience. I would seek, as in former years, the respect and friendship of all nations. With them I would build trade and commerce, if I could. But I would do it all in the American way, with first concern for American policies, American institutions, and the prosperity and happiness of the American people.

"There has never been and, I venture to say, there never will be, unless found on this continent in pursuance of policies heretofore obtaining, a scheme of government so conducive to strength and power, as a whole, and at the same time so masterly in the protection and preservation of the rights and liberties of the individual as was built up in the United States under the inspiration of the principles and policies of 1776 and 1789 and under that leadership which inspires all Americans with a deep sense of veneration and gratitude.

"We have had some experiences recently, and from these experiences we imbibe a deeper faith, a more profound belief in the wisdom of those who framed our government and shaped its policies. We went into a foreign war, a war having its roots in wholly foreign policies. We left our dead on foreign soil. Those policies of those countries remain the same. Europe is no nearer peace and disarmament than before.

Europe Retains Old Evils.

"We have our dead and crippled, our maimed and insane, our wrenched and twisted institutions, while Europe retains her bitterness, her dissension, her old balance of power. During the last twenty years we have sent nearly forty billion dollars of the American taxpayers' money to Europe. That amount would build a modest home for every homeless family in the United States and give them a sufficient annuity to start life anew. These debts, both public and private, are now being repudiated and repudiated in a way which seems to terminate lingering respect and the obligations at the same time. Our able secretary of state advises Germany that her debt situation arises out of her Nazi policies. He is doubtless correct. The Nazi policies arise largely out of the Versailles treaty. The Versailles treaty was a result of the war we helped to fight—one mad round of war and vindictiveness; and dictatorship and repudiation seem to be the most pronounced result of our entrance into European affairs.

No Nazlism in Britain.

"Nazlism may be responsible for the default in Germany, but not in Great Britain or France or Italy. The fact is, and no amount of diplomatic fencing can conceal the ugly fact, that these defaults are part of a program of repudiation of these high and honorable obligations and to let the burden fall upon the American taxpayers. It is a policy to make scraps of paper of agreements, not in the face of the enemy, not in the face of danger, but of agreements with associates and allies.

"We need not dwell on the past. What is done is done. What is loaned is loaned. It is an experience which may be very profitable after all. We undertook to make the world safe for democracy. We did not succeed. We found the views, the beliefs, the faiths, and the controversies of centuries did not readily yield—that racial antipathies had not yet died out of the hearts of men. As our efforts in the cause of world democracy were not accompanied by success, let us now devote ourselves to saving our own.

Our First Title Deeds.

"In my opinion, our departure from the policies of Washington and Jefferson in foreign affairs proved no more disappointing and disastrous to the interests of the American people than will be our departure from the principles embodies in the constitution of the United States in domestic affairs. The Declaration of Independence and the constitution of the United States are the title deeds not only to liberty of the people of the United States but, if observed, they are the surest guarantee of the material prosperity, the contentment and happiness of the people of the United States.

"It does not make so much difference under what kind of a government the few, those of influence, of prestige and power, live. They can generally secure all the rights and privileges they desire under any form of government. Thus the great corporations and the wealthy flocked to the support of Fascism and Nazism and have fared well. But labor, and the average citizen generally, have been reduced to a state of intolerable political and economic vassalage.

"The most brutal system of government yet developed is vast capital linked to personal or arbitrary power. It is under a constitutional government alone, a government of law and order, that the rights and liberties of the average man and woman are, or can be, preserved and enjoyed. Those who disbelieve in constitutional government necessarily disbelieve in a government by the people.

"Those who strike at the integrity of constitutional government strike at the rights and liberties of the people. One of our most brilliant political writers says in a book recently published: 'Liberty everywhere is on the defensive!' Yes, everywhere. But that is especially true as to the liberty of the average man and woman, as to the masses, to those who are the toilers, the producers, of the respective nations. Their rights are being constantly chiseled away, their position in the economic world more and more circumscribed, their freedom and political rights more and more limited, in Europe under dictatorships and in democracies under burocracies.

Less and Less Liberty.

"One has but to survey the world today, politically and economically, to realize that the liberty and the rights of the people are less enjoyed and in more imminent peril of utter destruction, generally speaking, than they were in 1776.

"It has been estimated that 80 per cent of the people of the world are living below the poverty line, and far less than 80 per cent enjoy political freedom. All this is being brought about in the name of the people whose rights are being destroyed.

"It was the practice of Augustus Cæsar, when preparing to take over some new block of power, to deliver a eulogy on the virtues of the republic and announce his deep solicitude for the liberties and happiness of the people. How faithfully this fine precedent has been emulated in the modern world by dictators and burocrats alike!

Fight for Free Press.

"What is liberty under the constitution? Does it consist of nothing more than the right to exist? I was greatly interested in recent months in the discussion concerning the freedom of the press. When the controversy arose over the freedom of the press under the codes, something of the old American spirit blazed forth. We recalled the classic lines of Milton and the scarcely less classic phrases of Jefferson.

"We read again the debates on the alien and sedition laws when the Federalists made a determined effort to commit political suicide. No sane man will underestimate the freedom of the press. During this discussion it was said it would be unspeakable for the government to say there are enough newspapers and no more must be started.

"To me it is no more unthinkable than to say there are enough stores and no more must be started; that there are enough shoe factories and no more must be started. I contend that under any proper conception of American liberty and under the constitution of the United States the government has just as much right to say a man may not start a newspaper as to say he shall not start a saw mill.

Attacks Limit on Cotton.

"The government has just as much right to say there are too many newspapers as to say there is too much cotton being grown. It has as much right to reduce the size of newspapers and turn the printers on the street as it has to force the reduction of cotton and turn the share-croppers onto the highway. The government has as much right under the constitution to say that the great newspapers of the country should be limited in circulation and curtailed in issue as it has by law to curtail the acreage of our wheat fields.

"I am not now speaking of the respective effects or attempting to measure the effects of either; I am speaking of the rights under American law and under American conception of government. American liberty is not that kind of liberty which can be classified and enlarged or limited according to the respective stations and occupations of the citizens of the United States. The initiative, the volition, the right to choose his calling or his profession is just as sacred under our constitution to the humblest citizen as it is to the most powerful, intellectually or financially.

Basic Law Shields Others.

"I do not overlook express mention in the constitution of the press. But the constitution is just as explicit, in legal effect, in protecting the personal rights, privileges, and liberties of the people generally. Let us be frank and deal with realities.

"A free press in a country where each and every citizen is not equally free to choose his calling or profession and within general law to pursue it, select his industry or business, plant, sow, and reap according to his judgment, free from the fickle, arbitrary hand of burocracy, is only a temporary delusion. If the government can take away the right to grow cotton and force the grower to plant according to some bureau's judgment, and thereby force thousands to the point of starvation, it is only a question of time, and it has always been so, until this creeping paralysis of burocracy benumbs the hand of the editor.

"I do not call this Nazism. God forbid! I do not claim it is Fascism or communism. It is none of these. It is simply that meddlesome, irritating, confusing, undermining, destructive thing called burocracy.

"It is that form of government which steals away man's rights in the name of the public interests and taxes him to death in the name of recovery. Of all forms of government which have ever been permitted to torture the human family, the most burdensome, the most expensive, the most demoralizing, the most devastating to human happiness, and the most destructive of human values is a burocracy. It has destroyed every civilization upon which it has fastened its lecherous grip.

"It must be perfectly plain that the principal work of recovery depends upon the initiative, self-reliance, the resourcefulness, and the energy of the private citizen. There are a vast number of things which must be done in connection with recovery which can only be done upon his initiative and upon his judgment and his hope. This arbitrary treatmept of men who made this country, who are in no sense responsible for the depression, this restraint superinducing fear and confusion, retards recovery and will retard it indefinitly.

"If permitted to act under general just and equal laws, with an adequate monetary system and an adequate banking system, protected from the exactions of monopoly, free also from the restraint and dictation of burocracy, the people will win this war against depression. Destroy their morale, and the fight is lost.

"The men and women upon whom this burocratic régime falls most heavily are not the men and the women who brought on this depression. It did not originate in the laziness, or incompetency, of the farmer, and the farmer should not now be treated as if he were unworthy of confidence.

"This depression did not originate in the dishonesty of the ordinary business man or his inability to conduct his business. He should not be destroyed.

Blames War for Depression.

"The great contributing causes to this depression were, first, a great war which destroyed lives and property; secondly, the continued burden of armaments after the war, which drained the national budgets and extorted from the people vast sums they sorely needed in their daily lives; third, speculation by which large sums of money were drained from the pockets of the people; fourth, a monetary system which could be and was so manipulated as to leave a large portion of the human family without this indispensable factor in civilization; fifth, a banking system which permitted all money to be drawn from the areas of production and development into the channels of speculation and gambling; sixth, an unconscionable waste of public money, city, county, state, and national, imposing a tax burden upon the people which discouraged all lines of business.

"Lastly, the most immediate and most important at this time of all, was the hold which monopoly had secured upon the earnings and savings of the people throughout the entire country.

Monopoly Also Called Factor.

"For 50 years monopolies and combines had been seizing upon all sources of supply, all natural resources, all those things which the people must have in their daily lives and had practically fixed the price at which the people should enjoy them. This was one of the great contributing causes to that condition in which, even in a time of so-called prosperity, 70 million of our people had an income of less than $300 a year, and in which it is estimated that four per cent of the people owned 80 per cent of our wealth. To me, this is the most vital problem before the American people today.

"The hold which monopoly has upon the politics of this country is vividly disclosed by recent political history. In the last campaign the successful party denounced the party in power for 'fostering the merger of competitive business into monopolies' as one of the 'chief causes of the present disaster.' That party was right. But when this party took charge of the government, one of the first things it did was to suspend the anti-trust laws and monopoly was never more unrestrained or more ruthless than at the present time.

Monopoly Difficult Issue.

"Now the defeated party, looking about for issues, seems wholly unwilling to touch this vital issue. Neither in the statement at Chicago or in recent statements has there been the slightest reference to an issue which affects every home in the United States. With small business struggling for existance against fostered and protected monopoly, with the consumers feeling more and more the extortionate weight of monopoly, party leaders are dumb.

"The so-called party leaders of the two great parties may believe they can smother this issue in this campaign. But they were never more mistaken in their lives. If I can get the radio about the middle of October I shall report progress on this issue.

"But I have digressed to some extent from the main thought. I was saying that these are the causes, as I see them, of this depression. It is not overproduction, where forty million people are on the border line of want. Small business had no part in bringing on the depression, and should not be punished.

Tells Personal Acts.

"Now, so long as the fight is for the correction of the things, the abuses which have brought us to our distress, I have supported, and shall support, this administration, or any administration, regardless of politics. But the effort to fasten a strangle hold system of burocracy upon the people generally, to place producers and small business in a network of laws and rules and regulations which not only embarrasses the people but aggravates their distress, I shall oppose in every way I know. And I shall during the summer and autumn, as best I may, present these matters to the people of this country and urge them to ask the leaders at Washington to loosen the grip of burocracy upon the daily lives and habits of the people."

SMASH 2D AUTO RING WITHIN 24 HOURS; 4 JAILED

Quiz Nine Purchasers of Stolen Cars.

Arrest of four alleged members of an automobile theft ring, the second such group to be taken in custody within 24 hours, was announced yesterday by the state's attorney's office.

The four men who are held, it is charged, hand formed a complete organization for stealing, altering, and selling stolen automobiles, as well as for disposing of surplus parts and tires.

Meanwhile the police announced that they had obtained a confession from Earl Estep, chief figure of the first group, whose arrest was announced Tuesday night, and had locked up eight men suspected of collaborating with him. Nine other persons who had bought stolen cars from Estep, including a physician and a school teacher, were questioned and released.

Arrest Nine, Free Five.

Nine men were taken into custody originally as members of the second ring by Sergts. Bert Gray and John Kelly of the state's attorney's police. Five were released later and the other four, Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan announced, will appear today in the Automobile court, each on six charges of larceny of an automobile. The six are:

CHARLES HOFFMAN, 3023 Logan boulevard, one of the owners of the Guarantee Auto Parts company, 2115 State street.

ISADORE SMITH, 1824 South Lawndale avenue, partner of Hoffman.

LOUIS VINE, 3314 Polk street, owner of a garage at 823 Cermak road.

MANUEL HORWITZ, 4912 Armitage avenue, another employé of the group.

Vine, police said, made a partial confession. Hoffman and Smith denied any part in the operations of the ring, and former Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Hoffman, a distant relation of Hoffman, asserted that he was a victim of a false accusation and that he would demand an immediate hearing for him.

Free Other Employés.

The five men arrested and later released were Peter Hoffman and Sidney Smith, brothers and employés of the two partners; James Rose, 3526 South California avenue, employé of the parts concern; William Howard, 3501 South California avenue, a mechanic there, and Frank Gies, 2119 Federal street, a watchman for the company.

According to Sergt. Gray, the first move of the ring in its illegal operations was to send one of the members to some downstate town to purchase, at junk prices, an automobile which had been wrecked in an accident. The wrecked cars were taken to a warehouse operated by the ring in the neighborhood of Clark street and Archer avenue.

Next, police charge, Vine would order the theft of a car of the same model as the wrecked one. This would be taken to Vine's garage. Police recovered seven partially stripped cars there.

Protected by Bill of Sale.

The body and other parts necessary to completely renovate the wrecked car were stripped from the stolen one. The wrecked car, having been repaired, could then be sold safely, since the ring held a valid bill of sale for it. Spare parts from the stolen car were taken to the Guarantee company and sold, police said.

Prosecutor Coghlan charged that during the month of March the ring stole and stripped from 18 to 20 cars to renovate wrecks. In the last 18 months, he asserted, the outfit has been responsible for 100 thefts.

The first arrests in the other ring, with which Estep has admitted his connection, were made Monday. He owned three garages, a public one in the rear of his home, 3331 North Oconto avenue, another at 7340 Belmont avenue, and a third, private garage used occasionally for storage purposes.

Bought From Hoodlums.

Estep, according to Sergt. Fred O'Day of the special automobile theft detail, confessed that several months ago he was approached by a group of hoodlums who offered to sell him stolen automobiles at $15 each. Estep said, according to Sergt. O'Day, that he and his mechanic, Thomas Brent, 3335 North Oconto avenue, who was arrested with him Monday, then stripped the cars, interchanging motors, bodies and accessories.

Estep asserted that he had failed to make any money in the business. This, Sergt. O'Day said, was probably because he gave too large a trade-in allowance to his customers. Police discovered that he was paying his mechanic, Brent, smaller wages than those set by the NRA scale for garages.

Police Trap Seven More.

The other seven men in custody were arrested when they drove to Estep's garages in cars found to have been stolen. Police are trying to determine whether they had guilty knowledge of Estep's activities, or were merely customers. Some of them, it is suspected, may have been salesmen for Estep.

The seven held are Walter Schooth, 3131 North 72d court; Ray Galioto, 2500 North 74th avenue; Del Bohn, 3010 North Alcott avenue; Floyd Ferguson, 4856 West North avenue; Ralph Holt, 1953 Fletcher street; Morris Nelson, 3355 North Octavia avenue; and Lloyd Lindeman, Westmont, Ill.

After he had confessed Estep drove about with police and showed them the homes of customers to whom he had sold stolen cars, but whose names he did not know. He also directed them in the recovery of two truckloads of spare parts and tires which he had feared to sell lest they be recognized as stolen. Altogether 25 stolen cars which he had sold were recovered.

ARRESTED ON ROBBERY CHARGE.

Alvin Price, 25 years old, 675 North Clark street, was arrested yesterday on charges of taking $10 from Frank Smith, 5311 Glenwood avenue, in a robbery. Price, who said he was an actor, attacked Smith near Ontario and Clark streets.

Bengal Tiger Arrives at Zoo

50,914 See Animals

With seven new specimens, including a pair of Bengal tigers, added to the collection of rare birds and animals, the Chicago Zoölogical Gardens in Brookfield yesterday attracted a crowd of 50,914, the second largest since its opening last Sunday when there were 58,302 visitors.

Hundreds of visitors were entertained by the efforts of keepers to unload the two huge tigers. The female, apparently the more venturesome of the pair, was first to enter their new domain, but it was nearly an hour before the male could be induced to join her.

These two beasts, along with a pair of African baboons, a pair of Sudan crown cranes and a leopard tortoise, also from Africa, were brought to the zoo by Christopher Schultz, a professional collector.

Zoo attendants' only difficulty with the day's crowd, which was orderly, was in regard to dogs. These are not allowed inside the gardens, and many persons experienced trouble finding a place to leave their pets. The zoo officials have decided to remedy this situation by building kennels where dogs may be checked free of charge.

EVERY $9 SPENT IN RELIEF COSTS $1 FOR SPENDING

More than 10 per cent of the funds expended by unemployment relief in Illinois during the year ending May 1 went for administrative costs, according to data made public yesterday by the Illinois emergency relief commission.

Of the year's outlay of $73,081,772 for relief, $7,840,847 was used in administering the funds. The administrative costs varied considerably from month to month and in the different counties. The high point in costs was in February, 1934, when $678,821 was spent. The least was in May, 1934, when $570,964 was spent.

More than two-thirds of all the relief funds were spent in Cook county. The average cost of administration in this county, however, was below the average for the state as a whole.

NEW PREMIER OF JAPAN RETAINS FOREIGN CHIEF

Makes War Against Graft His Platform.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 5.—[Thursday.]—Admiral Keisuke Okada, retired, who was named to succeed Makoto Saito as premier, lost no time today in starting to work on the selection of his cabinet. Frugal almost to the point of eccentricity, Okada had the cobwebs removed from the Japanese room of the premier's official residence, where Takeshi Inukai, then premier, was slain two years ago. He has made this room, which is bare of any furniture or decorations, his headquarters. There he sits on the matted floor.

KEISUKE OKADA.

After consulting briefly with Saito the new premier requested Gen. Senjuro Hayashi, minister of war, and Mineo Osum, minister of navy, to remain in the cabinet. It is felt that both will stay.

Retains Foreign Minister.

It was also announced that Koki Hirota, foreign minister, will remain, but it is not likely that Finance Minister Viscount Korekiyo Takahashi nor Home Minister Baron Tatsuo Yamamoto will stay in the cabinet, but their policies probably will be carried out, as Okada has asked them to recommend their successors.

Accordingly, the government is expected to follow the general lines of the policies set down by Saito, and, like Saito's, the new government will be a national government.

Because one of the principal platforms of his government will be to clean up graft, and because the government is expected to be a symbol of honesty, the gifts which are pouring into his home from all parts of the country are being shipped back as soon as they arrive.

As a further step to clean up graft Former Minister of Commerce Kumakichi Nakajima was summoned today by the procurator's office for questioning regarding the deal in stock of the Imperial Rayon company, which involved the deputy finance minister and caused the downfall of the Saito cabinet.

Goes to Small Hotel.

After a busy day and night, Okada left the premier's residence at 10 o'clock last night and motored toward his home. However, he suddenly changed his mind en route and directed his chauffeur to drive to a small hotel, the Mapei. Evidently he realized that hundreds of persons would be waiting at his tiny residence, in a narrow alley, to congratulate him, or ask favors, and that noisy lantern processions were being staged there. Upon his arrival, he ordered the dumfounded clerk to give him a room.

"I want some sleep tonight, but be absolutely sure to wake me at 8 o'clock in the morning," he said.

Why Okada preferred the Mampei to the Imperial hotel, which is the only proper hotel for celebrities, none is able to explain, except by pointing out that the Mampei is cheaper.

Will Pilot Naval Negotiations.

Okada's selection as premier is regarded in most circles here as an ideal one.

Naval circles especially are convinced that Okada is the only man capable of safely piloting the nation through the naval conference next year. They feel that Saionji selected Okada because he realized that the conference will be of the utmost importance to Japan's future.

WAR ON GRAFT, PRICE BOOSTERS DECLARED IN RUSSIA; FIVE SHOT

MOSCOW, July 4.—(AP)—Young communists and the Russian press were drafted today for a war on thieves and speculators said to be exploiting the public through excessive prices, short weights and measures and inferior goods.

The communist party's inspection committee announced it has taken up the gage of battle to rid the country of small and large graft. Kulaks [land owning peasants] are among those upon whom the lash may fall.

In a speech which Lazar Kaganovitch, committee chairman, recently made he appealed to housewives generally and all party and non-party members to join in a drive against dishonesty in shops and industries and in collective and state farms and transport systems.

Although there has been a thorough cleaning of the communist party, Kaganovitch said, many bad elements remain.

This, he said, was shown at Kiev, where five communists were shot for coöperating with speculators.

He also mentioned graft which was discovered in the oil marketing trust, the fur trust and the glass industry. He said a merciless fight is necessary everywhere to checkmate thieves.

The balanced headache relief!

HEADACHES are more than merely dull pains in the head. They upset the whole nervous system.

No mere pain-killer can relieve this condition as a whole. But Bromo-Seltzer is a balanced preparation of 5 medicinal ingredients. Each has a special purpose.

Dull head pain disappears. Gas on the stomach is relieved, too. You are gently relaxed. The citric salts are promptly absorbed as alkali and counteract harmful acid accumulations. The relief is more lasting.

Have Bromo-Seltzer handy at all times. Dependable . . . contains no narcotics . . . and doesn't upset the stomach. Sold in all drug-stores in bottles for the home or office medicine cabinet and in doses at the soda-fountain.

PWA $13,000,000 PLANS BORE INTO STATE BUSINESS

61 New Illinois Projects Approved by Ickes.

New instances of the spread of governmental agencies throughout industry to compete with private enterprise came to light in a list disclosed yesterday of 61 public works administration projects just approved by Secretary of the Interior Ickes. Through these projects another $13,170,000 is to be poured into Illinois.

Among them is the grant and loan of $477,000 to the city of Centralia in Marion county to construct an electric power generating plant. It is to be completed within twelve months and at the end of that period it will supply current to residents of Centralia and the countryside in direct competition with a half million dollar plant of the Illinois Power and Light corporation already in operation there.

Frank Invasion of Field.

That these protests were considered is shown by the brief description of the project included in the PWA bulletin which accompanied the new approved list.

The bulletin states: "The project provides for the construction of a $477,000 steam generating electric power plant to operate in competition with an existing utility."

The sixty-one new projects approved for the state brought the total awarded to Illinois to 103. In the form of loans and grants, usually both, the PWA has provided $74,331,751 for Illinois.

The complete list, showing the project and the amount of public funds awarded in each case, is subjoined. The asterisk indicates those projects to which the PWA makes outright grants; the remainder are 70 per cent loans and 30 per cent grants:

TAXES TO EAT UP FIFTH OF INCOME IN U. S. THIS YEAR

Estimate Is Made by Commerce Body.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—[Special.]—The American taxpayer this year will pay out approximately one-fifth of the total national income to foot the tax bill for federal, state, and local governments, the United States Chamber of Commerce estimated today.

Tax levies in 1934 are expected to aggregate 9 billion dollars, according to a report by William Fortune of Indianapolis, a member of the chamber's special committee on taxation.

"If our national income, which was estimated to be 39 billion 800 million dollars for 1933, should reach 45 billion dollars this year, taxes will take 20 per cent," Mr. Fortune pointed out. "In most years of the decade prior to the depression, taxes took no more than 10 to 11 per cent of the national income."

And That's Not All.

The boost in the nation's tax bill, Mr. Fortune declared, does not tell the whole story of a rapidly rising cost of government, however. In addition to the collection of one-fifth of the national income in taxes, he asserted, federal, state, and local governments are indulging in gigantic borrowings to cover the difference between their income and expenditures.

"It is not now possible to forecast the extent of state and local deficits likely to be incurred in 1934 on account of operating expenses and capital outlays," Mr. Fortune stated. "In 1933 state and local governments borrowed 1,300 millions from lending agencies established by the federal government and through the sale of bonds to private investors. Allowing 500 millions for debt retirement that year would mean a net increase of 800 million dollars in the total debt of such units in 1933.

Need Good Credit for Recovery.

"Good public credit is a prerequisite to any substantial business recovery," the tax expert warned. "If the credit of our government is to be preserved it is axiomatic that budgets should be brought into balance. A policy of debt financing with rapid and continuous increase in the public debt cannot be continued for long without producing difficulties of the first magnitude. Borrowings are merely deferred taxes. Interest charges mount. It usually costs our government a dollar of interest for each dollar of debt retired.

"It is not correct to dismiss demands for budgetary balances by stating that heavy public expenditures contribute to business recovery and, therefore, large borrowings are justified as a means of ending the depression.

Sees Need for Greater Scrutiny.

"In periods of economic difficulty, wher revenues fall off, it may be feasible to defer some taxes and avoid tax increases by increasing governmental borrowings. Essential services must be maintained and certain additional expenditures, such as those for relief, become necessary. Supplementary borrowings, however, must not b allowed to become so great as to increase public indebtedness to unmanageable proportions. Such a borrowing policy calls for greater scrutiny of all expenditures.

"We need a policy of realism with respect to curtailment of governmental expenditures as well as with respect to the proportion of the national income which may be taken for governmental purposes."

INDIANS ASK RIGHT TO DRINK BEERS, WINES

Wapato, Wash., July 4.—(AP)—The right to buy and drink light wines and beer so there will be less temptation to imbibe "fire water," long forbidden to them is being asked of the federal government by Indians of the Pacific Northwest.

"Everybody was equal under the prohibition law," the Indians say "red men and white men broke the law, now the Indians are discriminated against."

Nealy N. Olney, Indian justice of the peace, and a leader of the movement in this district, said:

"The Indians feel it is unfair for other citizens to permit the federal and state Indian liquor laws to remain on the statute books.

"The Indians were made citizens during Wilson's administration and during prohibition all were alike and bought bootleg liquor, but since repeal the Indians are the only customers of some illicit dealers.

"The prohibition law did not stop whites or Indians from drinking. We do not know why the lawmakers believe the Indian liquor laws of many years ago are going to stop them when the prohibition law failed to do so."

DEPUTY CHARGES WALLACE THREW PAPERS IN FACE

'Too Sleepy to Know,' Is Secretary's Reply.

Baltimore, Md., July 4.—(AP)—Angered when aroused from his Pullman berth to be served with papers naming him as a defendant in a test case of the agricultural adjustment act, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace hurled the papers back into the face of E. Norris Becker, United States deputy marshal.

Secretary Wallace had been named among the defendants in the suit instituted in the United States District court by the Royal Farms dairy of Baltimore, questioning the constitutionality of the act. The plaintiff also asked an injunction to restrain the AAA from examining its books.

Judge Wants Wallace Story.

The government had asked for dismissal of the action as the secretary could not be brought into Maryland to answer to the suit and he was an essential party to the case. Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut denied the petition, but said the secretary of agriculture's appearance at the hearing would be necessary.

"I picked the paper up off the floor," the deputy marshal related, "and handed it back to him and told him that I wanted him to understand that he was under orders to appear in the United States District court at Baltimore July 23.

"He threw the summons back at me again. So then I just laid it down on top of him in his berth and walked off."

Secretary Wallace also was served with a summons by Deputy Sheriff B. Hannegan of Baltimore city to appear at a hearing on a similar suit instituted by the dairy company in the Circuit court No. 2 of Baltimore.

Wallace too Sleepy.

Chautauqua, N. Y., July 4.—Secretary Wallace said tonight he does not know whether he hurled back a summons at a deputy United States marshal or merely repulsed an intruder into his Pullman berth at Odenton, Md.

"I was too sleepy and tired really to know," the secretary declared.

United States Deputy Marshal Becker reported he attempted to serve the summons on Wallace last night at Odenton, but the secretary angrily threw it into his face.

Expecting Freakish Act.

Wallace said here he was "expecting some kind of nutty performance" because he had been warned by his secretary that a man, representing himself to be a member of the party, had obtained the number of Wallace's berth.

At Odenton, Wallace continued, an attempt was made to place a package of papers in the berth, but he tossed them out.

"The man made a second attempt to put the package in the berth and said something about being a United States marshal," Wallace related.

"I informed him he was invading the privacy of my domicile and I could see no adequate reason for disturbing me; also that if he were a marshal there was plenty of time for serving papers later."

RENO ATTACKS WALLACE FARM PLAN TO MINERS

Belleville, Ill., July 4.—(AP)—Charges that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and the administration have betrayed Democratic platform pledges were made today by Milo Reno of Des Moines, president of the Farmers' Holiday association. He spoke at a Progressive miners' picnic.

"I charge Secretary Wallace and the administration with a base betrayal of the covenant made between them through the Democratic platform and the American farmer," Reno said, "and I assert, that unless they redeem this pledge, they immediately should resign their offices." Reno termed the recent confirmation of Rexford G. Tugwell as undersecretary of agriculture "the most contemptible and reprehensive action ever taken by congress."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

THE Fourth of July holiday here on the farm found everybody on the place taking a day's rest from the strenuous work of cultivating crops, fighting chinch bugs, and other jobs which are pressing at the height of the growing season. Of course, the boys had their chores to do early in the morning, but after this job was completed everybody was free to do as he pleased during the day.

As far as I could tell, the Hereford steers here on the farm didn't change their schedule for the holiday. Fourth of July to them was just another day of big meals, plenty of cool water to drink, and idle hours standing in the shade. These good looking white faced steers have been going on a night feeding shift lately. [Not that one can blame them when the weather is hot!] The animals go out to their pasture around dark and the whole gang wades into the clover and oats until early morning. At this time you can see them coming up the lane to drink in the cattleyard. After emptying the water tanks the steers find shady spots around the barns and under trees, where they loaf until noon. Following a short trip to the pasture for what must constitute a "lunch" for a steer, they come back to the cattleyard around 3:30 p. m. and stay around until late evening. This herd of cattle is in excellent condition. Some of them weighed before the Fourth of July averaged around 900 pounds.

"Keep your eyes on the chinch bugs" is the watchword here on the experimental farm these days. Everybody is standing by ready to jump into a knockdown fight with these pests.

Clarence has had a ten foot strip of ground ploughed around an oat field where the bugs now are concentrated. This strip of ground, separated from the oats by a deep furrow, is kept worked up so that the soil is very fine. The bugs do not relish climbing up a steep furrow in which they sink down almost out of sight. At the present time they are not moving much anyway.

But if they do start marching toward the young corn the boys have a big supply of creosote ready to put down so that the chinch bugs will be trapped along the furrow. Clarence said yesterday that he was going to Joliet to add to his present supply of creosote because he doesn't have enough on hand for the coming "battle" with the bugs.

Louis Thurow was showing me how the chinch bugs had even invaded his garden plot. He has a small garden with potatoes, sweet corn, and other vegetables planted. The sweet corn planted fairly early in the spring is now so high and the stalks so hard that the chinch bugs can't damage it. Louis showed me a few bugs on his corn, very few compared to the hundreds now running over the late crop of sweet corn. This late corn is only about 15 or 16 inches high. On the stalks are hundreds of the tiny chinch bugs slowly eating the life out of every plant. Small as this garden plot is, it didn't take the little pests very long to find the corn crop and get busy.

Queen, the frisky little filly belonging to Lady, the Belgian mare here on the farm, ought to have had some kind of a beauty parlor treatment before the Fourth of July celebration here on the farm, because her coat looks awfully funny these days. She is growing a new coat of hair with the result that in some places she has short, sleek hair and in others patches of dead and fairly long hair that gives her a spotty appearance. However, she is fat and healthy, and developing into a mighty fine little animal.

British King's Second Son Victim of Blood Poisoning

LONDON, July 4.—(AP)—The duke of York, second son of King George of England, was suffering today from blood poisoning in the left hand, and was ordered by his doctors to take a complete rest for the next few days. The duke had intended to go tomorrow to Sheffield where he had an engagement to open a new new library. The duchess of York will fulfill the engagement alone.

MASS EXIT FROM CAPITAL STAGED BY NEW DEALERS

Rain of Propaganda Stops for a Day.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—[Special.]—The New Dealers are so scarce in this town today that it would be a cinch for the Ku Klux Klan, or even the Anti-Saloon league, to descend upon the capital and forcibly seize the government. But maybe they don't want it now.

At any rate, after a steady deluge for sixteen months, the rain of propaganda has stopped for a day and the newspaper reporters have a respite for the first time since March 4, 1933. It is true that that old renegade, Bill Borah, had to mess things up by making a speech here today, but he did his best to make amends by having copies of his remarks in the hands of all correspondents who wanted them last night.

A Few Handouts.

A few scattered handouts came from some of the alphabetical departments of the New Deal, but they were comparatively trivial. Otherwise it was a perfect day. No parades. No new commissions. No messages to congress. Not even a congressman. No presidential decrees with electioneering sentences in every paragraph. No nothin'. It did take some effort on the telephone to get the data on the whereabouts of all the New Dealers, but a newcomer in town did it, with these results:

Mr. Roosevelt is down on the Spanish Main, aboard the Houston, safely out of Washington for at least five weeks. Secretary Roper is just about to lay out his square toed brogans on the soil of Alaska. Secretary Morgenthau is en route to a ranch in Montana where there isn't even a telephone.

Secretary Wallace just had to make a speech but he was good enough to do it in New York state, and at that he got in bad with a deputy marshal—as probably told elsewhere in this paper.

Who Pays? Don't Be Silly.

Secretary Dern sailed yesterday for a month's inspection trip to the Canal Zone. Secretary Swanson is lolling on the cushions on the deck of the presidential motor yacht, the Sequoia, while it put-puts down the Potomac.

Up to this point nothing has been said about who's paying for all these junkets, with the exception of that one by Mr. Morgenthau. Why, the taxpayers are, of course!

Attorney General Cummings is also afloat on the lower Potomac, on a private yacht of a friend of his, name not given. Secretary Hull was lured by a cooling motor drive in the mountains of Virginia. Postmaster General Farley is in New York, helping Jim Junior not to blow his fingers off.

Ickes Keeping Quiet.

Honest Harold Ickes is keeping very quiet in Washington, if he is in Washington. He has a fetish for staying on the job when everybody else is resting. It is usually commented on in the papers. The same may be said for Secretary Perkins, except that she doesn't care what's said in the papers. She is sincere in her dislike for prying reporters, but once in a while she will say a patronizing word to them. Nobody knows where Miss Perkins is today, and nobody — well, nobody knows.

Gen. Johnson, who is getting very tired, physically, and very fed up, mentally, is at Saratoga Springs for a rest. Relief Administrator Hopkins is sailing for Europe. Prof. Tugwell is on or near the Pacific coast. The lesser lights are scattered all over the landscape.

FARM PLANNERS GO TO WISCONSIN NEXT WEEK TO CRUSADE FOR AAA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—[Special.]—The most imposing array of farm planners ever assembled outside the Department of Agriculture building will journey into the hinterlands next week to expound at first hand the values and the virtues of a planned economy for agriculture.

Headed by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace himself, the private brains trust of the farm administration is preparing to descend almost en masse upon Madison, Wis., where the American Institute of Coöperation opens a six day meeting next Monday.

Jerome N. Frank, the Chicago lawyer and ardent disciple of Harvard's Prof. Felix Frankfurter, who now heads the AAA legal tast, will make one of his infrequent personal appearances on the speakers' rostrum. Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, personal economic adviser to Secretary Wallace, will likewise take the stage during the course of the meeting. Dr. H. R. Tolley, chief of the program planning section, will also deliver an address.

Madison being an important dairy center, there will be several additional first hand explanations of the farm administration's widely controverted program for relief of the dairy farmer. And Dr. Fred C. Howe, the AAA consumers' counsel, will discuss the relationship of the consumer and the farmer under the adjustment programs.

NRA MAY REDUCE NUMBER OF NEW STREET MARKERS

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt yesterday announced the specifications for the new street signs to be purchased by the city. The signs will be 26 inches long and 5½ inches wide, and will have five coats of vitreous enamel. The letters will be black against a light yellow background.

Mr. Hewitt said the city had planned to buy 46,000 signs but after bids were received it was learned that the bidders had raised the price from 32 cents a sign to 58 cents because of their NRA code. As the appropriation for the purchase and erection of the signs is only $50,000, the city may not be able to buy as many as it had planned.

Secretary of War Dern to Spend 2 Weeks in Panama

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, July 4.—Secretary of War George H. Dern will arrive in Panama aboard the Panama railroad ship Ancon on July 11, the same day President Roosevelt arrives. Secretary Dern plans a two weeks' visit, during which he will be the guest of Lieut. Col. J. L. Schley, governor of the Canal Zone.

ASKS TO APPEAL REMOVAL HERE OF BLUE EAGLE

Had No Chance to Testify, Jewelry Maker Says.

B. B. Manaster, president of the Crest Specialty company, jewelry manufacturers of 629 West Washington street, whose Blue Eagle insignia of compliance with NRA code regulations were ordered removed on Tuesday dispatched yesterday directly to Gen. Hugh Johnson at Washington a message asking the right to appeal the removal order.

In a telegram sent by his attorney, Clarence Threedy, Manaster asserted that he was unable to send representatives to the hearing at Washington on last Monday afternoon when a tribunal of federal code administrators ruled that his concern was guilty of violating trade practice regulations of the medium and low priced jewelry industry. He avowed that presentation of evidence in his possession would prove his concern guiltless.

Accused by Code Official.

The proceedings against the Crest company were instituted a month ago by Lawrence Baer, head of the Baer-Wilde Jewelry company of Attleboro, Mass.

Baer, who is a member of the national code authority for the medium and low priced jewelry industry, filed a complaint with the code authority, charging that Manaster's concern was manufacturing a chain tie clasp which was similar to his original design.

The code authority ordered Manaster to cease manufacturing the article, but the Chicagoan refused and replied that Baer was using his position as a code authority member to stifle honest competition. Manaster pointed out that the chain tie clasp was first manufactured in 1886 and that Baer's design could hardly be original.

Ignore Chicagoan's Objections.

The code authority then placed the matter in the hands of federal NRA administrators. The administrators are not members of any code authority groups. They are employés on the federal pay rolls and their duty is to act as arbitrators between members of an industry or between code authorities and industry members. The administrators called a hearing in Washington for June 27.

Baer as the complainant in the case appeared before the tribunal of administrators. He presented his charges against Manaster and asked for protection of his design in accordance with the code rules.

Manaster was not present. He has asserted that he had attempted for three days before the hearing was held to have it postponed so that he could be represented.

His objections were ignored, however, and the one sided hearing held.

BIG CELEBRATION OF FOURTH HELD AT TRIBUNE CAMP

City Folk Thrill to Fireworks."

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Camp Algonquin's 500 vacationing mothers and children were tucked into their beds last night after a Fourth so glorious that it will be remembered long after they have returned to the hot, noisy streets of Chicago's most densely populated districts.

Wearing paper hats they had fashioned, the youngsters formed in a parade right after supper. It was a success, judging by the applause; but what was more successful was the ice cream and fireworks which the D. & W. Ice Cream company of Elgin, E. McKay of Algonquin, and the Thearle Duffield Fireworks company never fail to provide for this annual celebration.

The fireworks, of course, brought one exclamation after another as the blazing colors burst far out over the Fox river. Some of the youngsters never had seen fireworks before, and for many a mother it was their first real Fourth of July fireworks celebration since they were almost as small as their children.

Only enough money to send two persons to camp for two weeks was received yesterday by the Camp Algonquin fund. One of the two contributions was sent by the Oakwood Thimble club, Downers Grove, a club of ten girls who earned their $2.30 gift by exhibiting their work and conducting a food sale. The other contributor was J. D. Goss, who sent $12.50. This gives the camp fund a grand total of $433.56.

Gifts to the Algonquin fund and the free ice fund which supplies ice to babies and invalids may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

SOCIETY WOMAN PLUNGES TO HER DEATH IN N. Y.

New York, July 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Natalie M. Farmer, New York society woman, jumped or fell to her death today from the window of her room on the 17th floor of the Hotel Commodore. The case was officially recorded as suicide.

Mrs. Farmer, who was 50 years old, had been in ill health for some time. She was the daughter of the late David Michell Morrison and Mrs. Abby Putnam Morrison. Her husband, Allen B. Farmer of Boston, died in March, 1933.

Mrs. Farmer registered at the hotel late Tuesday. She gave 1049 Park avenue as her home address. Police notified Miss Natalie P. Farmer, who immediately returned to New York from Atlantic Beach, N. Y. The daughter said her mother had just returned from a trip to Gloucester, Mass.

"The trip was too much for her," the daughter said. "She was subject to dizzy spells and apparently was stricken with one in her room."

STATE SOLDIERS READY TO RULE FRISCO'S DOCKS

California Owns Railway Serving Wharves.

San Francisco, Cal., July 4.—(AP)—California National Guard was ordered to stand ready today for riot duty on the docks to protect state owned property with the use of a new "vomiting gas."

The orders were issued by Adjt. Gen. Seth Howard after the death of one man following the outbreaks yesterday.

Acting Governor Frank Merriam warned San Francisco dock strikers that they must cease interfering with operations of the Belt line railroad, which is a part of the state's property.

The adjutant general said he was ready to place 1,000 to 5,000 Guardsmen on the state wharves.

The new gas causes violent nausea and a "splitting headache," rendering the victims helpless for at least two days.

Dies of Skull Fracture.

Argonne Reinhardt, or Riley, 34, a former Los Angeles sailor, died from a skull fracture, bringing the total fatalities in Pacific coast ports to four since the strike began May 9.

Gov. Merriam said at Sacramento he was ready to act immediately if the strikers continued their interference with the state owned railroad on the water front. Train crews refused to move 14 box cars to the Matson line docks when a crowd of 300 pickets muttered threats.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt's labor disputes board called a hurried meeting to determine whether the strikers were willing to submit the situation to arbitration.

Fears for Train Crews.

A. R. Pidgeon, superintendent of the Belt Line railroad, said the lives of trainmen would be in jeopardy if they manned the engines without protection. The state also owns the piers which are leased to steamship companies.

Mayor Angelo Rossi of San Francisco declared he believed the police here were able to handle the situation.

Lewis R. Benett, 25, son-in-law of A. F. Haines, vice president of the American Mail Line, was dragged from a taxicab at Seattle and beaten by pickets.

SOUTH SIDE FIRE CAUSES $15,000 JUNK YARD LOSS

A $15,000 fire swept a junk yard and an adjacent pickers' yard at 1128 to 1133 Fairfield avenue yesterday, gutting a 2 story brick building at 1128.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, was discovered by Jack Gook, junk yard watchman. A 5-11 alarm was turned in when it was feared that the blaze might spread throughout the block from the blazing barrels of waste paper in the pickers' yard.

Trafic along Roosevelt road was interrupted for an hour before firemen under Chief Joseph F. Sullivan of the Fifteenth battalion brought the flames under control.

FIRE DAMAGES SHOW WINDOW.

A fire broke out yesterday in the show window of the Bata Shoe company store at 165 North State street. It was quickly extinguished by firemen. The damage was estimated at $20.

"It's good to feel FIRST CLASS again"

. . . to enjoy once more the finer things to which one has been accustomed. What if one found it expedient, to forego the pleasure and prestige of crossing First Class? The important thing is that Cunard White Star makes that no longer necessary.

Do you know, for instance, that First Class staterooms with private bath (many double their former size) in the Berengaria, Majestic, Aquitania, or Olympic are now available for as little as $219 . . . and that outside rooms cost as little as $211.

Take your car along as baggage. No wonder the trend is definitely back to Cunard White Star First Class again! There's no substitute for a First Class Ticket.

EUROPEAN TRAVEL COSTS ARE DOWN!

Compared to 1926, the "year of normalcy", First Class steamship rates are reduced by as much as 40%. Railroad fares average 30% less. Hotel rate reductions are down an average of 36%. Send for folder which proves European Travel cheaper in 1934, despite foreign exchange differentials.

A WARNING FROM CANADA.

In a carefully prepared address recently delivered by the president of the Canadian Pacific railway against the continued operation of the Canadian National Railways by the government, Mr. E. W. Beatty has included an outline of the development of publicly owned railways in Canada which we have found very interesting. The facts are claimed to be unassailable.

Thirty-four years ago Canada had no railway problem worth mentioning. The first track of the dominion amounted to 17,384 miles, which was being supported by a population of five million people. It might be observed that even then the miles of railroad per capita was far greater than that of the United States. Individually, the Grand Trunk, with well located lines in Quebec and Ontario, and with American extensions to the seaboard and Chicago, was soundly entrenched. The Canadian Pacific, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, was in a safe financial position and the only uneconomical operation was that of the government owned Intercolonial railway, then, as always, the football of federal politics.

The province of Manitoba created the first problem by acquiring certain private lines within the province and leasing them to a short line called the Canadian Northern. Directly thereafter the owners of the Canadian Northern developed an ambitious project to build a transcontinental system. Politicians backed the undertaking with spirit. To be able to promise any doubtful or wavering constituency a new line of railway was good election material, and in the end the dream was accomplished, based on a bonded financial structure which had been guaranteed by the provinces and the dominion. The older Grand Trunk system was not to be outdone. It, too, entered into a contract with the government for extensive expansion—nothing less than a third transcontinental system. By 1916 seven and one-half million Canadians were attempting to support forty thousand miles of rails, an increase of 133 per cent in railway mileage and only about 50 per cent in population. Experts figure that the United States has 40 per cent too much railway mileage with an average of 2,120 miles per each million inhabitants. Canada had 5,350 miles per each million inhabitants.

The whole structure crumbled and fell and the taxpayers were forced to assume a debt burden of nearly three billion dollars, at the same time acquiring railway property for this expenditure that has not been even self-sustaining. To obscure the real facts it is now being suggested that the greater part of this railway loan should be written off against public debt so as to permit the Canadian National to operate on a "paying basis." This is mere political subterfuge.

In his most important letter to the interstate commerce commission and to congress Coördinator Eastman stated that in his opinion public ownership was the logical cure for railway ills in the United States. Those ills result principally from an age-old railway custom of attacking the traffic of competitors through various methods of equalizing service. It is difficult to follow Mr. Eastman's line of reasoning, except to conclude that he is both grossly exaggerating the present ills and blinding himself to the possibility of political manipulation of these great properties. Men in public life in Canada are no better and no worse than those in the United States. Even under present circumstances, political opportunism has decreed that we shall proceed with a wild orgy of shallow waterway expansion and unnecessary highway construction. Where can Mr. Eastman find the assurance that in a happier day the same forces would not direct further uneconomical railway construction under public ownership?

CRIMINAL POLITICS IN MINNESOTA.

In the June 23 issue of Today begins a series of articles on crime in the United States, of which the first deals with St. Paul. The authors point out that while much can be done by the federal government in assisting improvement of law against crime, the greater responsibility depends upon local agencies and local public opinion. The whole job is too big for the federal authority, no matter how competent and zealous it may be. When these local communities are indifferent to the importance of fighting crime, when they permit gangsters to move about with confidence, when they permit alliances between crooked politicians and criminals, when, for political or other reasons, they hamstring the police, when, because they cannot agree upon the proper means of law enforcement, they leave law enforcement to take care of itself, they create festering sores, which poison not only themselves but other communities."

St. Paul, as this survey shows, was, and although some reforms are planned, still is, a flagrant instance of all these faults. "Years ago, St. Paul virtually rid itself of crime within its own borders. It did this very simply, but victimized its neighbor cities and states. The city gave shelter to criminals provided they did not work' the city." Criminals who entered the city had to report to the police and had to behave within its confines. St. Paul became an asylum to which men who had committed crimes in other states could escape when pursued. It became a refuge from which they could sally forth and strike at their victims in other communities. In St. Paul corrupt politics fattened on this situation and other communities paid the bill. The roster of beneficiaries of this disgraceful system includes the names of some of the worst criminals of recent years.

But St. Paul has not remained immune to consequences. In the Bremer kidnaping case the evil struck home. Even more important was the inevitable effect of the system upon the civic health of the community. No community can afford to tolerate an alliance between its government and crime. The poison seeps into its whole being. In time its own people will suffer directly or indirectly. The effects will ramify throughout its civic affairs. It has set a deadly enemy within its gates. Minnesota's politics has become widely and deeply corrupted, and only an uprising of reputable citizenship can save her. Allied with corrupt politics and officialdom, destructive radicalism has appeared. No American commonwealth confronts or ever has confronted a more serious challenge. It should compel unity regardless of party affiliation as any other consideration upon which men differ and divide.

HOMESPUN DEMOCRACY.

A recent news reel release concerned itself with events here and in Great Britain. The British exhibit was the trooping of the color for the birthday anniversary of King George, and that was pomp and circumstance. The household guards filled the eye. The British ceremonial march contains a frustrated goose step which allows degrees of admiration, but it is at least putting on the dog. Man in his humdrum estate does not mar the scene.

For the American phases of the release there were two main exhibits, graduation day exercises at West Point and Mr. Farley, in that side of him which is postmaster general, dedicating a postoffice. The West Point picture was not of the cadets marching but of Newton D. Baker talking. Few of our statesmen could pass a Hollywood screen test. Mr. Baker does not cause the camera to recoil and the people who see him needn't blink, but democracy did not achieve fuss and feathers at this American ceremonial—only the public speaker with wise saws and modern instances.

Mr. Farley dedicating a postoffice was banked by keen faces expressing a lively sense of favors to come or hope that what already had been obtained would be retained. Mr. Farley, in his concealed essence, is a modern Warwick. At least he can help make them. Even Warwick found there was one he could not unmake. The P. M. is an Important Person. That is why he is P. M. No one around Buckingham palace or in the ministry can deal them off the arm with half the dexterity Mr. Farley would use even in his sleep. When he appears ceremonially there is no pomp and circumstance. A cabinet minister in the Hoover administration wore a high hat and knocked it off entering his car. He has been Walter-High Hat-Brown ever since.

Here—let the fond hope persist in spite of omen or doubt to the contrary—is a democracy, stubborn and, can it be said, unchangeable? The high hat leads but to the political grave. Democracy loves a parade, but it will contain the board of aldermen, the visiting firemen, the fraternal orders, and the ladies' auxiliaries. Democracy to be itself must be that. The citizen on foot may put a feather in his cap and call it macaroni, but he isn't fooling even himself.

Editorial of the Day

WHO'S LOONY NOW?

[Lynchburg, Va., News, Carter Glass & Sons, Publishers.]

When newspaper publishers were fighting for explicit reservation of their constitutional rights in the newspaper code there were those in officialdom and a few newspapers also who pooh-poohed their contention and gravely insisted that they were shadow boxing. There is no possible danger to the freedom of the press in the proposed code, or elsewhere, they insisted. Isn't that freedom guaranteed by the constitution? they asked with an air of finality, a little amusement, and some boredom.

The newspapers won their fight, and the feeling of officialdom was expressed by the President himself, who jeered:

> Of course . . . nobody waives a constitutional right by assenting to a code. The recitation of the freedom of the press clause has no more place here than would the recitation of the whole constitution or the Ten Commandments.

And then there was something about a desire on the part of newspaper publishers to use firetrap buildings and exploit little boys and girls as laborers.

Some newspapers were angered, some were slightly amused, some were a little bored, but all but those who pooh-poohed the fight for explicit reservation of their constitutional rights were content to enjoy the victory and permit the losers to make faces.

Time passed, and then came the Weirton steel case, in which counsel for the steel company pleaded that section 7a of the recovery act was unconstitutional. Thereupon another representative of officialdom, counsel for the government, rose to proclaim:

> The defendant, having applied for approval under the recovery act of a code of fair competition for the steel industry and having obtained the benefits accruing to it under the act by reason of such approval, cannot now attack the constitutionality of the provisions of that code.
> It is a well settled rule in the federal courts that one who has himself voluntarily invoked a statute or who has received the benefits flowing from a statute is estopped later to assert its constitutionality.

In other words, counsel for the government claimed that the constitution did not apply, that constitutional rights had been waived. He was counsel for the same government whose chief executive, agreeing with subordinates, had ha-ha-ed at newspaper publishers when they expressed the fear that the government might take the very attitude the government subsequently did take.

The newspaper publishers were not as nastily sarcastic as the President and they did not indulge in insinuations of evil motive, but they knew governments, and they knew lawyers, and they knew something about Supreme court decisions—the decisions counsel for the government cited in the Weirton case. As the Greenboro Daily News remarks, the contention of the government in the Weirton case wasn't passed upon by the courts and the contention may not be upheld by the Supreme court if the question ever goes that high, but it is somebody else than the newspaper publishers who will be put to the necessity of finding out. They can bear the pooh-poohs, the ha-has with equanimity.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE CELEBRATION of the Fourth of July seems to have been attended with fewer deaths than occurred in Herr Hitler's purging of his Storm Troopers in Germany. There were a larger number wounded, however. Herr Hitler should try to have a law passed forbidding an annual celebration of his great triumph. It isn't the original victory that is so expensive; it's the upkeep.

THERE WAS considerable confusion in Cuba yesterday. Whenever a burst of gunfire was heard in the distance it was hard to say whether it was a group of patriots shooting at the president or an American picnic party celebrating their country's natal day.

AND YESTERDAY OUR sympathies almost changed from the Chinese to the Japs. Whatever you may say, still you must admit that the Japanese didn't invent gunpowder and firecrackers. Every Fourth of July it would not be inappropriate to withdraw to some quiet spot and give three subdued but earnest cheers for the Japs. On the other days of the year of course the case is different.

HERR HITLER had his enemies shot down in the same way that gang killing is carried out in these United States. Only in Germany they didn't even take the doomed people for a ride. They just called them to the door and shot them down from an automobile. In the French revolutions they had imitation courts at least and went through the form of trials. And in Russia the accused were given a drumhead court and formally executed in front of a stone wall. It must be very annoying in Germany to be called out of one's house and filled full of lead and die without knowing whether one were legally executed by the government or shot down by bandits. The debating clubs will now kindly wrestle with the question, "Resolved, That the world is growing better."

AND WHAT PIKERS were Nero, Caligula, the Borgias, Captain Kidd, Bluebeard, Ivan the Terrible, Henry the Eighth, Cortez, Mirabeau, and a lot of those people who used to make us shudder, compared to those who carried out the executions in Germany. I think I'll call for public contributions to build monuments in Washington to Benedict Arnold, Jesse James, and Geronimo the Apache. After all it begins to look as if those boys were just good natured boobs.

SOLICITUDE.

I would to God the pebbles knew
How hard the waters ride;
But stony hearts will ever think
No force can crush their pride.

Oh give them but a poet's breadth,
Rub stone on stone no more,
Imbue them with a buoyant love
And head them for the shore.

A CHICAGO MAN is paying his own way in jail rather than marry the lady who got a judgment against him for breach of promise. And the lady should be happy because she knows where he is all the time, while if she married him goodness knows what time he would get home at night if he came at all.

AND WHY ARREST the young couple who were married in the nude out at the Fair? Anybody that has the nerve to get married these days when nobody knows what's going to happen next or whether they'll have car fare left after they get through paying their income tax oughtn't to have any extra trouble piled on 'em whether they got married in the nude or in all the latest duds from Paris.

So the adventitious ads say . . . pretty soon;
Pretty soon the chronosed curb on

Wherefore wish I with a wishment that is woeful and intense
That some one would inform me, please—and how!
Whilst each lachrymosey blurb on
Dear old vanishing (sic) bourbon
Dims mine eye—wherenell's the good liquor been till now?

MAYBE THE TROUBLE with the Germans is that they don't play much golf. After a man has tramped around eighteen holes and foozled his putt and sliced into the tall grass and lost three balls in the water he doesn't want to murder anybody but that old rascal, Col. Bogie. HOW TO LIVE WITH CHRONIC ARTHRITIS.

ARTHRITIS, the most ancient of all diseases, afflicts in chronic form a large proportion of our population. If pride of ancestry means anything, all persons afflicted with this condition may possibly find comfort in the fact that the Pharaohs of ancient Egypt had arthritis. Unfortunately, in certain cases the disease is disabling in character. With many, however, the chronic course of the disease is mild and slowly progressive. Such persons may acquire the upper hand and rule, even though they do not conquer the disease entirely. They may live in reasonable comfort through the normal span of life.

Just what brings on arthritis is not definitly known. It is probably an infection which may exist in some part of the body. The teeth, tonsils, sinuses, urinary tract, prostate, and many other possible sources of infection have been blamed. There is no doubt that overwork and fatigue have much to do with the development and progress of the disease. Fatigue is mental as well as physical. In fact, the signs of fatigue are equally as noticeable after mental effort as after severe physical strain. Fewer cases will progress to disabling deformities if a rest régime is instituted at the very outset. If a smoldering infection exists in some part of the body it may flare into sudden activity, due to a lowered body resistance.

Once arthritis has been established and recognized, attention must be directed to combating further spread of the disease and to the maintenance of physical efficiency with the following points in mind:

1. Building body resistance. This can be accomplished by rest, proper diet, and relief from physical and mental overload.

2. A definite anemia usually accompanies arthritis, and this must be combated by appropriate means known to physicians. The normal number of cells in the blood is rarely disturbed, although there may be a fairly high level of white cells. The disease has a tendency to destroy hemoglobin, which is the oxygen carrier of the blood, and this must be maintained at a normal level by appropriate medication and food.

3. There is a definite tendency toward the destruction of capillaries in various parts of the body, bringing about a reduction in the blood supply to important structures. Circulation may be stimulated and maintained at normal levels by the use of proper food, sunlight, gentle massage, and moderate exercise. Many mistakes in the treatment of chronic arthritis have been made by attempting massage or manipulation that causes or accentuates pain. In no uncertain terms pain says "no" to massage.

Infection, of course, if present must be gotten rid of and vaccines that may be prepared from bacteria found in various parts of the body will occasionally be of great benefit. No specific diet can be prescribed that will suit all cases. The normal habit of the patient should be considered; for example, obese patients should be reduced in weight by the elimination of fattening foods, and thin patients should have foods of higher nourishing values. For a number of years reduction in the amount of starchy foods has been advocated. Pain, if present, should be controled in order that the rest factor may be given free sway. The special procedure for the control of pain should be determined by the attending physician.

We must learn to live with arthritis. If possible, live it down; if not, the suggestions noted will help to control the disease through improved body hygiene.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SOURCES.

G. M. writes: Arising from your recent article on polio would it be possible that this mysterious disease is carried by dogs—a mild form of summer rabies that does not manifest itself in the customary manner, since dogs have largely immunized themselves to this disease? For many years there was a mysterious disease known as transverse ascending myelitis, causing numbers of deaths in the island of Trinidad, and I was instrumental in showing that this disease was rabies carried by vampire bats.

The nose and mouth as the seat of entry of the milder polio virus suggests that contact with a dog in which Negri bodies were dormant might easily produce a human reaction.

It would be interesting to know what percentage of polio patients come from dog lovers.

REPLY:

An interesting suggestion. It will be passed on to a pathologist who is studying polio.

LIABILITY LIMIT.

Kenosha, Wis., June 6.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Is there any limit as to the liability an insurance company assumes under workmen's compensation insurance? B. O. G.

The liability of an insurance company under a workmen's compensation policy is limited only by the state law. The company assumes all the risk of the employer, regardless of what the liability of any single case may be. The compensation act generally specifies that there is to be no limitation upon the compensation liability assumed by the insurers. Moreover, not only is there no restriction as to liability, but also the liability of the insurance company may be prolonged over a period of years. This may be true in instances where the law specifies a benefit without a time limit in cases of permanent total disability, and in fatal cases to their dependents during a period of dependency. Some states provide that the maximum benefit for permanent total disability is payable for life, while some others provide for a reduced benefit for life in such cases. The workmen's compensation policy therefore, in contrast with liability policies in general, provides a coverage unlimited as to the amount, subject only to the compensation schedule of benefits in each state law. On the other hand, under the employers' liability policy, for example, the company is liable for a definite risk only, the indemnity being subject to a maximum limit for the injury of one person, and to a maximum limit for one accident.

PULLMAN PRACTICES.

Chicago, June 29.—THE TRIBUNE has freely offered advice to the railroads to regain their lost trafic, but did it ever counsel them regarding their scheme with the Pullman company to get extra money from passengers by putting down the upper berth to make them so uncomfortable that a few will yield to extortion and pay to have the upper berth put out of the way? This may not be the worst example of the lack of intelligence of big business, but is probably the worst example of an enterprise depending on public favor and deliberately making its service unattractive in the face of strong competition.

The passenger not only has to suffer the discomfort of having the upper berth down, but the conductor who checks him in seems to have instructions to remind him that it is deliberate and unnecessary by soliciting an extortionate fee to have it removed.

Each month of the year I go to Cincinnati but prefer the tedium of a long drive both ways to the discomfort and aggravation of a lower berth with the upper down. I can drive six or seven times during the open weather, which means, say, $175 of my money that the railroad or the Pullman company will never see. If I get the breaks on the weather I may drive as late as December, perhaps putting the amount over $200. The most that could be extorted from me is $1.50 each way, or $36 a year, but they do not get that as I have an ingrained resistance to gyp games. Sometimes my associates drive with me or in their own cars, but even when they take the train they stand for the gyp only in the hottest weather.

I can wax as caustic as any one on the brain trust and the New Deal, but am often silenced by recollection of the brainless trusts of the old deal.

CAPITAL COMMENTS.

Chicago, June 28.—In my opinion, the "Capital Comments" by your Washington correspondent, Arthur Sears Henning, are the most instructive and interesting of all radio broadcasts, and I hope that he will resume his comments on the news at the capital whenever the conditions justify it. E. R. SHAW.

FIREMEN'S CAPS.

A DEPRIVATION.

Oconomowoc, Wis., June 29.—The President asks us to read the bill of rights and ask ourselves if we have suffered impairment of a single jot of those assurances. My answer is yes, and that would be the answer of many thousands. The bill of rights says, Article 5—"No person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law," and the President, while under oath to observe the constitution, ordered confiscation of 5 per cent of my dividends without any process. Is not that impairment of my rights?

CIVIL WAR VETERAN AND A DEMOCRAT.

A DOUBTING THOMAS.

Chicago, June 30.—After reading President Roosevelt's radio speech Thursday evening the conclusion cannot be escaped that the man is either infallible as regards his New Deal theories or else he is only another astute and egotistic political demagog. In part he said, "The doubting Thomases may be divided roughly into two groups: First, those who seek special political privilege, and second, those who seek financial privilege." The writer is seeking neither but is merely a "doubting Thomas" who would like to see all forms of taxes reduced. Will this come to pass in the near future? ERWIN BAUMRUCK.

THE FORT OF SAN JUAN.

Chicago, June 28.—I notice in your column of June 28 that your correspondent, "Friend of Puerto Rico," states in part: "Pictures of Puerto Rico are displayed featuring San Juan's beautiful entrance with Morro castle standing majestically at the entrance of the harbor."

Having visited Puerto Rico, Cuba, and the Virgin Islands several times, I would be interested to know since when did Morro castle move from the entrance to Havana harbor in Cuba to San Juan harbor in distant Puerto Rico. Admittedly there is a fort at the entrance to San Juan harbor, but it certainly is not Morro castle nor is it of majestic appearance.

As to the "poverty stricken" Virgin Islands, these were not in that condition under Danish rule and their poverty today may be traced directly to the eighteenth amendment which prohibited the production of rum.

AMERICAN DIGNITY.

McGregor, Ia., June 26.—After the shameful way in which England repudiated her huge debt to us only a few days ago, most of us ordinary Americans, who will shoulder this debt for the British subjects through taxation, would much have preferred that the President's mother politely refused the invitation to tea at Buckingham palace. Possibly a little dignity on the part of official America, as well as our large newspapers, will prove more of an "ambassador of good will" than to supinely kotow to these foreigners just after they have kicked our pants. I fear the Europeans feel that we have more money than we have brains to manage it and hold it.

I am of English descent, but their repudiation was too much to stomach. It is significant that it was Britain's first repudiation. If the American public and press were united in demanding collection, different results would have followed. To me it is difficult to discern, from 1917 to the present, whether the eastern people and press are American or British. D. C. CAMERON.

JUDGMENT NOTE.

Chicago, June 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last year my father and I signed a judgment note for $200. We have been unable to pay. Note was made to A, falling due Dec. 11, 1933. Now A has reassigned the note to B, who has given said note to a lawyer for collection. Judgment against my father's property is threatened. 1. Are we both liable for the note? 2. I am out of work and have no property of any kind. 3. At present we are involved in a lawsuit and there is a lien against the property. Could the above lawyer do anything while this lien is in effect? R. K.

1. Yes.

2. This has nothing to do with your liability, but it would probably mean that the creditor could not collect from you.

3. If judgment is recovered it will be a subordinate lien. In other words, if the property is more than sufficient to pay the prior lien then the excess would be devoted to the subordinate lien.

47% OF 1932 TAX PAID TO COUNTY; PUSH COLLECTION

Court Orders Filing of Receiverships.

With last Monday night the penalty deadline for the payment of the second instalment of 1932 taxes, County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash reported yesterday that $100,644,213 or approximately 47 per cent of the current taxes have been collected by his office. Uncollected 1932 taxes total $117,219,274, the treasurer said.

The percentage of collections will amount to over 50 per cent, Nash estimated, after the thousands of letters containing tax moneys which have been mailed to the treasurer's office have been opened and checked.

The following table issued by George Hagenauer, chief auditor for the county treasurer, shows the amount of delinquent taxes collected and due the county as of June 29 with the percentage of collections:

	Collected.	Uncollected.	Per cent col'ted.

Collections of 1932 real estate taxes have amounted to $59,367,141 with $81,211,060 due the county, while collections of 1932 personal property taxes totaled $30,109,206 with $35,001,131 remaining unpaid.

Acting Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of Circuit court has instructed the state's attorney's office to proceed with the filing of the Skarda receivership petitions asking that the county treasurer be appointed receiver of properties delinquent in tax payments.

Grants 195 Refile Petitions.

In the first two days of the week Judge Normoyle has granted 195 petitions presented by Assistant State's Attorney William Crilly under the plan to refile the Skarda receiverships in Circuit court. The court warned protesting attorneys that he will brook no delay in the collection of taxes.

For the eleven months following the passage of the Skarda receivership law on April 28, 1933, collections of real estate taxes with penalties and costs totaled $133,370,127 as compared to the total of $70,257,641 collected during the 11 months preceding the enactment of the act, the treasurer reported.

Collection of delinquent 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes for the period following passage of the Skarda law amounted to $44,744,191 as compared to collections of $14,938,052 during the similar period before enactment of the act.

Soul of Caution, Grocer Mourns His $205.68 Loss

Toledo, O., July 4.—(AP)—Somebody in Toledo had a $205.68 cup of coffee today. Mike Gasparis, grocer, bid $127 in cash and a $78.68 check in his coffee grinder when he closed his store last night. This morning, bright and early, a customer asked for a pound of coffee, ground on the spot. Gasparis' clerk obliged. The coffee was ground. So was the money and the check.

WIDOW OF FAMOUS CASEY JONES MOUNTS TO CABIN IN RAIL FETE

Fulton, Ky., July 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Casey Jones of Jackson, Tenn., widow of that famous engineer who mounted to the cabin and lost his life in a wreck thirty years ago, to be remembered through the years in the lines of a popular song, today took part in a celebration of the 80th anniversary of railroading in West Kentucky and West Tennessee.

Mrs. Jones mounted to the cabin of a replica of a train which ran on the first railroad in West Kentucky July 4, 1854. High officials of the Illinois Central system, who were here with some 10,000 others to take part in the celebration, took a back seat.

With Mrs. Jones was an 89 year old woman, Mrs. Lizzie Brown of near Fulton. Eighty years ago today, on her ninth birthday, Mrs. Brown rode the original pioneer train with her father, Allen Bryant of Mayfield. Judge C. M. Burch of Memphis, general solicitor of the Illinois Central system, gave the principal address.

LODGE TO FIGHT TAX RULING IN SUPREME COURT

Scottish Rite Insists on Staying Exempt.

A test case to decide whether the properties of fraternal organizations and of the Y. M. C. A. are exempt from taxation will be taken to the Illinois Supreme court, according to an announcement yesterday by members of the state tax commission. The Scottish Rite Cathedral association, a Masonic organization, has filed notice of an appeal from the commission's order holding that the association's property at 919 North Dearborn street is taxable.

The association heretofore has not been placed on the assessment rolls because of its contention that it came under the statutory provision exempting property used exclusively for religious, beneficent, philosophical, educational, and charitable purposes."

Reversal Upon Reversal.

It was placed on the 1931 rolls by Assessor J. L. Jacobs with an approximate valuation of $250,000. The assessor has also included two Y. M. C. A. hotel properties on the 1932 rolls for the first time since their exemption charter was granted 63 years ago.

The board of tax appeals, however, held that the Scottish Rite Cathedral association was entitled to exemption. In overruling this exemption Chairman Scott W. Lucas and Prof. Simeon E. Leland, two of the members of the tax commission, held that the property is not used exclusively for religious or philosophical purposes.

Would Reopen Question.

Barnet Hodes, the third member of the commission, indicated that he believed the association should not be taxed, but concurred with the other commissioners in order that the case might be taken to the Supreme court for a final ruling.

"It is my feeling that the whole question of exemptions could very well be reopened in the state of Illinois," Mr. Hodes stated, "so that some forms of property which are now declared exempt because of the present laws but which properly should bear a burden of supporting government could be placed on the tax books. But this, of course, is a matter for the legislature after the Supreme court has indicated its stand."

Bishop Henry Althoff of Bellville Received by Pope

VATICAN CITY, July 4.—(AP)—Pope Pius granted an audience today to Bishop Henry Althoff of Belleville, Ill., talking to him for 20 minutes on diocesan affairs. The pope imparted his apostolic blessing. Bishop Althoff presented to the pontiff Father John Fallon, diocesan superintendent of schools; Father Francisa Beykirch, who is studying at Gregorian university in Rome, and two Belleville ecclesiastical students in Rome.

SUNSHINE LADY'S AID IN MURDER IS CAPTURED

Tells Sherif He Did "Good Deed for Community."

Jefferson, Wis., July 5 [Thursday].—(AP)—Sherif Joseph T. Lange of Jefferson county this morning said that he had captured George [Slim] King, who had made a full confession of the slaying of Earl B. Gentry, former bodyguard to the leader of Indiana klandom.

Known about Jefferson as "Slim" King, the slayer, Lange said, told him his name is Carl B. Church, that he is 36 years old and was born in Mowett, Kas.

"I'm glad I did it and I'd do it again," Lange quoted Church as saying in his confession. "Carrie Gill was a wonderful woman and treated me elegantly. I knew Gentry was mistreating her and I killed him as a good deed for the community."

Named by Two.

The arrest followed swiftly upon accusations made by Mrs. Gill, with whom Gentry had lived for eight years, and her brother, Ferdinand Probst, named a material witness and facing possible charges of being an accessory after the fact in the slaying. Mrs. Gill was known as the "Sunshine Lady."

"Early tonight," Lange said, "I received a tip from Norman Johnson, a Jefferson county supervisor, at Fort Atkinson, near here, that the man known as King was seen there.

"With Deputy Charles Clout and Officers Art Hensch and William Guns of the Fort Atkinson city police force I went to the vinery of the Fort Atkinson Canning company.

"We found him sleeping and he came with us peacefully.

Threw Pistol in River.

"At the jail he told the story of how Mrs. Gill had befriended him, a transient who traveled between here and Chicago. She had given him food and odd painting jobs to do and he had grown to think much of her. He resented Gentry's treatment of the woman and willingly agreed to kill him, he told me.

"The pistol which fired the shot that killed Gentry he threw in the Crawfish river here, he said."

The "Sunshine Lady," whose kindly acts won Jefferson's esteem, and the itinerant painter were accused of plotting for six weeks and finally carrying out the murder of Gentry, 47, one time bodyguard to D. C. Stephenson, imprisoned chief of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan.

Mrs. Gill, 59 year old widow, is charged with first degree murder, along with King.

Terrorized for Two Years.

District Attorney Harold M. Dakin quoted Mrs. Gill as saying Gentry terrorized her for two years, beat her, and threatened her life. She said that the night before the slaying Gentry threatened to kill her with a beer bottle.

Mrs. Gill's brother, Ferdinand Probst, had previously said the painter came to his home early Sunday confessing the murder and asking aid in removing Gentry's body from Mrs. Gill's home.

Dakin, in revealing that Mrs. Gill confessed to the plot late Tuesday night, said she told him informally that she and King first talked about slaying Gentry six weeks ago. King was reluctant. About two weeks ago she communicated with him at a Chicago hotel, wired him $60 and made arrangements for a meeting at Jefferson.

Gentry was acquitted in the Madge Oberholtzer murder case in Indiana in 1925 when Stephenson, a co-defendant, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Man Drowns, Three Saved When Rowboat Capsizes

AWAITING DOOM, BROTHERS SEE FIREWORKS

Face Slow Paralysis as 7 Others Did.

Belmont, O., July 4.—(AP)—Their bodies twisted by a mysterious malady that already has claimed seven male memers of their families since 1868, two brothers wait for death in their home in the hills near here. But today they saw fireworks for the first time. Their father and neighbors gave the show.

A clinic of fifty specialists once examined Glen W., 16, and John L. Dietrich, 17, but the experts were unable to diagnose the disease other than to say it is a form of paralysis.

The malady, apparently a strange hereditary disease, which afflicts only the masculine members of the family, always appears when its victims are 5 years old. The seven previous victims died when they were 18.

Paralyzed Since Infancy.

Dr. D. W. Turner, the family doctor who has attended two paralyzed youths since they were infants, said today he didn't know why they were afflicted with what he called "creeping paralysis," but said he was certain they were doomed.

"I know that the disease of these boys is creeping paralysis, and I do not know why it strikes them at 5 years of age and kills them at 18," Dr. Turner said. "I do not know why just the male offspring of the daughters of the house are affected and not the female children."

"It is my opinion," he added, "these boys will not live more than a year. The paralysis is likely to strike the brain any time now. That seems to be the history of the disease."

Neighbors Give Radio.

Hillfolk neighbors of the Dietrich family gave the boys a radio yesterday and for the first time they heard music of dance halls and listened to descriptions of a baseball game.

Glen and John Dietrich, as they sit on the floor, giving no sign that they know their death is near, draw pictures of neighbors, their home, surroundings, and playthings. Neither has ever attended school. Another brother, Samuel, died two years ago.

FINDS LIGHT OF MILKY WAY IS 8,416 YEARS OLD

Pasadena, Cal., July 4.—(AP)—Fifty thousand four hundred ninety-six trillion miles are a lot of miles, and 8,416 years are a lot of years. But that, says Dr. Walter Baade, is how far you are looking and the age of the light you are seeing if you peek up into the sky at the well known milky way. He announced the computations today.

Dr. Baade, who is astronomer of the Carnegie institution's Mount Wilson observartoy here, said he has determined the Cygnus cloud, sometimes called the swan or the northern cross, in what is termed the "summer" milky way, is 50,496 trillion miles distant from the earth.

Light, he explains, travels 185,000 miles a second, 11,160,000 miles a minute, 669,600,000 miles an hour, 16,070,400,000 miles a day, or 5,865,696,000,000 miles a year—astronomers call it six trillion miles a year to simplify it for the layman. At that rate the light you look at when you glance at the milky way left there 8,416 years ago.

SECOND VICTIM OF MARSH GAS BLAST IS DEAD

Charles Wawak, 43 years old, of Villa Park died in the Alice Home hospital, Lake Forest, yesterday, the victim of an explosion of marsh gas which on Tuesday claimed the life of his brother, Frank Wawak Jr., 45 years old. The blast occurred last Thursday in a pumphouse on Frank Wawak's farm on Townline road, a half mile west of Lake Forest.

The brothers had gone into the pumphouse to make repairs when mash gas, generated by decaying vegetation, exploded in the water tank. Charles Wawak is survived by his widow, Ida, and seven children.

KEY WEST PUTS SELF IN FEDERAL HANDS FOR CRISIS

Tallahassee, Fla., July 4.—(AP)—Key West, southermost city in the United States, today asked Gov. Dave Sholtz to take charge of its affairs because it has been placed in a "state of emergency" by a series of economic setbacks.

Monroe county, in which is island city is situated, followed suit. Gov. Sholtz called on the federal Emergency Relief administration to "accept the responsibility necessarily arising" in the situation.

The Key West city council and the Monroe county commission submitted resolutions declaring an emergency existed and surrendering all their legal powers to the governor.

INTIMATE FACTS!

Send for free copy of "Things People Won't Talk About," a new 32-page illustrated book telling what venereal diseases are, what they do, how they are contracted, how to avoid them, and how they can be cured. Mailed in plain sealed envelope.

Life's a hard race

in which those handicapped by venereal diseases can't win!

Don't allow gonorrhea or syphilis to make you an "also ran," but go today to a good physician or clinic for proper treatment

Race horses that are out of condition are always out of the money too. And what's true of horses is also true of men, for life is a race in which the physically and mentally unfit can't possibly keep pace with the healthy.

There are two diseases that together do more than any others to make "also rans" of men. They are gonorrhea and syphilis. Between them they are responsible for a tremendous amount of permanent disability, as well as for premature deaths to an estimated number of 300,000 yearly!

Yet this enormous loss of life and health is largely avoidable, for gonorrhea and syphilis can be cured if promptly, properly and persistently treated. Even the most advanced cases of syphilis can often be arrested and the sufferer assured many more years of useful life.

Of the two infections, gonorrhea yields the most quickly to proper treatment. If promptly attended to by a good physician or clinic, its germs can usually be eliminated from the system in a comparatively few weeks' time. Yet, if neglected or aggravated by self treatment, it may lead to crippling rheumatism, sterility, or serious prostate, bladder and other disorders.

Syphilis, on the other hand, is more difficult to cure, although it is possible to eradicate it within a year if treatment is begun soon after infection. It is highly disastrous to neglect this disease, for unless put under treatment in its earlier stages it may in time be the cause of insanity, blindness, heart disease, deafness, locomotor ataxia, apoplexy, paralysis, ulcers of the skin, or bone destruction!

No syphilitic infection should be considered hopeless, however, for during recent years great strides have been made in treating supposedly incurable cases. In medical records are numerous instances of men who, after becoming insane from syphilis, were benefited to such an extent that they were able to return to gainful employment.

So don't permit a venereal disease to wreck your health and put you out of the running in life's race for success. Go to your family doctor or a reliable clinic and continue treatment faithfully until you are well again. Even though you have no cause to suspect infection, an examination for venereal diseases which includes a blood test is desirable for the reason that syphilis can be acquired innocently and thus exist for years without your knowledge.

Founded by public-spirited citizens NOT FOR PROFIT, the Public Health Institute specializes in the treatment of venereal diseases at remarkably low fees. An examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood and other tests, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less. Even persons pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

Select July 25 for Stevenson Wedding Rites

Marianne Will Be Bride of Paul Magnuson.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS MARIANNE STEVENSON, who returned just a few weeks ago from six weeks as a courier with the frontier nursing service in the hills of Kentucky, has set July 25 as the date for here marriage to Paul Magnuson Jr. Her engagement was announced several months ago.

Only the families and intimate friends will witness the ceremony which will be performed at 4:30 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's. Miss Caroline McNair will be Miss Stevenson's only attendant and Dr. Magnuson will serve his son as best man. Following the ceremony there will be a buffet supper for the families at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. D. Stevenson of 620 Fullerton parkway. No plans for the wedding trip nor where the young couple will live when they return from it are ready to be announced yet.

A shipboard romance that is culminating in an engagement to be married was started last summer when Miss Georgiana MacArthur and her mother, Mrs. Alfred MacArthur, went abroad. This morning Mr. and Mrs. MacArthur are announcing Georgiana's engagement to the young attorney, Henry B. Gardner Jr., of Providence, R. I., whom Georgiana met on shipboard, and whom her friends met recently when he was visiting her and her family in Libertyville.

Miss MacArthur was just graduated from Ferry Hall in Lake Forest and her fiancé is a graduate of Amherst and of the Harvard law school. He finished his law course last year, and is practicing in Providence, where his parents live. No plans for the wedding have been made.

Miss MacArthur is a niece of Charles MacArthur, the playwright, and of Telfer MacArthur of Oak Park. Mrs. MacArthur is the former Mary Sheldon, sister of Edward Sheldon, the playwright.

Special Train to Garden Meeting.

Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Howard Phillips, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner, and Mrs. Roy Sturtevant will be aboard the Garden club special train when it pulls out of Chicago Saturday night to carry delegates to the annual meeting of the Garden Club of America to be held in York Harbor and Bar Harbor, Me., next week.

Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, Mrs. George A. McKinlock, and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster will be among other Chicagoans there but they are not going east on the special train. Mrs. McKinlock is going more as a resident of Palm Beach than of Lake Forest because she is the official delegate of the Palm Beach Garden club of which she is president. Mr. and Mrs. Brewster left yesterday to motor east for three weeks.

York Harbor will be host to the delegates on Monday and Tuesday and Bar Harbor will entertain them on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Members of the Chicago colony at Bar Harbor will be active in the proceedings. Wednesday Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Mrs. William E. Patterson, and Mrs. Charles B. Pike will give luncheons at their homes for the visitors. That afternoon Mrs. Bowen, Mrs. Pike, and Mrs. Potter Palmer will open their gardens and that morning Miss Mildred McCormick will be hostess to the delegates in her garden.

Thursday night Mrs. Pike, Miss McCormick, and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick will entertain at dinner for the delegates while the officers are dining with Mrs. Edward T. Statesbury, or Mrs. John T. Dorrance, or at the Pot and Kettle club. Earlier that day the gardens at Seal Harbor will be visited, including that of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. That afternoon Mrs. Edsel Ford will give a tea for the guests.

Children Go to Summer Camps.

Two young ladies, Sally Perry and Marie Merrill Hubbard, who won't be bothering their heads about debuts for about half a dozen years, spent the Fourth enjoying their first day at the Pinewood camp in northern Michigan. They left Tuesday night and for the next two months they will have a glorious time swimming, fishing, riding, hiking, canoeing, camping and doing all the other things that girls and boys enjoy during the vacation period. Sally is the I. Newton Perrys' younger daughter and Marie is Mrs. Merrill Hubbard's older daughter.

A young boy who was delighted when his parents decided suddenly and recently that the wouldn't go to California for the summer was Russell Kelley Jr., for then they let him return to the Adventurers' camp in northern Wisconsin where he had had such a good time last year.

The Kelleys have been staying in Mrs. William V. Kelley's house in Lake Bluff since they rented their own in Lake Forest and now that they have decided not to go to Santa Barbara their summer plans are indefinite but young Russell left last Friday for camp.

Joseph III., the junior Joseph E. Otises' boy, Dort Fauntleroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gorton Fauntleroy; Edward R. Bacon III., and George and Jimmy Mallery, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Mallery, are among the other Chicago boys spending their vacations at the Adventurers' camp.

William III., the junior William Burrys' older son, left yesterday for a camp in Ontario, Can., and his mother and father and younger brother, Michael, leave Lake Forest Saturday to motor to Camden, Me., to visit Mrs. Burry's sister, Mrs. Rexford Daniels. Mr. Burry will stay away only two or three weeks but his wife and Mike will be in Camden all summer.

Before Miss Deborah Butler leaves for the east she and Miss "Trudy"

Dogs and Pets Share Honors at Lake Forest

Society Attends Annual Event at Onwentsia.

BY GLADYS PERROW.

While Onwentsia's huge arena teemed with sharp barks, sawdust, and industrious trainers, society gazed approvingly upon the handsome aristocrats of dogdom entered in the third annual dog show yesterday. With apparent ease, given by the Lake Forest Kennel club, the huge show got under way about noon. Groups of spectators and many a dog owner clustered about the various rings in which Irish water spaniels, Great Dane mastiffs, and snow white, lithe Russian greyhounds were among the 44 breeds being shown.

Mrs. Harrison Manierre, clad in her smart side saddle riding habit, with a navy and white polka dot ascot tie about her neck, appeared especially enthusiastic over the show. Her own little black Scottie terrier was entered, and her hopes were high for a prize. Other riding enthusiasts were also in attendance while the judging went on: Mr. and Mrs. John P. Kellogg of Lake Forest, Mrs. Kellogg wearing her side saddle habit. Their guests were Mrs. M. A. Stone of Milwaukee and Brock Fuller, also of Milwaukee.

Pink in various shades and materials seemed to be the favorite of many interested society women. Looking especially cool and charming were Mrs. Phelps Durham and Mrs. Lloyd Lafin. A crisp pink linen was Miss Mary Elizabeth Johnston's costume for the occasion.

Another of the groups intent upon judges and programs included the Prentice Porters, Mrs. Porter wearing a becoming mustard and brown sports costume, and Benjamin L. Behr. Nearby sat Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer III., Mrs. Palmer looking charming as usual in a green and white print and white coat.

Quite oblivious of the literal fact that the show was a howling success were the Ronald Boardmans and their house guest, Lloyd Ely. They appeared to be enjoying the spectacle before them immensely. Among the late arrivals were Mme. Cardelli, Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster, and Mrs. Silas Strawn. Mrs. John T. Pirie and her adorable little granddaughter, Joan, found not only the dog champions but the pet show to be enjoyable.

While the collies were parading Miss Anne Winston and Miss Betty Keith came into the arena wearing simple sports clothes and eager to see all of the 443 fine animals in the show. Miss Ellen Truax and Miss Marie Kinswer attended the show, together with Miss Kinswer's house guest, Miss Marie Stevens from Washington, D. C.

Mrs. John Prosser, Mrs. Stanley Morrill, Mrs. Florian D. Wallace of Chicago, Mrs. Sanger Hinchmann of Glencoe, and Miss Virginia Miller and her father, Harry Miller, of Barrington, were among the dog lovers present.

One of the proudest recipients of a blue ribbon yesterday was little Miss Sally Robbins, whose white bunny was entered in the pet show. Her sister Olive won second prize with her bunny. They are the Laurence B. Robbinses' daughters, of Lake Forest. The junior Hempstead Washburne's children, Virginia and Tommy, had their highest hopes rewarded when their two goats and chickens, a hen and a rooster, carried off prizes. Kittens lovingly dressed for the occasion in blue and white ribbons, white mice, and just dogs were all entered for the judges' approval.

According to Thomas C. Dennehy Jr., member of the bench show committee, the show, which engrossed the attention of dog owners all over the country, was highly successful.

Music Attains High Position in Day at Fair

International Broadcast Is One Feature.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Independence day music played by two major symphony orchestras at A Century of Progress yesterday afternoon and evening probably raised Independence day music to a level such as it had never enjoyed before and that though ending in a small dash of rain. The Detroit Symphony orchestra at Ford Symphony Gardens, the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Swift bridge of service, each played to two audiences to be measured by total capacity of seats plus literally hundreds standing outside the entrances waiting for seats to be vacated.

For several reasons the Chicago Symphony concert became special occasions. One was that part of the afternoon program was broadcast to Japan and the greeting was returned from that country. Those in the audience heard both what was sent and what was returned. From the Swift auditorium there was the Japanese national anthem, Meacham's familiar march, "American Patrol," and Powell's "Natchez-on-the-Hill."

From Washington, heard at the bridge, was a speech by John Barton Payne, president of the American Red Cross. From Japan there was a chorus of "My Old Kentucky Home," as well sung as ever a foreign chorus sang it, a native Japanese composition played by a native orchestra; a speech by Joseph Clark Crew, American ambassador to Japan, and another by Prince Iyeshto Tokugawa, president of the Japanese Red Cross.

Another feature of the Chicago Symphony concerts was that they were entirely of American music, either by native composers or on a native subject. Two Chicago composers appeared as conductors of their own works in addition to Eric DeLamarter, who conducted the rest of the program. Felix Borowski directed his fantasie overture, "Youth," and Robert Sanders his folk-tune work, "Hill Billy," in the afternoon to much applause.

Mr. DeLamarter presented Deems Taylor's "Through the Looking Glass" and John Alden Carpenter's "Adventures in a Perambulator" in the afternoon and Dvorak's "From the New World" in the evening to add to his American list.

Mr. Kolar featured Victor Herbert, conducting not only a suite from "Rose of Algeria." Incidentally there is a trumpet soloist of uncommon ability in the Detroit ranks. Much of the rest of the program was of brief numbers, Mr. Kolar's own "From the South," in which with unheard of restraint he refrained from any quotation from "Dixie," pieces of Kreisler, Grainger, and others. Again they were all loudly applauded.

"Petrified Lightning" Specimens on Display at Field Museum

An exhibit of specimens of "petrified lightning," or fulgurities formed by the melting of sand or rock struck by a lightning bolt, will open in Clarence Buckingham hall at the Field museum today.

Prominent in the collection is an unusually large fulgurite nearly ten feet long, which was found in a sand dune near Chesterton, Ind. The specimen, like others discovered near Michigan City, was formed by the fusion of sand particles, caused by the heat of a lightning discharge.

Most of the specimens are long, glasslike tubes, smooth on the inside and with rough exteriors.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Before tumbling into bed . . . she massages a "buttermilk skin food" into the lamentably dry skin of face and neck. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Always on the lookout for something to fix up dry skin, aren't you all? Seems as though nine out of ten of the bushels of letters and telephone calls that come to this desk echo the eternal cry for something to relieve dryness.

Well, we're always on the lookout for something that will soften and nourish those thin skins and replenish the temperamental natural oil that just won't behave.

Today we've found a most unusual cream for you. Not a cleanser; just a good, sturdy treatment cream, rich and white, and called, of all things, "a buttermilk skin food."

Any old cookbook [old enough to have both beauty and bread recipes] is evidence enough of the beautifying claims that were made for buttermilk when grandma was a girl. She used it to nourish and clarify her skin, and you needn't think that it wasn't a pretty smart little beauty trick. It was.

The skin food we've just discovered is said to have a buttermilk base, which sounds more than interesting to us. We do know that this cream is such a good emollient that the driest of skins gets righted after a short interval of its consistent use. It is to be applied, by the way; after the skin cleansing chores are done, before you go to bed; smooth it liberally over the face and neck—or, if you've one of those patchy skins with an oily nose and dry patches around the chin and eyes, just on the dry areas—work it in lightly with gentle fingers. Leave it on overnight, every night, until your skin gets lubricated. After that it may be necessary to use it only a couple of times a week.

This cream isn't extremely expensive as so many of the anti-dryness creams are. It's sold quite reasonably in two Chicago shops.

Wear Yellow with Black for Smart Contrast

Dark Evening Gowns Lead Fashion Parade.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Black may have a dampening effect on a very few die-hards, but the grand army of the appreciative are turning cartwheels trying to save enough from a summertime clothes allowance to buy just one of the newest all black, veil thin dinner and dance dresses.

For sheer flattery and never failing mystery, this all black stuff hasn't any equal. When you are sick to your very soul of pastel tints and tones and all the gay fluttery high colors, the anodyne is dull black and lots of it! You'll find it in the newly unpacked collections in nearly every fashion-wise shop in town.

Layers of gossamer black chiffon, knowingly fashioned into a sheath of a dress with a small train, will turn any wall flower into an enchantress. Black lace of delicate design is enchantingly cool and decorative when it clings to your summer streamline as far as the knees and then foams around the ankles with every motion you make.

But the greatest excitement is provided with a definitly daring color contrast . . . dull black with sulphur yellow, dull black with canary yellow, and black with pale watery tints of yellow. Don't be afraid of this combine. It's disturbingly effective. Test it in a slithering black chiffon dinner gown with a much gouged out top and tucked shoulder cape of sulphur yellow chiffon. You may repeat the yellow in scraps of tiny sandals, but keep your big chiffon handkerchief black.

Wear yellow organdy gloves with chiffon suits and other costumes of black. Try the big soft, wide brimmed hats of yellow, and the yellow organdy and dimity blouses with your newest sleek, shiny, black satin suit. Use yellow linen swagger jackets with dull black crêpe afternoon dresses.

Use quantities of yellow, but be lapa ahead of the average shopper and wear yellow with black—the summer's newest color combine.

Professional models and others who wish to compete will pass before a jury of artists. The jurors include A. S. Weiner, Ivan L. Albright, Todros Geller, N. P. Steinberg, Minnie Harms Neebe, Gilbert Rocke, and Silas Turzak, all Chicago artists.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 4.—[Special.]—The assistant secretary of state and Mrs. Sumner B. Welles entertained at dinner this evening in celebration of Independence day.

Miss Dorothea Lane and her fiancé, Lieut. Richard Malcolm Cutts, U. S. M. C., White House aid, are guests over the holiday of Miss Emily Cookman of Philadelphia at her place at Cape May, N. J.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth has left for her home in Cincinnati to join her daughter, Paulina.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE funeral of a prominent German banker and farmer was held last week in Will county, and the whole community, as well as the citizens of neighboring towns, turned out to pay their respects. A German pastor talked and the music was a soprano and alto duet. One of the songs had some eight verses, and one couplet we offer, as a sample of what the composer must have imagined would be celestial bliss:

Bliss—
C. O. D.—
Suitable—
Mexicana.

"We'll pay no more rent on our mansion,
The taxes will never come due,"

dueted the singers.

THIS, then, is the pathetic story of the C. O. D. birthday present. A Chicago author wanted her husband to give her a certain handsome unabridged dictionary for a birthday present, a modest enough wish, it would seem. To be sure she got it, she stepped in to the book store and ordered it, put a "Happy Birthday and Love" card in it, signed her husband's name, and ordered it sent C. O. D. It so happened that her husband was called out of town unexpectedly on business, and when the birthday present was delivered she did not have enough cash in the house to pay for it. It was taken back by the delivery boy, and I suppose the end of the story is that the birthday card was removed and the dictionary put back in stock.

A CHICAGO hotel wanted a name for its cocktail room and it had to be succinct, smart, and descriptive. There were many suggestions made and several conferences were held. Finally a decision was reached. The management decided to call it—the Cocktail Room.

A BIT of Mexicana is offered in the following incident: Last February a Chicago newsman in Monterey for a few days tried to file a story to his paper in Chicago, and, despite the fact that he showed his telegraph card authorizing him to file stories collect, he was not permitted to do so. Finally, in desperation, the newsman got the editor of the local newspaper out of bed and explained the matter to him. As he was an Associated Press correspondent he permitted the writer to file it to New York, and the New York office in turn relayed it over the leased wire of the newspaper in Chicago. That, as we said, was last February. Yesterday the newspaper man, who had kicked up an awful fuss at the time, got a letter from the telegraph company in Monterey. The letter said everything was O. K. now. He could file collect messages to Chicago if he wanted to.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young singer. She stakes him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for an opportunity of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara sells her car for expense money and gives half to Jerry. He follows and joins her on the way. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. He meets Cara and Jerry as Mulligan. He and Jerry are antagonistic. After three days Jerry is fed up with camp life. He tricks Cara into leaving with him. They become lost in the wilds. Jerry's true character is revealed to Cara when she confesses her father's failure. Harmer comes to their rescue. He sends Jerry on his way back to Toronto, though Cara thinks Jerry has returned to camp.

INSTALMENT XI.

COMFORT AND SAFETY.

Harmer didn't move or speak or even meet Cara's eyes for more than a moment. But it was a tremendous moment and in it she knew that she loved him, and that in this love would have been all that a woman could ask or hope for.

She spoke again softly, and more aghast at herself than ever:

"That wasn't love I had for him. It was just the sort of thing other girls would have got over long ago. But I am Cara Follette, brought up—differently."

He took her cigaret and crushed it out with his own.

She recalled, in a tremor, a dozen times when Jerry Flint had done that—to take her in his arms and kiss her.

This man said quietly: "We ought to get along."

"Bill——" she murmured.

"Don't worry. The horse will stand up easily to all we want of him."

Again she was sitting before him on the great roan horse, one of his arms steadying her, the other managing Bill, the dogs loping after. They went on at a steady canter wherever the going allowed it. Sometimes on a wide trail the horse leaped a fallen tree. She leaned her head back against the hunter's chest. His chamois shirt was soft and very supple. Once she felt it stealthily between a finger and thumb. Astonishingly fine and good. She felt the hard, steady throb of his heart.

"We won't stop again," he said. "If you get cold I'll put a blanket round you."

"I'm not cold."

But before they reached the camp she was wrapped in his blanket and almost asleep against his breast.

"He wanted to persuade you into a marriage there."

She opened her eyes and saw the welcome lights shining from the windows of the log huts. One of the Indians ran forward to take Bill, and the hunter, carefully dismounting, let her slide into his arms and carried her in. The red girl ran to attend her.

It was 10 o'clock by the great white faced clock on the wall. The short light night of northern summer had fallen with a dusk that was hardly dark.

Cara stood blinking in the lamplight.

The table was laid. The smell of excellent cooking pervaded the cabins. All had that calming, that gratifying and peaceful atmosphere of comfort and gentleness after days strenuously spent out in the open. She had loved it before—on the very rare trips with her father, and even in the luxurious family camp on Georgian bay.

Drowsily she looked around and heard the voices she listened for. It seemed the one voice in this particular world. It was the hunter saying gently: "Go and slip on something comfortable and have your supper and go to bed."

Still she looked around. No sign of Jerry Flint. She went into her cabin. Soon they would meet at supper and afterwards she must contrive to be left with him alone. It would be difficult to persuade him to put aside the no less than terrible irritations of the last day and night and following day and to restore his better nature—he had it, hadn't he?—so that he would promise to keep the secret of Follettes'.

For whom did she throw aside the white cotton sleeveless frock that the quite adoring Indian girl offered and choose a fresh one, made just the same way, sleeveless, low-backed, a frock in which girls played tennis or lounged about a sophisticated beach, glossy and smooth? The Indian girl had used an iron on it and was proud of her achievement.

She had found wild irises. They made a beautiful bunch for a girl's breast.

Cara put on the high-heeled shoes of white buckskin and, rouged and lipsticked by the air and the sun, painted by wind and exercise, came in to supper.

There were two places laid only. The hunter presided.

All seemed to her so quiet, with a quiet that had about it so irrevocable a quality that she asked automatically again as she seated herself:

"Jerry?"

"Take the broth," said the hunter, "eat your prairie chicken—tender as any in the world the way my Indian cook does it. I'll tell you."

She drank her broth, ate her portion of chicken. There were wild strawberries from a bottle and cream from a tin. She said sleepily that the catering was wonderful and then said nothing else for ten minutes. The hunter waited upon her, sending an attentive Indian away. Coffee came, strong and black, and a bottle. She didn't notice labels or glasses till she felt a soft and potent Napoleon brandy touch her lips. Of course she knew a brandy. It had been one point of Benjamin's fatherly education of a daughter who might have been a son. She just raised her eyebrows, gave a little gasp and a smile after she had sipped. The man opposite her knew that it was all she could do.

Women were women, tender and fragile. You could not alter it. They came out into rough places, stood side by side with men, uttered men's slogans. It made no difference to their ultimate femininity. He wanted her for her own sake to drink the brandy. He wanted to carry her to her bed, leave her in the care of her maid, and let her sleep before she asked a question. But when he lifted the bottle to refill her glass she put a hand over the goblet.

She drank her black coffee slowly.

"Where is Jerry?" she said.

Harmer also knew when one could, for her own comfort, lie to a woman and when one could not, when the lie would be futile. He placed the bottle on the table again and replied.

"Perhaps—half way to Coppertown. Perhaps not."

"Coppertown?"

"It was where he wanted to go, apparently."

"He didn't want to go——"

"Alone. I knew it. He wanted to persuade you into a marriage there."

She forced her brain clear of its fatigue. Jerry had not, after her revelation, wanted to force her into any marriage in Coppertown.

What, at the end of that horrible revealing day, just did he want?

She could not think. She was too tired. She could not, moreover, see entirely and clearly, into all the crevices of the brain of this treacherous lover.

She faltered:

"Not marriage."

"Not marriage?"

"Can I trust you?"

On the question she wilted, laid her head on her arms and wept—Cara Follette weeping!

But she could not stop.

"You can trust me," she heard him saying over and over before it penetrated her sobs and was definite in her brain.

She believed him simply and perfectly.

"I told him . . . too much."

"What did you tell him?"

"I mustn't—tell you—that's two betrayals. Please, is Jerry—really on his way to Coppertown?"

"Yes."

She was taken then into arms of whose entire comfort and safety she had no doubt.

Boy Tells Why He Wants to See the Fair

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Today's the day I read all your letters, boys and girls, to select 100 guests to see the Fair. Perhaps you'd like to see what one youngster had to say:

"Dear Sally Joy Brown: I'm a boy. I'm telling you this because most ladies like girls better than they do boys, but I hope you are different. My mother says girls are better because they don't climb fences and tear their pants or come in late for dinner or get black eyes.

"But, Sally Brown, I sure want an invitation to your party as bad as any girl. I would so much like to be one of your guests. My sister hasn't any time to take me and I want to see the Midget Village so much, and our teacher told us to try to see the Colonial Village.

"It's hard to tell you, dear Sally, how much I want to go to your party, to ride in a big bus, and see the bears and all the things you said. This is better than an ice cream and cake party, I say, and I hope you like boys. I know the Black Forest will be dandy. I'd like to see the Colonial Village, especially if they have something about Abraham Lincoln, because my birthday is Feb. 12.

Select July 25 for Stevenson Wedding Rites

Marianne Will Be Bride of Paul Magnuson.

Reid, the Bryan S. Reids' daughter, are going to have a dinner given for them by Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm on July 19 at Onwentsia, before the usual club dancing party.

Miss Butler, who is to be a debutante in the fall, is leaving the end of the month for Nantucket, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Peabody Butler, have taken a house for August.

Another Chicagoan who will be enjoying the sea breezes of Nantucket this summer is Arthur Meeker Jr., who is leaving on Monday. He has taken a tiny house there, where he can be alone with a new novel "in the making" and have time for plenty of swimming, a favorite pastime. He will return the latter part of September.

From England comes word that Lord and Lady Tennyson are being entertained extensively and that one of the society chroniclers writes: "Certainly no American bride has come here in recent years and so quickly endeared herself to everybody as has Lady Tennyson; and the cricketer-author-peer is full of pride at her success." This will be of interest to Chicago society, for the new Lady Tennyson is the former Mrs. Joseph B. Donner of Buffalo, who was Carroll Elting of Chicago before she became Mrs. Donner.

Miller Callahans in New York State.

The Miller Callahans, who were here for a month from their home in England to visit Mr. Callahan's mother, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, are settled for the summer at Rhinebeck, N. Y., where they have taken a cottage near that of Mrs. Callahan's sister and brother-in-law, the Lee Pattisons. Mrs. Callahan left a few days ago to join them for the summer.

An attractive young lady who is visiting in Chicago is Miss Anita Kurtz of Philadelphia. She arrived Sunday to stay with Miss Alice May Dickinson, with whom she attended Miss Hall's school. Miss Kurtz will accompany Miss Dickinson and her parents, the Francis R. Dickinsons, when they leave early next week for their ranch in Michigan. Miss Dickinson's brother, Stirling, is in New Mexico, seriously cultivating his considerable talent for painting, and her younger sister, Dorothy, will be in Michigan this summer.

The James E. Baums and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Baum, have gone to their home near Murray Bay, Canada, for the summer.

Mrs. Homer A. Stillwell has gone to New York for a visit with her son, Wellesley Hill Stillwell, at the Park Lane hotel.,

A welcome visitor to Chicago is Miss Gertrude Pence, now of Florence, but formerly of Chicago. She is spending several weeks with Mrs. Wentworth Field, and between seeing old friends and the Fair she is being kept very busy.

Philip S. Owens to Visit Here.

The Raymond C. Dudleys are preparing for their daughter and son-in-law's first visit here since their marriage last May in the east. The former Lillian Dudley and her young husband, Philip S. Owen, are arriving tomorrow or Saturday to spend the rest of the summer here.

Edward H. Bennett Jr., son of the Edward H. Bennetts, has returned home to Lake Forest with glories, both scholastic and athletic, won at St. Mark's school, where he was recently graduated with high honors and where he also earned his crew letter. He will enter Harvard in the fall.

Mrs. Bennett, who is still on crutches as a result of a nasty spill she had off a horse just before the recent Lake Forest horse show, is impatiently counting the days until she will be able to get about "on her own" again.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Triest of Los Angeles announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice, to Dr. Herbert F. Binswanger, son of Mrs. B. W. Binswanger of the Sherry hotel.

Fisher's Daughter Originated Quilt for Hope Chest

Four Points.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The youngest daughter of a New England fisherman designed and executed "Four Points" as her first contribution to her hope chest. She created the design from a compass on her father's fishing vessel, and the result, as you see, is a most attractive geometric design. Two shades of blue, red, and white are used to make the colorful block.

Paris Daytime Frock Is Acme of Simplicity

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Evening bodices are frequently nothing but a band of goods and a pair of straps, but it is rarely that daytime dresses can boast anything so simple. They have to do more covering up than evening clothes, and therefore Molyneux's band and ruffle blouse, on the illustrated model, is a notable achievement. It covers up sufficiently, yet is extremely simple. The band part, as you can plainly see, is about four inches wide and put on in a V-shaped yoke at the neck in front and to the waistline at the back. The wide ruffl that forms the rest of the bodice is also V-shaped, with the point of the V set on to the skirt below the belt in front. The ruffle then rises over the arms and edges the band yoke in back. It is plaited in cartridge pleats.

Molyneux makes this dress of red and white checkered artificial taffeta, which is stronger than the pure silk kind and just as pretty. The skirt has two gores at the front, two at the back, and two wider ones at the sides. They are flared from the knees to the hem.

The best is made of bright red leather, and the hat is of red straw, faced with white.

Child Needs to Be Alone with Mother Often

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Did you ever notice how different a conversation between two people is from one that is carried on by three? Things happen in thought and feeling and find expression that never could or would when the contact is triangular.

And it makes no difference how well the three may know each other.

Now children feel this quite as strongly as we do, though they are not conscious of it. No matter what their age may be they feel a difference when they are alone with you.

Any one who knows children in a truly close and intimate way knows that things are said, feelings come to the surface, confidences are revealed, a sense of communion is felt when a mother and child or father and child are alone together.

This relation is something that mothers should keep alive when a new baby is born into the family. Your time is filled to overflowing then, I know—and the second baby is fascinating and a darling and often quite different from the first—and your interest is divided. In a way it has to be.

But your older child needs you as much as ever. Your love isn't divided—you have enough of that to go around.

But when your first born sees your time and interest absorbed by the new baby he or she can't realize that your love is unchanged. You've got to give a demonstration of that fact. And one of the ways in which you can be convincing about it is by having time alone with him, when the baby isn't around and when he can be sure that you are interested in him alone. This is not egotism or a form of selfishness—it is a human need.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11:45 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

It's one thing to think of the kitchen as a hot spot where one must worry out three meals a day to fill up ravenous families. It's quite another, and a much jollier notion, to think of it as a beauty parlor.

Which, after all, is exactly what a kitchen is. Of course, there are beauty parlors and more of 'em. Some turn you out with the feeling that you've been run through the mill and probably look it, while others—but you know the others. But even more important than supplying skin beautifiers and scalp nourishers is this business of the kitchen. For it's there that we carry on the subtle lifetime job of painting the lily from the inside.

Just what foods bring beauty to skin, hair, eyes, and the rest of us has been pro-ed and con-ed for thousands of years. Cleopatra ate onions for her beauty's sake, with many a pickle thrown in to keep her complexion clear. The Greeks, thinking of beauty as superb good health, thought lettuce was the answer. And they were partially right, for lettuce with its vitamins is a renewal food as well as a protective one. And, since the two underlying commandments for eating for beauty are "keep thy elimination complete and regular," and "feed thyself foods which will protect against disease and will build up the broken down body cells," this matter of minerals and vitamins in food has a very definite bearing upon our personal charm.

Right along that line, two generations ago beauties ate carrots raw and in the form of jam with lemon juice. Again a good idea. For carrots and lemon juice are both high class vitamin foods. And its been discovered also that yellow and green foods (carrots, yellow corn, yellow turnips, green lettuce, and green cabbage, etcetera) are able to supply a greater amount of beauty adding elements than their pale or ruddy brothers.

Unfortunately or not, just as you look at it, there is no beauty diet which can do the work alone. A reasonable amount of outdoor exercise, eight hours of restful sleep, and a sensible, well balanced diet, which includes six to eight cups of water a day, with an abundance of vitamin and mineral foods, is the whole answer. Avoid excess fat, stay away from more than one sweet at a meal, and go lightly on the sugar in coffee and tea. Use fresh fruits, vegetables, and whole grain foods in abundance to supply bulk. Add to this whole milk and eggs to increase the vitamin and mineral intake, and then apply a dose of common sense and temperance to the rest of your life.

Milk, already mentioned, is a prime health booster. The old theory that "milk makes you fat" is ridiculous. It brings one back to the statement of some wise doctor who said, in effect, "a canary seed would be fattening if it were added to a diet otherwise normal and adequate." Milk is an important health food which, if made place for in the diet, simply does its normal part in building beauty. The following menus for a day are aimed neither to fatten nor to make one thin, yet they very apparently contain a sizey amount of milk. They might well be labeled beauty meals, for the foods have been selected for their high proportion of beautifying minerals and vitamins.

Oiliness of Scalp and Skin Is Big Worry in Summertime

BY ANTOINETE DONNELLY.

The warm weather brings forth many requests for oily hair treatments, also that of oily skin. The fact is that many people who never before have had trouble with that shiny nose and face have found it necessary to apply the powder puff often and oftener. And those with abnormally oily hair and skin feel it necessary to take steps to eliminate the annoying condition. In connection with the oily hair condition there are those who have been embarrassed with scaly dandruff.

The treatment for excessively oily hair calls first and foremost for frequent shampoos. It is necessary to wash the head frequently, and those with greasy scales should wash the hair and scalp nightly with an alcoholic extract of "green soap."

Much attention should be paid to the rinsing of the hair where this condition exists. Rinse three, four, and five times, if necessary. Or, hold your head under the shower until you feel assured that all trace of soap has been removed. Dry the hair and scalp thoroughly and carefully. The theory of washing hair too often holds good only when the hair is not dried well after the frequent washings.

After drying, apply a good ointment designed to correct oily dandruff. You will find many excellent products on the market. In treating oily dandruff wash the head every night for a week.

For correcting oily skin, look to the diet, also. Eat sparingly of butter, fat meats, and oil dressings. Put yourself on a vegetable and fruit diet for a few weeks to give yourself a general cleaning up. And take immediate steps to correct faulty bowel action. Wash the face frequently with soap and water, and use some astringent. You may choose the product of your favorite cosmetic manufacturer, or you may use witch hazel or benzoin.

Actor Learns Tennis Intruder Is Greta Garbo

Boss of Courts Her New Leading Man.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 4.—[Special.]—Herbert Marshall, who never met Greta Garbo, has been cast as Dr. Fane, her screen husband, in "The Painted Veil." The picture entered production yesterday. Miss Garbo wasn't in the first scenes and Marshall still hadn't met her when he drove to Santa Monica to his new beach home. He has just leased the home from Director Edmund Goulding.

Marshall saw strange women playing tennis in his new court. "Who are they?" he asked his butler. The butler didn't recognize either lady but said he would go out and see. The butler went out, but the ladies didn't give him any notice and he came back uninformed.

"All right, I'll soon find out who they are," said Marshall. He came back in a twinkling. One stranger informed the new householder her name was Greta Gorbo and Mr. Goulding had told her she could use his tennis court. Marshall didn't get her companion's name.

The new Garbo film has a Chinese locale and is being directed by Richard Boleslavsky.

Frank McHugh, whose last pictures were with Joe E. Brown in "Son of a Sailor," and Jim Cagney in "Here Comes the Navy," will play a pro bike rider's rôle in Brown's new comedy, "Six Day Bike Rider."

Brown, who has recovered from three days in bed following a sunstroke, explains it wasn't the pedal pushing that put him in bed but the subsequent effort to play baseball with his kids. When he came back to work on the lot Dr. Paul McWilliams greeted him with: "Joe, I guess you'll be all right now if you only have sense enough to put a hat on." So Brown bought himself a beret.

Gordon Westcott, the polo player-actor, who used to play with a bevy of Utah stars and spent his summers as a cowhand, has also found grief in trying to conquer the bicycle. Westcott plays the villainous foreign bike racer in Brown's opus. Westcott played in a polo game this afternoon after alternately falling off and climbing on a bike all day yesterday.

"After riding a bike all day, a polo pony doesn't feel the same under you," Westcott said. "My horse couldn't understand it when I grabbed his ears. I thought they were handlebars."

Erskin Caldwell, author of the New York "Tobacco Road" is here to do the script for M-G-M's "The Wicked Woman" from Ann Austin's novel. Charlie Brabin directs. . . . Richard Powell, who is erecting a home in Toluca Lake which contains a nursery, doesn't make any explanations about either the house or the nursery except that "I have anticipations." Powell's been going out with Margaret Lindsay but when Mary Brian is in town he goes out with her, too. He was married once but a divorce ended that some years ago. Powell's married sister is his housekeeper.

W. S. Van Dyke, the director, was informed that Los Angeles' infantile paralysis epidemic had lifted sufficiently for him to go through with his scheduled Fourth of July party for all the children in the neighborhood. They trooped by scores to "Van's" place with its extensive grounds in Brentwood Heights.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

REBIDDING AFTER JUMP TAKE-OUT OF ONE NO TRUMP.

Continuing yesterday's discussion, let us take a responding hand where the secondary suit is of four cards not headed by the ace.

Sp. A x	Do. K Q x x x
Hts. x x	Cl. K J x x

If the bidding goes: One no trump, three diamonds, three no trumps, having no reserve value even in the form of ten cards in two suits, with the necessary singleton which might render a suit-slam biddable where a no trump slam would be taboo, you must pass. If your club holding were K Q x x you might bid four diamonds to tell your partner that though you have only one ace, you have three primary tricks, and the contract will be safe in four no trumps or five diamonds even if his no trumper was a "minnie." This would encourage him to go on if he held two aces and something in reserve over 3½ tricks. With

Sp. K x x	Dl. A x x
Hts. K Q x x	Cl. A J x

he could name your three tricks as ace of hearts or spades (or Sp. A Q x), king-queen of diamonds and king-queen of clubs (or K x), for he knows you have no second ace. Knowing that he can discard two losers on the long diamonds, he should bid six no trumps. To defeat it, the enemy must hold the protected jack of diamonds, or A J x of hearts on his left if your ace is in spades. The odds are greatly in his favor.

Another 5-5-2-1 Rebid Situation.

When your second suit is headed by Q J 10, you must have 2½ clear primary tricks outside that suit in order to make a jump take-out. This gives you a rebid on your outside strength to offset the danger inherent in so weak a suit. Holding

Sp. A x	Dl. K Q x x x
Hts. Q J 10 x x	Cl. x

do not make a jump takeout. Bid two hearts over one no trump, and later make a jump takeout in diamonds if your partner responds with two no trumps. He will then not overrate your heart suit or your hand, and will grasp that you are making a distributional slam try on ten red cards with not more than 2½ tricks in your hand. With

Sp. A x	Dl. A Q x x x
Hts. Q J 10 x x	Cl. x

the bidding would go: One no trump, three diamonds (not three hearts, as you have not got two of the top three honors), three no trumps, four no trumps (showing a second ace in the hand). If opener now bids five diamonds, bid five hearts. This is obviously a playable five-card suit without its ace and not headed by two of the top three honors, otherwise you would have bid it first instead of diamonds. With a minimum hand such as

Sp. K Q x	Dl. K 10 x
Hts. A x x	Cl. K Q x x

your partner can bid six no trumps. He wants the club lead to come up to his hand. At worst there will be a heart finesse for the slam. If that wins, and the enemy do not open clubs or play them in time, he will be able to discard his four clubs on your long red cards.

Slamming with a "Minnie."

With Sp. K Q x Hts. K x x Dl. K 10 x Cl. A J x x his bid is six hearts (after one no trump, three diamonds, three no trumps, four no trump, five diamonds, five hearts). Knowing you to have only three black cards, one of them the ace of spades, it is clear that there is only the ace of hearts to be lost.

An Inferiority Complex Is No Longer Stylish

Girls These Days Have "Go" About Them.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"It seems that I have developed an inferiority complex." Anne confides. And we'll stop right here to advise Anne that the i. c.'s aren't fashionable any more. There was a time when one could have one of those things and go around bragging about it. It was used as an excuse for a good many behavior phases with which today's world will have nothing to do.

There is no excuse for hanging on to the darned thing, unless it is that one is just too lazy to shake herself out of its grasp. Or, unless one wants an alibi for rudeness, thoughtlessness, etcetera.

No, Anne, we're living in an age now when we are expected to stand on our own two feet. And firmly. No leaning this way and that, looking for some fancy phrase to hold one up. Or else, well, who cares?

You have the brains to go after and get other things you want out of life, but when it comes to attracting males you i. c. girls want to sit right down on the job. If there's a complex chair handy you simply wallow in its depths. You all admit quite frankly and, we believe, with honesty, that you're not hard on the eyes. You dress well. You know how to behave. You can do things. BUT, how you girls love that alibi!

As said, however, it doesn't get by any more. It was a luxury of other days and the sooner it is forgotten the better one will get along. On her own efforts, too! That's what today is calling for, folk who can be counted on to deliver.

LINK BRIDGE JOB WAITS ON STATE SUPREME COURT

U. S. Bridge Loan Hinges on Park Decision.

A call can be made early in September for bids on $6,877,000 worth of construction required to complete the final link in the outer drive project if the Illinois Supreme court upholds the vote to consolidate the Chicago park districts, according to officials of the new Chicago park district board.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes informed representatives of the board this week that the government is ready to act immediately when the new park district qualifies for a federal loan needed to build the bridge over the mouth of the Chicago river and to complete the approaches joining the north and south sections of the drive.

Attorneys for the park board say it will automatically qualify for the loan if the Supreme court upholds the park consolidation.

Hope to Strengthen Security.

Lincoln park bonds required to finance one-fifth of the project are the only portion of the securities not now acceptable to the government as security for a loan, the lawyers said. The position of these bonds will be improved both by the consolidation of resources of all the parks and by a plan to back the securities with Lincoln park concession revenues, it was explained.

While the Chicago park district board is anxious to employ the federal loan in the creation of jobs for Chicagoans and in the solution of a major traffic problem, no action can be taken toward actually qualifying for the loan until a written opinion is received from the Supreme court, said Robert J. Dunham, president of the district board.

Hugh E. Young, engineering representative of the parks and the Chicago Plan commission on the outer drive program, said that it will require $5,000 and less than two months to complete the bidding plans for the project.

"We are ready to go ahead as soon as the court decision is received," Mr. Young declared.

"Most of the work preliminary to the actual construction of the bridge has been completed. We have built the substructure for the span over the Chicago river, the foundation for a bridge over the Michigan canal, and foundations for the approaches. We're filling in ground to be used between the Chicago river and Monroe street. Even the steel to be used in the bridge has been fabricated."

30 Per Cent an Outright Grant.

The money which the government holds ready for the loan will complete the last remaining stretch of the outer drive between Ohio street on the north and an extension of Randolph street on the south. Thirty per cent of the $6,877,000 would be an outright federal grant. Of the remaining money $3,716,000 would be invested in south park bonds and $1,489,000 in Lincoln park bonds under the present plan.

South park bonds have already qualified for the loan, but the Lincoln park issue has been restricted by the 5 per cent bond limit for municipalities. A consolidation of park resources would eliminate this restriction, it is believed.

Nearly 3,000 men will be given work when the construction of the final link is started, Mr. Young said. Completion of the bridges and the approaches is expected to require 15 months.

"All preliminaries to actual building have been completed since the loan application was made in April, 1932," Mr. Young said. "Both the Chicago park board and the government appear ready to go ahead."

VICE QUIZ IN DENVER INVOLVES OFFICIALS, POLICE; ARREST NINE

Denver, Colo., July 4.—(AP)—Nine persons were under arrest tonight and unnamed members of the Denver city council and police department were involved in an investigation into the operation of an alleged disorderly house.

A mother's search for her 15 year old daughter, later found at the house, prompted the inquiry. District attorney's agents said the girl's story, together with a record book and the story of a Negro maid disclosed startling vice conditions.

Ray Humphreys, chief investigator for District Attorney Earl Wettengel, charged that members of radio patrol crews visited the house. Mayor George D. Begole said his own agents "found this to be untrue."

The mayor said he had not concerned himself with reports that the names of two members of the council were found upon a "charge ledger" at the house.

FEAR SULLIVAN MAY TURN DOWN CRIMINAL BENCH

Judges Keep Up Row Over Chief.

A possibility that Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan will refuse to accept his appointment as chief justice of the Criminal court arose yesterday as the regular Criminal judges continued to bicker over the position.

It has been the custom for the Superior and the Circuit courts to alternate the chief justiceship between their judges, and it was the turn of the Superior court for the coming year. But recently the Criminal judges adopted a rule that they alone should participate in the election of their chief justice.

Thus, although Judge Sullivan's appointment last Friday by his fellow Superior judges was in accordance with custom, some of the Criminal judges say they will not abide by this election.

Some of them are said to be soliciting votes for the position.

As Judge Sullivan, who has the right, under a rule of the Superior court, to stay until the end of his term in the desirable chancery assignment, agreed to accept the chief justiceship only to end a quarrel over the position among the Criminal court judges, it is feared he will withdraw in view of the new developments.

The selection of Judge Sullivan and the other Superior court assignments, however, will be considered again tomorrow at a special meeting in the chambers of Judge Sullivan.

A majority of the Criminal court judges have admitted they favor Judge Sullivan for the position of chief justice, but they assert they are unwilling to countenance a violation of the new rule that they alone can participate in the election.

The Circuit court, which is to assign four judges to the Criminal court, is also to have a meeting tomorrow.

CRIMINAL COURT ACTS TO CLEAN UP ITS DOCKET

Hopes to Dispose of All Old Cases in July.

A drive to clean up the Criminal court calendar of cases more than 30 days old is to take place during July. This was announced yesterday by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan and State's Attorney Courtney.

A survey of pending cases has just been completed by First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley. From this list the chief justice will make up several court calendars to be given to volunteer vacation judges with instructions that no continuances be granted.

Money Cases Pile Up.

Since the crime drive was started the criminal courts have kept abreast of the violence cases, but in the meantime cases involving charges such as embezzlement, confidence game, and obtaining money by false pretenses have piled up. It has been decided by the judges and prosecutors that speedy disposition must be made of all such cases.

The dockets show that 78 cases in which indictments were voted before Jan. 1 are still pending.

"New cases are much easier to dispose of than cases which have dragged along for months," said Mr. Crowley. "Most of the cases are now being disposed of within 30 days of the return of indictments. If we can get rid of all the old cases this month it will be an easy matter to keep abreast of all current cases with the courts going at practically full speed during the vacation period."

Full Speed for July.

Chief Justice Finnegan announced that a vacation schedule has been worked out among the judges, which will allow the court to operate at full speed during July. August, however, the court will have to cut down its activities unless some Circuit and Superior judges volunteer to help out.

Mr. Crowley's report shows that since Jan. 1 the Criminal court in its drive against crimes of violence sentenced 317 burglars, 195 automobile thieves, 61 murderers, 682 robbers, and 62 sex offenders.

Naval Officer Killed, Two Hurt in Auto Smashup

MANILA, P. I., July 4.—(AP)—Lieut. Frank Rorschach Jr. was killed and two other naval officers injured when their automobile collided with a parked truck today. They were driving to a Manila Fourth of July celebration. Lieut. Rorschach had been on the destroyer Peary with the Asiatic fleet for two and a half years. His widow is in Tsingtao, China. A native of Norfolk, Va., Lieut. Rorschach was the son of Commander Frank Rorschach, retired, of Long Beach, Cal.

U. S. SEEKS O. K. TO DREDGE OUT CALUMET RIVER

One of the steps preliminary to the further development of the Calumet-Sag waterway will be taken on July 17 when owners of property along the Calumet river between Lake Michigan and 111th street will meet in the city council chambers with Col. Dan I. Sultan, resident United States army engineer.

The government proposes to dredge the river between the two points to a depth of 25 feet, and seeks the assurances of the property owners that they won't hold the government liable for any damages.

At 111th street is the beginning of a rock formation in the bed of the channel and this section, according to the program, will be deepened later.

Meanwhile a committee of five representatives of several local governments, which was named by Mayor Kelly, is working on a report showing that progress is being made to meet conditions set up by Secretary of the Interior Ickes for an allotment of $2,814,500 for a limited development of the Calumet-Sag.

These conditions include placing all bridges in working order, acquisition of necessary land, and a guarantee of industrial development of Lake Calumet.

Orlando, Italy's War Time Premier, Arrives in U. S.

New York, July 4.—(AP)—Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, Italy's wartime premier, arrived today on the liner Conte Di Savoia for a six weeks' visit with his daughter, Mrs. Alberto Garabelli of Great Neck, Long Island. He was the only member of the "big four" who did not sign the treaty of Versailles.

The Summer Clearance

Sales Start This Morning

True to our long-established policy we're "clearing our decks" for new fall merchandise. That means that a good part of our present stocks have undergone some drastic reductions. It's our one sure way of making friends while we clean house. It's your way to round out any lean spots in your wardrobe with clothing of rich fabrics and tailoring to win the admiration of a "west-end" tailor and without much drain on the budget.

SUITS

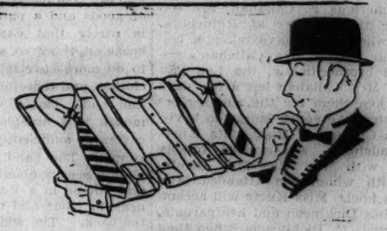
There are hundreds of them, not all sizes in every style and fabric, but all sizes are in the sale.

$28.50 $38.50 $48.50

The styles include many single-breasteds and double-breasteds, and the popular bellows back models. The fabrics vary greatly; Torrington twists; our famous Wear Weevs; smooth and rougher textured tweeds; finished and unfinished worsteds. The patterns cover wide and close-spaced stripes; small checks, subdued Glenn plaids. The colors offer a surprising sweep—all the best greys, rich browns, tans and blues.

SHIRTS

Size, Color and Style Range Not Up to Standard Brought On These Reductions



$1.65 $2.15

At $2.15 you'll find more handsome shirtings than we've assembled at one time in such a "drastically reduced area." Each one boasts the good tailoring and style features that mark them as belonging to a superior shirt class. All white, colors, patterns. Collar attached and neckband styles.

At $1.65—all white shirts of broadcloth for the most part. Collar attached and neckband styles. A half dozen would go far to strengthen the "backbone" of your shirt drawer and you could not pick a better time to do it.

At $3.15—a well set-up showing of some very good-looking imported and domestic shirtings—many with rich interwoven color effects and white broadcloth. Collar attached and neckband styles.

All sizes are in the sale

NECKTIES

Lower Their Prices Dramatically But Their Style Interest Runs High

85c each

They include summer's "best sellers" and some year 'round classics. But for the most part they're the kind that appear to advantage with your summer suits—many breezy crepes and silk foulards with dots, circles, scrolls, stripes and small all-over figures. We predict a cleaning out of some of your "has-beens" once you've given these your attention.

PAJAMAS Reduced

Offer about every comfortable pajama style you could want. Coat styles with and without collars—and V neck middy. Bright figured broadcloths, and some cool solid colors with contrasting pipings. $1.85

UNDERWEAR Reduced

The finely woven madras in these lends itself perfectly to the skilled tailoring details that set these athletic one piece suits in a remarkable saving class all their own. $1.35

HOSIERY Reduced

Lisle-and-silk, lisle-and-rayon—a great pattern variety, including clocks, fine-line stripes, and about every interesting small-over effect. All are stoutly reinforced—and almost in the "give-away" category at their present reduced price. 45c Pair

HANDKERCHIEFS

All pure linen 18 inches square and all white with hand-rolled edges and corded-line borders. Some of the strongest reductions we've ever introduced in or out of a clearance sale! 29c

CUBS, CARDINALS SPLIT PAIR OF 6-2 GAMES

INDIAN RUNNER WINS $14,000 STARS AND STRIPES

ADVISING ANNA 2D; LADYSMAN, FAVORITE, IS 3D

25,000 See Upset at Arlington.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Indian Runner, the old crippled horse from southern Illinois, which races for D. A. Woods of Benton, staged a spectacular stretch run before a holiday crowd of 25,000 at Arlington Park yesterday and won the $10,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap by a nose.

Faltering in the last step to surrender to the final desperate charge of Indian Runner was Advising Anna. She saved second money from Ladysman, which finished third. Ladysman was the favorite.

Indian Runner paid $15.28 to win in the mutuels, $6.06 to place, and $4.32 to show. Advising Anna, also a long shot, returned $21.72 to place and $9.76 to show. Ladysman's price for third was $3.26.

The most unusual happening at a race track in America this year occurred in the running of the Columbia purse, which engaged 3 year olds, all eligible to the Classic stakes.

Signal Man, owned by the Audley Farm stable of Virginia, bolted away from the barrier and ran around the track twice before attendants could stop him and start the third race. Even with this waste of energy he had enough reserve to finish second.

Betting Totals $560,000.

The attendance mark of 25,000—all paid—was estimated by George Foster, secretary of the Illinois racing commission. He made the estimate after a careful early afternoon check of the turnstiles. The betting for the day was slightly more than $560,000. It was the biggest racing day of the year in Chicago, the betting and attendance having gone beyond the American Derby day figures at Washington Park.

Ladysman, the conqueror of the great Equipoise in the Suburban handicap, and the Arlington futurity winner of two years ago, had only one excuse to offer. He was forced to race wide most of the way after Jocky Coucci had tried to drive him through next to the rail on three occasions.

Indian Runner, whose daddy Dis Donc II., died only two days ago on the Whitney breeding place in Kentucky, closed an enormous amount of ground in the stretch. He was close up rounding the Post and Paddock club turn and was racing on the inside.

Going down the back stretch he was pinched back and as the field started wheeling into the last turn Indian Runner was galloping along in sixth place.

Bien Fait Leads at Start.

Bien Fait, which had leaped away from the barrier in full stride, was making the pace, Advising Anna was running second. Barn Swallow, the Bradley hope, was third, and Ladysman, losing ground racing wide, was fourth. Evergold was plodding along in fifth place and Indian Runner was just beginning to move toward the leaders.

He headed into the stretch in third place, but Advising Anna and Bien Fait were going so strongly the job of catching them appeared hopeless.

Half way down the stretch Advising Anna moved on past the faltering Bien Fait and for an instant she appeared as the certain winner. Coming on the outside in a stride that had a "do or die" tag hung on it, was Indian Runner. Bien Fait, after being whipped by Advising Anna, dropped back quickly. Ladysman moved up with a dash of speed that for an instant threatened to cut short Indian Runner's great rally.

Two Straight Victories.

Indian Runner sensed the danger

BRITISH ROUT LAST AMERICANS AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, July 4.—[Special.]—The British empire's two ranking tennis players, Jack Crawford of Australia and Fred Perry of England, swept the last two American survivors from the semi-final round of the Wimbledon tennis tournament in two magnificent five set matches today and assured an all-British final on the center court Saturday.

Crawford, the reigning champion, rose to the greatest heights of his tennis career to defeat Frank Shields after losing the first two sets and trailing by 3-1 in the third. The score was 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4. It was one of the finest comebacks on any court.

Perry Eliminates Wood.

Perry, England's No. 1 player and holder of the American singles title, completed the route by upsetting Sidney B. Wood Jr., the 1931 champion, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

So evenly fought were the two five set struggles that a single point going the other way at the right time could have changed the result of either match.

Shields, in winning the first two sets, unleashed what critics who have followed him since his schoolboy days declared was the greatest tennis of his career. His backhand, a notoriously weak spot in his armor heretofore, crackled into the corners and even proved stadier than Crawford's in the long rallies which came on nearly every point.

The fact that Crawford rallied to take the last three sets is no reflection on Shields' staying qualities. The New Yorker held his game at almost the same level, but the sure, methodical Crawford pulled his game to its peak and kept it there.

Thrilling Forecourt Exchanges.

The Wood-Perry conflict, which immediately followed, if anything, exceeded the first in tenseness. Where the opener mostly was a backcourt duel, Sidney and Fred went at each other like a couple of game cocks, almost invariably following their services to the net to engage in thrilling forecourt exchanges.

The result was that first one and then the other was hammering his opponent back with his service. Whenever a service break came it meant that set for the one who did it.

The final point of the match was almost anti-climax. After dropping his service in the fifth game, Wood, struggling to ward off defeat, pulled up from love-40 to 30-40 when Perry apparently flubbed a return. However, it hit the net cord, and with a dull plop dropped into Wood's forecourt, to give the Englishman game, set, and match.

It's Up to Helen Jacobs.

America's prestige was left strictly up to Helen Jacobs, who plays Joan Hartigan of Australia tomorrow in one of the semi-finals of women's singles. Dorothy Round, England's No. 1, meets Mme. Rene Mathieu, veteran French player, in the other.

Talking It Over

NATIONAL A. A. U. SWIMMING MEET WILL OPEN TODAY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Some of America's fastest swimmers will race today in the north lagoon at A Century of Progress in a preliminary to the mile free style event of the National A. A. U. outdoor swimming championship meet. The final events of the meet will be held at the same place tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.

The mile elimination contest, which is scheduled for 3 p. m. today, will bring together Ralph Flanagan of Coral Gables, Fla., defending champion in that event, Jack Medica, of Seattle, Wash., generally considered the world's fastest distance swimmer, and ten other contestants.

Flanagan Holds Record.

Flanagan holds the American record for the mile, 21:12.2, and he also is the 300 meter medley swim champion. Medica holds the world record for the 880 yard free style, 10:15.4. He and Flanagan will match speed at this distance on Saturday.

Others who will compete in today's one mile elimination are Donald Goulding of the Detroit A. C., Bob Boals and Herbert Barthels of the Los Angeles A. C., D. Woodford, Bill Parmelee, Gerald Rudig, Bob Karver, Culver Wilbur, Nelson Otis, and Buster Olds. The mile final will be held tomorrow.

The Los Angeles Athletic club has entered 10 swimmers in the individual events and the two relays, the 880 yard free style and 300 meter medley. In the group of Pacific coast stars is Frank Kurtz, defending A. A. U. high board diving champion, who will compete in this diving event only, leaving the springboard diving to Dick Degner of the Detroit Athletic club, defending champion, and his rivals.

Detroit Enters Eight.

Detroit has entered eight men and two relay teams. The list includes Jim Gilhula, winner of the 1933 100 meter free style race. The 100 meter course is laid out on the west bank of the north lagoon and can be seen from the banked seats of the lagoon theater.

Dan Zehr of the Fort Wayne, Ind., Y. M. C. A., winner of the 1933 220 yard back stroke title and holder of the American short course record for the 100 yard back stroke, will meet Vande Weghe of the Newark, N. J., A. C. in the 100 meter back stroke race Saturday afternoon. Weghe holds the A. A. U. indoor title at 150 yards and his time of 1:35.9 stands as a world record.

The schedule of events for the meet follows:

Tomorrow—One mile free style; 100 meter free style; 220 yard breast stroke, and low board diving.

Saturday—440 yard free style; 100 meter back stroke, and 880 yard free style relay [four men].

Sunday—220 yard free style; 880 yard free style; high board diving, and 300 meter medley relay [three men].

Sox Lose to Browns, 4-0; Then Win Second Game, 3-2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox and St. Louis Browns reached an amicable settlement yesterday in their Fourth of July affairs before 14,000. The guests enjoyed their share of the celebration by taking a 4 to 0 decision in the first half of a double header, and the Pale Hose evened up by winning a 3 to 2 verdict in the second. The latter, however, came dangerously close to being another jolt for the south siders, who escaped from a bad situation by nalling the tying run between third and home for the final play of the afternoon.

Battle No. 1 developed nothing except grief for the Sox because they couldn't hit Dick Coffman, whereas the Brownies refused to show any consideration for Sam Jones' age or lengthy period of servitude. The blond Coffman, who hadn't survived a full game since he whipped the Sox a month ago, yielded only two hits and permitted only one runner to reach third. He gave them a few openings through liberality with passes, but the locals couldn't put them to good use.

Tietje Fans Nine.

Leslie Tietje, a Texas league graduate, was the big item in the second game even though he wasn't present for the conclusion. For seven innings he climbed out of one bad situation after another, mainly because of a strikeout ball. The Brownies finally nicked him for a run in the eighth, but he fanned two men during the inning for a total of nine strikeouts. Then he walked a hostile to inaugurate the ninth, and was banished to make room for Phil Gallivan, who settled the argument after difficulties of various kinds. Gallivan brought on the finish just in time to make the three runs the Sox had plucked from George Blaeholder in the fourth mean something.

Along with the beating in the opening battle the Sox had to accept another jolt, for one of their regulars, Jack Hayes, the second sacker who returned only a few days ago after a seven weeks' absence due to an operation on his throwing arm, was sent on another vacation. In the sixth inning he reached for a throw from Catcher Madjeski while Strange was stealing. The ball hit Hayes on the right thumb, causing a fracture that will keep him out of action for more than a month.

FIRST GAME

Grube, the former Comiskey employé, slapped a single to right to open the second inning and this start developed into two runs off the veteran Jones. Strange followed with a single to center and Grube showed so little consideration for Haas' throwing that he took third on the hit. He scored by working a double steal with Strange as Coffman fanned. Clift lofted to Haas and Strange took third after the catch. West beat out a single to Hayes and continued to second when the latter threw wide to Bonura. Strange scored on the hit.

After the unhappy second inning Jones found travel fairly easy until the fifth when West punched a homer into the right field seats, then the Browns didn't break out again until the ninth. With one out Clift singled to center. West bounced a single through short at a time when Boken had the happy idea of going over to cover second. Clift took third on the hit and scored on Burns' fly to Swanson.

Sox Lose Chances.

The Sox' best inning against Coffman was the third when four men reached base but none scored. Madjeski led off with a walk but was doubled on Jones' grounder to Melillo. Coffman resumed his wild streak by walking Swanson. Haas singled to right and the bags were filled to the limit when Dykes walked. This gave Bonura a chance to do something for his rapidly increased constituents but Muscles was able to offer nothing better than a pop to Strange.

There was only one other inning in which the Sox had more than a lone runner on bases. This development came in the sixth, due to an error. Dykes survived with one out because of a fumble by Strange. Bonura banged a fly to deep center but the agile West operates in those parts so there was no trouble in catching it. Then Simmons walked and the inning closed with Pepper taking Chamberlin's long drive close to the left field wall.

SECOND GAME

During the first three innings the Browns didn't have much luck with Tietje's pitching. He fanned a couple of them in the first inning and two

WEAVER FANS 9 AS HE AVENGES DEFEAT OF LEE

Cuyler on Batting Rampage.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., July 4.—Big Bill Lee wasn't big enough to lick the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a double header today, but bigger Jim Weaver, aided heroically by Kiki Cuyler, proved just the big parcel of power that the Cubs needed to halve their holiday endeavors before a crowd of 24,500. The Cardinals took the first game, 6 to 2, after the Cubs had blown a two run lead they had at the end of the fifth inning, and the Cubs took the second, 6 to 2.

The first game setback dipped the Cubs into third place by several percentage points, but the victory restored them to second place in the National league. The day was a loss, however, for the Cubs sagged three games back of the leading New York Giants.

Tanned in First Game.

The Cubs were thoroughly tanned in the first game, making only six hits off Tex Carleton, while the Cards soaked 11 safe ones off Lee and added three more off Charley Root.

In the second game Weaver struck out nine, whiffing Delancey four straight times. He gave up only five hits in the first seven innings. After the Cubs had given him a plump lead he yielded four more hits, three of them infield scratches. This classifies as pretty handsome work for a 245 pound behemoth under a 110 degree St. Louis sun.

But passing on from the pitchers, let's get to Cuyler's vital performance in the victory number. Ki struck out the first time up and got so provoked that he followed up with a triple and three doubles. After the triple he scored on a wild pitch to tie the count, and he put the Cubs ahead, 2 to 1, when he scored after his first double. His second double drove in the fourth Chicago run, and he later scored run No. 5.

Trapped Off Base.

The third double did not blossom into a run because Ki was too zealous about scoring his fourth run and got trapped between third and second.

Going into the sixth inning of the opening game, the Cubs seemed to be feeling right comfortable with a 2 to 0 lead. In fact, their two runs, one of which had been acquired on a single by Bill Herman and a double by Klein in the first inning and the other on a single by Phelps after Cuyler had been hit by a pitched ball, seemed quite adequate. But the home sixth was a terrible denouement.

Joe Medwick started it with one of his four singles. A passed ball, a double by Davis, singles by Orsatti and Durocher, a spurious triple which Martin got on Klein's misjudgment, and of all things, a balk, gave the Cards five runs. They added another off Charley Root in the sixth, but nobody paid much attention to that, seeing as Carleton had the Cubs in complete submission.

FIRST GAME

Billy Herman started the game with a single, went to second while Carleton was throwing out English and scored when Klein lined a double off the right field screen. Babe Herman and Cuyler then grounded out.

Cuyler was hit by a pitched ball in the fourth and the Cubs' second run resulted. Cuyler promptly stole second and scored on Phelps' single to center.

Bombard Lee in Sixth.

After wasting hits, the Cardinals got around to scoring off Lee in the sixth. Medwick led off with his third straight single and went to second on a passed ball. Then Collins flied to Klein, but Davis doubled inside the right foul line, scoring Medwick. Orsatti singled to center, scoring Davis with the tying run, and took second

GIANTS CRUSH BRAVES TWICE, 9 TO 1 AND 15 TO 0

Ott Gets 2 Homers in 2d, O'Doul 1 in Each.

New York, July 4.—(AP)—After defeating the Braves, 9 to 1, in the first game, the New York Giants swamped Boston, 15 to 0, in the second contest today. Freddie Fitzsimmons held the Braves to six hits in the opening game, while Carl Hubbell went him one better in the second. Mel Ott hammered out two homers in the second game, boosting his total to 21, while Lefty O'Doul hit a home run in each game.

PIRATES, REDS SPLIT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 4.—(AP)—Pittsburgh and Cincinnati divided honors in their double header today, the Pirates taking the morning game, 5 to 1, and the Reds coming back in the afternoon to win, 4 to 3.

Clever pitching by Paul Derringer in the second game helped the Reds to their hard earned victory. He yielded 12 hits, but they were well scattered. Schulmerich's homer in the seventh clinched the game.

Larry French, for the Pirates, beat Silas Johnson in the morning contest, which the Pirates decided in the early innings by hard hitting and taking advantage of loose play by the Reds. Scores:

Yankees Split Double Header with Red Sox

Boston, Mass., July 4.—(AP)—A holiday crowd of 33,819 saw the Boston Red Sox win the first game of a double header with the New York Yankees, 8 to 5, and then drop the second, 10 to 4.

The Red Sox pounded the offerings of Danny MacFayden for 12 hits before a man was out in the fifth inning of the first game and scored seven of their eight runs at his expense. Every Boston player hit safely at least once, and Werber singled twice, scored three times, drove in a run, and stole his 20th base.

Jimmy Deshong held the Red Sox to four hits in the second game for his first victory of the season. Scores:

Sox Lose to Browns, 4-0; Then Win, 3-2

more in the second. The Brownies finally broke in with a hit in the third. Hemsley, ex-Cub, led off with a two bagger to left but never progressed any farther than third. The Brownies also came up with some hitting in the fourth. Burns singled and took third on a single by Pepper with one out. Campbell then fanned and Burns was run down in an attempted double steal.

The Sox couldn't make headway in the first three innings although the initial batter in each reached base. However, they made up for this by their blast against Blaeholder in the fourth. Dykes started it with a single to left. Bonura did the same. Simmons singled to center, putting Dykes across the plate and Bonura on third. Boken singled to center, Bonura scoring and Simmons taking third. Another single to center popped off Chamberlin's bat, Simmons scoring. Then Knott relieved Blaeholder and the run stopped.

Tietje Encounters Trouble.

Tietje encountered more difficulties in the fifth. Melillo singled and Strange walked with one out. The next gentlemen were easy. There also were complications in the sixth but in this instance Swanson interceded in Tietje's behalf. West opened with a single and Burns whacked one that looked as if destined to wind up in the right field pavilion. It came down just inside the barrier and Swanson, by leaping up along the wall, grabbed it.

After Knott's appearance in a rescue role the Sox weren't able to make a serious gesture until the seventh. Then Chamberlin opened with a single and took third on a hit by Shea. Prospects for some run getting began to fade when Tietje forced Shea at second. Swanson sailed a fairly deep fly to Campbell and Chamberlin thought he could score after the catch but a bullet like throw to Hemsley nailed him with room to spare.

Pinch Hitter Fans.

Tietje fanned pinch batter Clift to start the eighth and the Browns then proceeded to get out of the whitewash zone. Bejma singled to center, West popped out and Burns singled to right, sending Bejma to third. The latter scored on a wild pitch that helped Pepper to draw a pass. Then Campbell ran his string to 3 and 2 before becoming the victim of Tietje's ninth strikeout.

Tietje brought on his dismissal by walking Melillo to open the ninth. Gallivan came in and when Hemsley singled it didn't look as if Boss Dykes had made much of an improvement. Strange's bunt moved the two runners to third and second. Gallivan shook off Garms, who batted for McAfee, on three strikes. Then Bejma bounced to Boken who fumbled. The error let Melillo score but Hemsley, who tried to get home on it was nipped between third and home for the final play.

Cubs, Cards Divide Pair of 6-2 Games

while Hack was cutting off Cuyler's throw to the plate. Durocher singled to center, scoring Orsatti. Martin got credit for a triple when Klein misjudged his fly, Durocher scoring. Martin was waved home on Lee's balk. Rothrock was called out on strikes.

The Cubs' sixth hit off Carleton did not come until the seventh when Hack singled to left. Lee was removed for Pinch Batter Hartnett, who lined to Medwick. Neither Billy Herman nor English could get Hack farther than second base.

Root Yields Sixth Run.

Root took over the pitching job in the seventh and yielded the Cardinals' sixth run. He threw out Frisch, but Medwick's fourth single, a one baser by Collins and a single which Davis caromed off Hack's glove, filled the bases. Medwick scored on Orsatti's fly to Cuyler. Durocher then forced Davis for the third out.

SECOND GAME

Soft voiced coaching didn't do the Cubs any good in the first inning. Bill Herman walked and then English started a single toward right. When Herman started running it appeared that the ball would get past Frisch, but Frankie dived to knock it down. Herman rounded second as Frisch scrambled to his feet with the ball in his hand and had no difficulty tossing to Martin to get Bill when he arrived in the vicin

HOPE BEATS FOUR Q AND P SLOOPS IN ANNUAL REGATTA

Bagheera Wins Class A Cruising Event.

Hope, the Robinson brothers' champion sloop, won the Q and P class event in the annual Lake Michigan Yachting association regatta yesterday off Navy Pier. Hope's elapsed time was 2:13:09. Princess was second and Flight third, Intrepid fourth, and Chaperon fifth. The windjammers sailed into a southeasterly breeze in the first leg of the race. An hour later the wind dropped almost to a calm, but picked up to 15 to 18 miles an hour as the yachts crossed the finish line.

Bagheera, Bob Benedict's big black schooner, headed the class A cruising craft all the way, and finished in 2 hours 11 minutes 44 seconds. Bagheera had no time allowance. John T. Snite's auxiliary cutter, Valkyrie, was second.

Gossoon II. Beats Gypsy.

The two perennial rivals in the R class, Gossoon II. and Gypsy, finished first and second, respectively. Finishing in 2:50:36, the Gossoon II., owned by the Vail-Morton syndicate, was 3 minutes 34 seconds ahead of Fred Wacker's Gypsy.

The only yacht without a competitor was Swanee, owned by Hanson and Lotz, which won in the universal yawl class, automatically. With a time of 3:11:48 Swanee defeated the Universal schooner victor, West Wind, by 11 minutes, on elapsed time.

Getting away to a head start the sloop Gemini led a fleet of seven Stars representing four yacht clubs. The Stars, racing without handicaps, sailed once around a 5 statute mile course. Gemini covered the distance in 1 hour and 20 seconds. Only 22 seconds astern was Tom Waage, also from the Sheridan Shore Yacht club, in his Neo, which won the last two races at Wilmette. George Dalseg's Bee placed third in 1:01:00, followed by the Jane II. in 1:03:18.

Aquila Wins in Eagle Class.

In the Eagle class George Getz Jr.'s Aquila won over a field of six class S, or Eagle sloops. Finishing in 3 hours, 1 minute and 40 seconds, Aquila's corrected time over the 10¾ mile course was 2:44:25.

The Galloping Snail, smallest yacht in the regatta, won the Class class race for one design 15½ foot sloops. Bill D. Horton, owner of the Galloping Snail, sailed the 5 mile course in 2:47:12. The Wee finished in 2:12:45, but was disqualified for having no number.

Commodore Nat Rubinkam's cruising schooner Rubaiyat finished first in the B cruising class and won with a corrected time of 3:28:28.

Heritage Wins Two Heats.

Two heats were run for the speedboats. Heritage, owned by Commodore J. J. Heritage of the Jackson Park Motor Boat club, won both. Its best average speed was 43 statute miles per hour for the 2½ mile course. Milton Friend's runabout, Aquila, followed the Heritage at 41.6 miles per hour. How Much, Lester Winternetz's runabout, finished third. A St. Joseph, Mich., yacht, How Much, was timed at 41.3 miles an hour.

KENT OARSMEN ARE BEATEN IN HENLEY REGATTA

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 4.—(AP)—Kent school oarsmen from Connecticut, defending the Thames Challenge cup won last year, were eliminated by the strong Quintin crew of London in the first heat of the Henley regatta today, but three other American crews and two singles scullers won their opening brushes on the four day program.

Yale's 150 pound lights defeated Trinity by a length and Tabor academy of Marion, Mass., eliminated Maidenhead by five lengths, both in the Thames cup competition. A Yale four oared shell, competing for the Wynford cup, easily beat Molesey.

Princeton's varsity, favorite in the Grand Challenge cup, will race tomorrow against Pembroke college of Cambridge, but two Tiger singles scullers won their opening diamond sculls heats today.

Winthrop Rutherfurd, coach of the varsity, defeated A. V. C. Douglas of the Scots guard by three lengths in the fast time of 8 minutes 46 seconds. Henry Bugbee, spare varsity oarsman, kept pace with him by eliminating H. L. Warren of England by four lengths.

CARDINALS BEAT LINCOLNSHIRE IN POLO MATCH, 6-2

The 124th Field Artillery Cardinals defeated Lincolnshire, 6 to 2, in a polo game yesterday at the Lincolnshire field. Maj. R. G. Hunter and Capt. Bill Everett each scored two goals for the winners and Lieut. J. McAnulty one. The other was kicked in by a pony. One of Everett's goals was a 60 yard free shot which he pitched over the heads of his opponents. Don Rice and Charles Roovart scored the Lincolnshire goals. Thirty seconds before the end of the game Roovart suffered a broken shoulder when his pony fell while he and McAnulty were racing for the ball.

THISTLE ACES WIN.

The Thistle Aces won their seventh consecutive victory yesterday in the Chicago Independent Amateur Baseball league by defeating the Pythons, 5 to 1.

Judges Picked for Tribune Golf School

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Horton Smith of Oak Park, Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Tommy Armour of Medinah, Jock Hutchison of Glen View, Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, and Dick Metz of Mill Road farm were named yesterday to compose the jury which will select the winners of the final form competition of THE TRIBUNE'S second annual free golf school. This last of the school's graduating exercises will be held Thursday night, July 19, at Mid-City, Grace street and Western avenue. The first, an eighteen hole medal play tournament from scratch, will be conducted on Saturday, July 14, at Mission Hills, located at Sanders and Techny roads, near Northbrook.

The 23,000 pupils who have been attending the school's classes on the nineteen member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association for the last five weeks will have their final opportunity to brush up on the tests before these six judges tonight and tomorrow night, when the fifth and final lessons of the course will be given.

Week's Schedule Changed.

The regular schedule this week was changed because of yesterday's holiday, the couples' division being dispensed with entirely. Tonight's lesson will be for all individual men and junior boys, as well as the men members of the couples' class. Tomorrow will see the final lesson for women, girls, and the feminine pupils who have been attending on couples' night.

None of the six judges who will have the final say in the form contest at Mid-City needs an introduction. Four of them—Cooper, Walsh, Armour and Hutchison—were present at last year's final. Smith at the time was playing with the Ryder cup team in England, and Metz is a newcomer to the district this year, coming from the Hollywood club at Deal, N. J., where he was assistant to Craig Wood at A. D. Lasker's Mill Road farm course in West Lake Forest.

Smith, during the last winter, was the second biggest money winner among the pros, his most notable triumph coming in the masters' tournament at Augusta. Armour, one of the greatest stylists in the game, has a competitive record which is unique, that of having held every major title for which professionals compete.

Armour on Air Tonight.

Cooper is currently the greatest tournament golfer in the central states, having tied for third in the national open, and won the western, Illinois open, and Illinois P. G. A. championships within fifteen days, during which he played 72 extra holes. Walsh is one of the most consistent golfers in the game; Hutchison has held the British, western and National P. G. A. crowns, and Metz is one of the younger generation who within the last two years have been making it more difficult for the veterans.

All pupils of the Tribune golf school are asked to tune in station W-G-N tonight at 6:30 o'clock, when Tom Armour will be interviewed by Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, vice president of the Daily Fee association, on the latter's regular Thursday night golf broadcast.

RIVERSIDE.

Richard Dowell won the flag tournament and W. S. Henney cup by going to the 19th hole. H. H. Leonard took the C. E. Heywood trophy with a 36 hole low net card of 188—48—140. Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Low gross winners were R. H. Watson, 76, and R. S. Drew, 78. C. A. Bush won the least putts with 27. Members of the low net foursome who totaled 293 were R. L. Lasater, E. L. Essley, C. M. Case, and G. A. Zlebarth. The latter also copped the flag event. C. A. Lahey had the low gross total on the 3rd, 8th, 14th, and 16th holes, shooting 18 or two over par.

WESTWARD HO.

E. V. Blake scored a 75—40—115 to win the low gross for 27 holes. Low net for 27 holes went to M. E. Allen with 135—35—100. Low gross, 18 holes, W. G.—Leininger, 79; net—H. G. Hardin, 86—19—67. Frank A. Ghiselli, with a gross of 74, won the Junior event, and E. J. Kostohrys scored a 93—22—71 to win the net prize.

Holiday Shooting on Chicago Golf Courses

R. G. McKAY, with 176—36—140, won Exmoor's Al Anderson Memorial trophy for 36 holes, low net, and was second to D. M. Nelson in the flag contest. F. B. McConnell, 84—15—69, and W. W. Hinshaw, 81—12—69, led the sweepstakes winners. Leading qualifiers for the club championship were Jim Harrison, 154; Waldo Thorsem, 156; Art Harrison, 157; A. M. Wood, 157, and J. O. Giles, 158.

ACACIA.

R. J. O'Conner and R. L. Buckley scored a 198—48—150 and B. C. Nicols paired with R. Lehman came in with 167—16—151 to finish first and second in the four ball foursome event. Winners in the mixed foursome event follow: Jim McCoy and Mrs. Carl Smith, 109—32—77; Mrs. H. Scott and Don Schroder, 104—25—79; Mrs. McKeever and J. Corrigan, 114—35—79. J. M. McCoy won the driving contest with a drive of 220 yards. J. M. McKinley finished with 33 putts to win the putting contest.

BARRINGTON HILLS.

Three trophies were awarded in the flag event which featured the prize list. N. H. Pritchard won the event and the L. M. Hansen trophy when he carried his flag off the 19th tee. Robert Hilton was second and took the Howard Van S. Tracy trophy by going to the 18th cup, and Dan Woodhead took the A. S. Barrows trophy by going to the 18th fairway. The winners in the Barrington Derby were Hilton, 76—6—71; Woodhead, 89—15—74, and S. A. Goodman, 82—7—75.

BEVERLY.

J. A. Mudd Jr. won the low gross for 36 holes prize with a pair of 77s, for a total of 154. J. S. Osborne, 183—38—145, and Phil Lenz, 166—20—146, were the low net 36 hole leaders. Bill Ian took morning low gross with 40—35—75, and Don Hamilton and John McKinlay Jr. tied in the afternoon with 81s. W. Wentzlaff took low net for the morning with 101—30—71, and Gray Tuthill won in the afternoon with 81—9—72.

BOB O' LINK.

Robert A. Cavanaugh with a net score of 88—17—71 won the morning class A and B medal play event. Class C and D was won by A. M. Clement with a 100—27—73. A. C. Allyn won the class A and B, and T. Harrington the class C and D flag tournament in the afternoon.

BUNKER HILL.

Al Rand scored a 77 to win the morning 18 hole low gross event, while J. P. Riley and Ray Odman finished second with 79. Odman won second on a draw. Jim Monahan won the net prize with an 85—14—71. Dan Upp scored an 82—14—68 [71], and Max Schurrlein finished with an 89—20—69 [71], with Monahan winning the prize on a draw. In the afternoon Mrs. M. Samuels finished with a total of 49—50—99 to win the four ball mixed foursome low gross event. Joe O'Toole won gross for men with 43—37—80. Low net went to C. W. Seidel with 81—12—69 [71]. All scores revert back to par 71.

MME. CURIE DIES A VICTIM OF HER WORK ON RADIUM

Bone Structure Weakened by Years of Exposure.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 4.—Mme. Marie Curie, honored for 30 years as France's greatest woman, who died this morning in the little town of Passy in the French Alps, was the victim at least in part of her years of research in radium.

Famous throughout the world as the codiscoverer of radium with her late husband, Mme. Curie worked until the last on the dangerous metal, which they revealed to the world in 1898. Her doctors admitted today that her inability to recover from an attack of pernicious anemia was probably due to the fact that her bone structure was weakened by years of exposure to radium and X-rays. She was 66 years of age.

Doctors Unable to Help Her.

After treatment in a Paris clinic for a few weeks, Mme. Curie was removed several days ago to a sanitarium in French Savoy, but the doctors who sped to her bedside from Paris were helpless in the face of a rapid decline. All they could do was to wait, along with her two daughters and a son-in-law, and early this morning convey the news of her death, first to the small group of Paris scientists with whom the famous woman worked constantly since the nineties, and then to the world at large.

The magnificent career of this Polish woman who married Pierre Curie, young French scientist in 1895, ended only with her last illness. She directed her radiological laboratory until forced to take to her bed a few weeks ago. Only recently this slender, austere figure, always dressed in black, gave her last lecture at the Sorbonne, where she was the first woman ever to occupy a chair on the faculty.

France in Mourning.

Today all France joined in mourning Mme. Curie, but in keeping with the simplicity of her life, she will be given a purely private funeral. She will be buried beside her husband, whose death in 1906 did not prevent her continuing the valuable work they had begun together.

A movement is gaining momentum to have the bodies of both the Curies placed beside those of Voltaire, Rousseau, and other great men of France in the Pantheon, which, incidentally, is only a few hundred feet from the research institute the government built for the woman scientist after her husband's death.

"It is a great human figure which has disappeared," Prof. Jean Perrin, one of Mme. Curie's closest collaborators, thus characterized her death.

MOURN MME. CURIE HERE.

Chicago scientists, physicians, and hundreds whose sufferings were eased by her discoveries mourned yesterday the death of Mme. Marie Curie, radium pioneer.

Dr. Maud Slye of the University of Chicago, internationally known for her research with mice into cancer heredity, declared the Polish-French-woman "one of the foremost woman scientists of the world," whose death is "a great loss" to mankind.

Dr. Bowman Crowell, secretary of the committee on the treatment of malignant diseases of the American College of Surgeons, termed Mme. Curie "one of the greatest women of the century," whose radium findings "made possible one of the greatest advances in medical science of all time."

ARREST TAVERN INVADER.

Mike Traficanti, 21 years old, 1245 Erie street, was seized by police yesterday after he had broken into a tavern at 534 West Chicago avenue to get liquor.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: When It's Smart to Be Dumb

SUICIDES IN U.S. DECLINE 2.2 PER 100,000 IN 1933

Other Countries Show Lower Rate.

New York, July 4.—[Special.]—The suicide rate for 1933 declined to 19.1 per 100,000 of population in the United States as against 21.3 in 1932, according to figures made public today by Frederick L. Hoffman, insurance statistician, in Spectator, the national insurance weekly.

Mr. Hoffman attributes the decline to "The lessening effects of the financial and industrial depression." Improved economic conditions, he adds, "have a direct bearing on a measurable proportion of the suicides due to unemployment, business failures, general discouragement, etc." He says that the worldwide increase in suicides which accompanied the depression appeared to have been arrested last year in other countries besides this, "suggestive of an improvement in economic conditions the world over, particularly in the unemployment situation."

U. S. Half Way Down.

The United States stands about half way down the list of thirty countries for which the suicide rate has been tabulated, according to Mr. Hoffman, from Chile with a rate of 3.2 per 100,000, to Austria with a rate of 34.5.

Mr. Hoffman asserts that "not far from 25,000 lives are lost by suicide at the present time in the course of a year."

Another more detailed survey of 17 American cities, he continues, showed a decline from 8,654 suicides in 1932 to 7,961 in 1933. Suicide decreased in 103 cities, increased in 74, and remained the same in two.

In New York City, he says, the rate declined from 22.1 to 18.3 per 100,000. He gives the following table for the five largest cities of the country:

	—1932—		—1933—
	Deaths.	Rate.	Deaths.	Rate.
Chicago	597	16.9	579	16.1
Detroit	311	18.4	255	14.6
Los Angeles....	398	28.8	439	30.4
New York.....1,595		22.1	1,343	18.3
Philadelphia ..	353	17.8	332	16.7
Totals 3,254		20.6	2,948	18.3

During the 14 years since 1920, Mr. Hoffman adds, there have been 15,143 suicides in New York City, 6,971 in Chicago, 4,144 in Philadelphia, and 3,092 in San Francisco—a total of 29,260 for these four cities.

Lists Highest, Lowest.

Mr. Hoffman lists the following ten cities with the highest suicide rate in 1933:

Davenport, Ia....40.3		San Diego, Cal..34.5
San Francisco....38.0		Sacram'to, Cal..34.1
Denver, Colo.....35.9		Lexington, Ky...34.0
Atl'tic City, N.J.35.2		Wash'ton, D. C. 33.3
Tacoma, Wash...34.6		Orange, N. J....31.9

He also listed the following ten cities as having the lowest suicide rates for 1933:

Williamsport, Pa..2.1		Niag. Falls, N. Y..6.0
Troy, N. Y.....4.1		Malden, Mass.....6.6
Lansing, Mich.....4.7		Quincy, Mass.....6.3
Holyoke, Mass....5.3		New Brit'n, Conn..7.1
Hamilton, O.....5.7		Somerville, Mass..7.5

TRAFIC CRASHES AFTER HOLIDAY TAKE FOUR LIVES

Motorist Killed, 5 Hurt by Hit-Run Driver.

Although there were no deaths yesterday in Cook county due to automobile accidents the same day, there was a letdown in the vigilance of drivers after midnight and four deaths occurred in the early hours today.

Stephen Kowalski, 45 years old, 1029 North Hoyne avenue, was killed and five others riding with him were injured when his car was struck at Nagle and Bryn Mawr avenues by another automobile whose driver failed to stop. The Kowalski car was overturned. The injured were Mrs. Mayme Kowalski, 42 years old, wife of Stephen; their daughter Loretta, 15 years old; Miss Hazel Christenson, 19 years old, 6157 Bryn Mawr avenue; Ben Brazinski, 39 years old, 3436 Parker avenue, and his wife, Sophie, 37 years old.

Driver Runs Into Trolley.

Peter Mertens, 28 years old, 6104 North Winchester avenue, was killed when an automobile he was driving collided with a north bound Lincoln avenue car at Washtenaw avenue this morning.

At about the same time an unidentified girl about 19 years old was struck and killed at 45th street and Ashland avenue by a car driven by Thomas Oliver, 34 years old, 5753 South Artesian avenue.

An unidentified woman was the fourth of the early morning victims. She was killed in a collision of cars at Elmhurst and Algonquin roads, Des Plaines.

Mary Lucille McLain, 4 years old, 1425 North Kildare avenue, died in the Danish-American hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Tuesday when she was struck near her home by a car driven by Ray Nippe, 4137 Kamerling avenue.

County Toll Rises to 607.

These deaths increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 607.

William G. Shirer, vice president and general manager of Henry Holt & Co., publishing concern at 2626 Prairie avenue, died on Tuesday night in a Chippewa Falls, Wis., hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident near there on Monday.

According to word received here, Mr. Shirer's car left the road. He was driving alone to his lodge at Deer River, Minn., having left Chicago Monday morning. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bessie V. Shirer, and two sons, John and Richard. His residence was 441 Anthony street, Glen Ellyn.

Mr. and Mrs. John Laszak, both 40 years old, 2125 Greenwood avenue, and Miss Viola Wantala, 20 years old, 4839 South Marshfield avenue, were injured when their automobile collided with the car of William H. Kerrigan of Logansport, Ind., on Indiana route 43 near Wanatah. Kerrigan also was hurt.

SURGEON USES KITCHEN KNIFE TO SAVE CHILD

An emergency surgical operation performed early yesterday with a kitchen knife and a piece of rubber hose, was believed last night to have saved the life of Eileen Berg, 8 years old, 6964 Greenwood avenue. She was recovering in the Children's Memorial hospital from a throat infection which had nearly strangled her.

The operation was performed by Dr. A. Matheson, a specialist in children's diseases, with offices at 8 South Michigan avenue. He received an early morning call from the child's father Jack A. Berg, in his residence at 6314 Lakewood avenue.

"My little girl is dying; hurry over," said the father.

Dr. Matheson arrived without his surgical instruments, which he keeps in his office. He found the child unconscious from strangulation caused by the swelling in her throat. Quickly, he sterilized a kitchen knife made an incision in the neck and inserted the tube through which the child drew life giving air.

DR. W. M. STINE, NOTED FOR X-RAY RESEARCH, DIES

Philadelphia, Pa., July 4.—(AP)—Dr. Wilbur Morris Stine, 70, died at his home in suburban Penfield today, closing a versatile career which plunged deep into science and visited literary fields as well.

He was best known for X-ray discoveries. He announced discovery of the Roentgen rays in 1896 and then suggested remedial use of X-rays for the first time, particularly in treatment of cancer.

Dr. Stine began his X-ray experiments in 1891, making the first Roentgen ray picture on record the next year.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Two boys who left the home town to make good in diverse fields—baseball and the stage—will go back next Tuesday to receive the plaudits of the townsfolk of North Brookfield, Mass. The ceremonies attendant upon the return of the natives—Connie Mack and George M. Cohan—will be broadcast at 2:30 p. m. over NBC from the village common where "the boys" once crossed bats. These two are to be principals in a celebration honoring Mack's 50 years in baseball.

Mack, who was born Cornelius McGillicuddy, will again catch for his home town team with Joe Doyle, old North Brookfield pitcher, on the mound. These cronies will warm up as a preliminary to an exhibition game between the Philadelphia Athletics and a North Brookfield nine.

North Brookfield was the setting for Cohan's play, "Fifty Miles from Boston." The actor-playwright-song writer is to welcome Connie in behalf of the home town folks. The 70 year old Connie is still "as shy as a 1901 debutante" but Cohan has hopes of inducing him to say a few words for the benefit of radio listeners.

With new vocal talent and a new name, Fred Allen, Portland Hoffa, and Lennie Hayton's orchestra will inaugurate a new program series for the same sponsor next Wednesday evening. The title of the show is "Town Hall Tonight" and Allen's script will center regularly on the activities of the village hall. James Melton, the well known radio and concert tenor, will be a guest in the first of the new shows. Theodore Webb, baritone, and Sylvia Froos, blues singer, are to be dropped.

Don Ameche, who plays the romantic leads in "The First Nighter," and his wife, are vacationing in Bermuda. Charlie Hughes, who plays and produces the "First Nighter," is enjoying a busman's holiday in Hot Springs, Ark. He couldn't keep away from the microphone and was heard over KTHS the other evening.

Mme. Schumann-Heink has been engaged for 13 more weeks by her present sponsor. When she went on the air many a broadcast expert shook his head, predicting failure because her voice is not what it used to be. They failed to take into consideration the human touch she gives everything she essays, her simplicity, her capacity for tugging at the heart strings. As one listener aptly put it: "Schumann-Heink has This Good Earthy touch."

CARL A. KOHLER, FORMER AVIATOR DEPUTY, IS DEAD

Carl A. Kohler, former aviation deputy in Sheriff Meyering's office for three years, died last evening in the Jackson Park hospital a few minutes after he suddenly became ill in his home at 7352 Rhodes avenue. Physicians blamed heart disease.

While a deputy sheriff, Kohler, a licensed pilot, was charged with enforcing the state air regulations in Cook county. Recently, through his efforts, a bill was introduced in the general assembly requiring all planes in which student flyers receive instruction to be equipped with a safety device that allows the pilot to disconnect the student's controls.

Kohler was 35 years old. His widow, Edna, and two sons, Carl Jr., 7 years old, and Everett, 4, survive. Sheriff Meyering, who for many years was his personal friend, arrived at the hospital a few minutes after Kohler's death.

DUTCH PRINCE TO GET LAST WISH: A WHITE FUNERAL

THE HAGUE, July 4.—(AP)—In compliance with the last wish of Henry, prince consort of the Netherlands, he will be given a "white" funeral, it was announced today.

The prince consort, husband of Queen Wilhelmina, will be buried at Delft, probably Monday or Tuesday. The herse and horses will be draped in white cloth. The queen and Princess Juliana, their daughter, will forego black mourning on the day of the funeral.

DR. O. H. SCHULTZE, CRIMINOLOGIST, DIES IN NEW YORK

New York, July 4.—[Special.]—Dr. Otto H. Schultze, 67, former medical assistant to the district attorney of New York county, died today in New York hospital.

His skilful autopsies and scientific deductions helped to solve scores of baffling murders and other crimes of the last thirty years.

A close friend of Arthur B. Reeves, creator of Craig Kennedy, the scientific detective of fiction, Dr. Schultze was generally believed to have been the prototype of that character.

Patrolman McGovern Dies; South Side Pupils' Friend

Patrolman Terrence McGovern, 55 years old, 8327 Bishop street, of the Grand Crossing police station, died last night at the Jackson Park hospital of complications after an operation for appendicitis. Attached to the district for most of his 27 years of service, Patrolman McGovern won friends among school children. He was on school trafic duty when taken ill. The widow and three children survive.

Col. F. H. Beach, World War Veteran, Dies at 70

Catskill, N. Y., July 4.—(AP)—Col. Francis H. Beach, 70, retired United States army officer who commanded the third infantry during the world war, died in Memorial hospital here today after a lingering illness. Col. Beach was decorated by the president of France with the military Ordre Nationale de la Legion de Honneur. He retired from the service in 1919.

Chaim Bialik, Hebrew Writer, Dies in Vienna

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

YIELDS ON BEST BONDS ARE NEAR VANISHING POINT

Due to Lower Money Rates, Good Demand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 4.—Yields on highest grade short term investments have approached the vanishing point and the decline in money rates in June caused further reductions in yields on medium and long term investments, the Federal Reserve bank of New York observes in its July review of credit and business conditions.

Yields on the "best grade" bonds have now reached levels below those prevailing at the beginning of 1928 and in 1931, and are the lowest in many years, the reserve bank says. The average yield on long term government bonds, it says, was around 2.80 per cent in the latter part of June, which was the lowest yield since before the war.

Business Trend Is Factor.

Lower grade bond yields, it is pointed out, have been influenced since 1930 by business tendencies. The average yield on a representative group of medium grade bonds rose above 11 per cent for a time in 1932, reflecting an extraordinarily low ebb in business and business profits, and also in public confidence concerning the business and financial outlook.

Since the middle of 1932 a moderate improvement in the business situation, a large accumulation of idle funds in the banks, and a greater inclination on the part of investors generally to employ their funds have brought about a decline in the yield on medium grade bonds to slightly above 6 per cent.

Cost Unusually Low.

"In general, the decline in long term money rates has progressed to the point where many borrowers of high credit standing are able to obtain funds at unusually low lost, and in some cases such borrowers are now taking steps to retire securities bearing relatively high coupon rates through the sale of new securities bearing lower coupon rates," the bank says. "Thus far, however, operations of this kind have been largely confined to public or semi-public institutions, and little has been attempted along this line by corporations whose senior securities are given high rating, but whose securities have been subject to the provisions of the securities act.

"Corporate borrowing through the sale of new issues of types which would be rated as medium grade securities remains virtually at a standstill, despite the improvement in prices of outstanding bonds of this class."

CODE TRADE-IN RULE CUTS SALES OF CARS IN HIGHER PRICE FIELD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 4.—Because the dealers' code sets standardized trade-in values for all cars, sales of automobiles above the lowest price field have slowed down materially. Since the lowest price class is virtually dominated by General Motors, Chrysler and Ford, the position of the other automotive manufacturers is not regarded as such a happy one.

In the first four months of this year the sales of the other producers were 9.29 per cent of the total domestic retail passenger car sales, against 11.02 per cent in the corresponding period last year. In other words, for the first four months of this year sales in the domestic market by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler accounted for more than 90 per cent of the retail business.

WEEKLY WAGE AVERAGE DOWN .1 PCT. IN MAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—Average per capita weekly earnings of factory workers in May were .1 per cent lower than in April, Commissioner Lubin of the bureau of labor statistics, announces. He said they were still higher than in any other month since October, 1931, and 20 per cent above May, 1933.

Computed from pay roll reports supplied by 22,718 establishments employing 3,812,160 workers in May, weekly earnings of factory employés averaged $19.81. Lubin stated that 51 of the 90 manufacturing industries surveyed showed gains in per capita weekly earnings from April to May ranging from .2 per cent to 12.7 per cent.

Larger percentage increases were in the following industries: Fur-felt hats, 12.7; shipbuilding, 9.3; wire works, 8.4; marble, granite, slate, and other products, 8.1; blast furnaces, steel works, and rolling mills, 5.7; structural and ornamental metal work, 5.5, and cash registers, 5.4.

Farm Mortgage Lending by U. S. Sets New High

Washington, D. C., July 4.—(AP)—A new high in farm mortgage lending by the Farm Credit administration was announced today by Gov. Myers. During June, 57,400 loans totaling $154,000,000 were closed by the federal land banks, and land bank commissioner, Myers, said, making the largest total since lending activity began more than a year ago.

BIG NEW YORK BANKS REPORT DEPOSIT GAINS

Federal Bond Holdings Believed to Set Record.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 4.—Gains in deposits and in holdings of government securities, but decreases in loans and discounts compared with three months ago were shown in the statements of condition as of June 30, issued by the Chase National bank and the National City bank in response to the call of the controler of the currency.

The Chase National reported deposits, including certified and cashiers' checks, of $1,533,447,000, compared with $1,497,486,000 on Mar. 31, last, and $1,408,337,000 on June 30, 1933. Total resources of the bank amounted to $1,810,699,000, against $1,820,539,000 on Mar. 31, and $1,727,182,000 a year ago.

Holdings Set Record.

The bank showed a rise of nearly $98,000,000 in its holdings of United States government securities in the last year. Total holdings of "governments" were reported as $417,366,000, compared with $319,600,000 at the end of March and $207,955,000 at the end of June, 1933. Its investments in government securities have more than doubled in the past six months and now total probably the largest holdings of such securities ever reported by a bank. Cash in the bank's vaults and on deposit with the Federal Reserve bank and other banks amounted to $412,911,000 against $393,072,000 three months ago and $357,374,000 a year ago.

Chase reported loans, discounts and bankers' acceptances of $621,566,000 compared with $713,247,000 on Mar. 31, and $779,755,000 on June 30, 1933.

Other Security Holdings.

Holdings of securities maturing within two years amounted to $94,195,000 compared with $111,467,000 three months ago and holdings of other bonds and securities, including stock in the Federal Reserve bank, amounted to $132,857,000 compared with $126,306,000 at the end of March.

Capital of the bank consisting of $50,000,000 of preferred stock and $100,270,000 common stock, and the surplus of $50,000,000 were unchanged from Mar. 31. The undivided profits account came to $16,521,000 on June 30, compared with $11,375,000 on Mar. 31.

Deposits of the National City bank as of June 30 came to $1,226,637,000 against $1,186,305,000 on March 31, and $1,134,750,000 on June 30, 1933. Total resources were $1,466,920,000, against $1,463,473,000 three months ago and $1,475,870,000 a year ago. The bank's cash on hand and due from banks and bankers was $358,390,000, against $384,154,000 in March and $334,165,000 a year ago. Holdings of United States government securities amounted to $304,631,000, compared with $247,929,000 three months ago and $252,382,825 a year ago.

Loans, discounts, and bankers' acceptances totaled $490,367,000, against $511,790,000 and $559,911,000 three months and a year ago, respectively. Undivided profits amounted to $8,118,666, against $7,612,056 at the end of March.

BRITISH AUTO TAX CUT INCREASES SALES OF AMERICAN MADE CARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 4.—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, appears to have thrown a boomerang in championing his 25 per cent reduction in the automobile tax which was announced in the April budget.

A decrease from $5 per horse power to $3.75 was aimed to assist British producers of high powered cars, but according to this morning's Daily Telegraph the concession had an unexpected result. Although the reduction does not take effect until Jan. 1, next, imports of American private cars, taxis and chassis during May were nearly three times as great as during the corresponding month of last year. It is expected that the June figures will show a similar increase.

The leading British manufacturers believe Chamberlain's move will result in reopening the British market to Americans, and give them three years in which to establish themselves again after almost complete disappearance from the market.

The prospective lower tax resulted in a big demand for high powered cars, and a number of American firms established agencies in London, while the market price for second hand American cars has risen as much as 50 per cent since February.

32 LOAN GROUPS MEET ON ACCOUNT INSURANCE PLAN

Thirty-two savings and loan associations in the Chicago area will be represented in a meeting tomorrow evening at the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago, 7 South Dearborn street.

Discussion will center around lending plans and the section of the national housing act which provides for insurance of shares in all federal savings and loan associations up to $5,000 for each individual account. Approved associations can make $16,535,425 in loans available to home owners by use of federal treasury subscriptions.

IOWA, WALLACE'S STATE, GETS 70% OF CORN BONUSES

Not Penny of U.S. Benefits Paid in Illinois.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—Farmers of the corn belt are now beginning to receive the financial benefits of cooperation with the AAA corn-hog adjustment program, but the distribution of government cash thus far appears to be slightly awry.

By June 30, it was announced today, the farm administration had distributed seven million dollars in adjustment payments to producers who signed up under the corn-hog program. Eventually the government intends to pay out some 350 millions to coöperating corn-hog farmers, so the distribution of funds is just getting under way.

Wallace's State Gets Most.

Of the seven millions sent out so far, however, nearly five millions, or approximately 70 per cent, has been paid to farmers in the state of Iowa, from where hails Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace. Not another state has yet received corn-hog benefit money totaling more than a million dollars, although Minnesota, with $988,314, and Missouri, with $889,327, were nearing the million mark.

Illinois, one of the most important corn-hog states, has not yet received a penny under the program, nor have the two great corn raising states of Kansas and Nebraska. Indiana, another major corn-hog state, has received only $44,050.

According to the farm administration, no contracts have yet been received from Illinois, Kansas, and Nebraska—a circumstance which accounts, it was said, for the failure to distribute cash payments to them thus far. County allotment committees in each of these three states are now completing their work, it was said, and the contracts should be ready for payment within a short time.

All But 3 Counties Get Money.

In Iowa various amounts have been distributed to all but three counties, one of which is Polk county, home of Mr. Wallace and locale of his wife's farm where Wallace's hi-bred corn seed is developed.

The June 30 distribution of corn-hog benefits among the 15 states which have received payments was as follows:

Iowa, $4,807,709; Minnesota, $988,314; Missouri, $889,327; Wisconsin, $11,560; Washington, $85,079; South Dakota, $57,612; Indiana, $44,050; Ohio, $28,627; Nevada, $14,636; Alabama, $13,350; West Virginia, $8,557; Maryland, $2,636; Virginia, $2,230; Michigan, $680, and Arkansas, $677.

Net of Indiana Harbor Belt Line Higher in 1933

Net railway operating income of the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad for the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, totaled $1,894,005, compared with $1,527,314 in the previous year, the annual report to stockholders reveals.

Mid-Year Finds Business Rising But Doubtful

ANXIETY CUTS STOCK TRADING TO LOW LEVELS

New Deal, Business Scare Speculators.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 4.—The half year on the New York Stock exchange has been notable chiefly for a tremendous shrinkage in trading volume. Only about 213,650,000 shares have changed hands during the period, as compared with a turnover of 340,859,129 in the first six months of 1933 and totals of 400,000,000 to 500,000,000 or more for the corresponding "boom" periods of the late twenties when everybody was stock minded and prepared to say so with the good old fashioned coin of the land.

While the reduction in trading activity was due primarily to the general economic situation there have been other factors of high importance, most of them linking up with experiments pending and potential, in the New Deal scheme of business recovery.

Many astute observers of the speculative community have been convinced all along that the only "aid" that business has needed to continue the recovery movement started back in the summer of 1932 was freedom from governmental interference such as the country has been witnessing for the last 16 months or so. Nothing that has come out of the brain trust magician's hat down at Washington so far has made any appreciable dent in their convictions.

Watch from Sidelines.

They have looked upon the various hit-and-miss measures of the whole frankly experimental program as temporary expedients and not designed to foster the bull outlook for the long term. It has been their policy, therefore, to sit tight and await developments.

Anxiety over various legislative proposals of more or less radical character kept whole armies of traders out of the market while congress was in session, which is to say for most of the six months period. The stock exchange control bill provided a big share of worry on this score. Originally designed to have "teeth" to deal with a situation which some enthusiasts of the new order of things had come to regard as pretty terrible, the bill in its first drafting proved to be equipped with what looked to Wall street suspiciously like fangs.

Edge Taken Off.

Presumably backed by the administration, the measure seemed at first fairly certain to go through in much of its original form. Various amendments framed in an effort to take some of the edge off were offered during the anxious days and weeks of conference and debate that followed, but in view of the White House stand for "real" regulation, none of the proposals had any appreciable effect toward allaying Wall street's anxiety.

It was not until well along toward

British Win Debt Struggle With Germany; U.S. May Act

LONDON, July 4.—(AP)—Great Britain and Germany avoided a trade war for at least six months today by signing an agreement providing for the payment of interest on Dawes and Young loan bonds held by British subjects.

The agreement extends six months from July 1, the day the German moratorium on all foreign obligations became effective.

Other long and medium term obligations held in Great Britain, which are mostly commercial, will not be serviced during the moratorium under the terms of the agreement.

Terms of Agreement.

Germany agreed to deposit British currency in the Bank of England for payment of all coupons from the Dawes and Young loan bonds. In return, Britain will not apply the new clearing house law, under which the government would have been able to seize a portion of German commercial funds for the benefit of bondholders.

The conclusion of the negotiations between the two nations was termed "satisfactory" by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, who pushed the clearing house bill through parliament.

Both nations' representatives expressed the view that a permanent solution of the whole problem will be possible before the six months' term of the present agreement ends.

U. S. Expected to Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—The arrangement concluded in London permitting payment of interest to British holders of Dawes and Young plan bonds by the German government will encourage the state department to press for equal treatment for American holders, officials said today.

This government will seek for its nationals the most favored treatment extended to any of the countries with which Germany may reach agreement, it was said.

Paris View on Pact.

PARIS, July 4.—(AP)—Germany agreed to arrangements for payment of interest to British holders of Young and Dawes bonds because the reich at this time seeks to avoid an open breach in foreign affairs, according to French opinion.

It was observed in commercial quarters that Germany is anxious to get supplies of American cotton on credit, and that this desire influenced the German negotiators in reaching the agreement.

NATION'S PRODUCTION OF ELECTRIC POWER 2% OVER LAST YEAR

New York, July 4.—(AP)—Electric power output last week totaled 1,688,211,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,674,566,000 kilowatt hours the previous week, an increase of 0.8 per cent, the Edison Electric institute reported today. The increase over a year ago was 2.0 per cent, against an increase of 4.8 per cent the week before.

Regional gains from 1933 for last week were:

Middle Atlantic, 2.7 per cent, against a rise of 6.6 per cent the week before; central industrial, 2.6, against 5.7; west central, 5.3, against 7.4; southern states, 1.9, against 4.3; Rocky mountain, 1.5, against a decrease of .3; Pacific coast, 11.1, against 9.8.

GAINS CLOUDED BY INCREASING U. S. DEBT LOAD

Washington Holds Key to Future.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Business and finance go into the second half of 1934 torn between hope and fear—hope that the substantial measure of recovery that has occurred since the middle of 1932 will grow into a more complete dissipation of depression and fear that doings in Washington will seriously interfere with the upturn that is under way.

In appraising the first half year busiess men find these things to the good:

Steady and substantial increase in bank deposits. A big boost in industrial production led by the automobile industry whose sales are far beyond year ago figures. A moderate decrease in the number of idle workers. Higher prices for commodities, notably farm produce, although prices haven't advanced as far as dollar devaluers had promised. Increased retail sales; more freight being hauled by the railroads; more electric energy being sold to consumers.

Fear Heavy Taxes.

On the other side of the ledger business men place the following:

A tremendous increase in the national debt which makes inevitable a heavy additional tax load as soon as the government ceases borrowing and begins to pay back — which change, it is promised, will not occur until after the quadrennial election in 1936. An unstable currency, still unhooked from gold and momentarily in danger of further devaluation whenever political pressure becomes sufficiently strong. General repudiation of European nations' war debts to

Armour's Financial Program to Win, Proxy Deposit Shows

Success of the proposed program for recasting the financial structure of Armour & Co. is assured, it was disclosed yesterday by T. G. Lee, president of the company.

Mr. Lee announced that the proxy committee has received proxies for more than the required two-thirds of each class of stock necessary to put the plan into effect. A special stockholders' meeting will be held tomorrow the program formally approved.

"We have proxies from 27,644 holders of 3,168,318 shares of stock," Lee said. "We are still receiving large numbers of proxies and present indications are that several hundred thousand shares in addition to the two-thirds vote legally required will be obtained by the time of the meeting.

Means Dividend Payments.

Completion of the plan which entails a drastic writedown in the company's assets and capital will clear the way for a resumption of dividends on the preferred stock, on which no payments have been made in more than three years. Dividend arrearages on July 1 stood at $24.50 a share.

Under the plan the present holders of company's 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock will be given new 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock on a share-for-share basis. In addition each share of present preferred will get two shares of new common stock For the new stock the preferred holder agrees to surrender his claims for back dividends.

Preferred holders who do not deposit under the present plan will be entitled to retain their present stock which will be junior to the new preferred in receiving dividends.

To Have Only One Common.

All of the present common stock which is made up of two classes, A and B, will be exchanged for one class of new common stock. The A stockholders will receive one share of new common for each share now held and the B holders will get one-half share of new stock for each share owned.

The new common stock will be $5 par value as compared with $25 a share for the present A and B stocks. The guaranteed preferred stock of Armour & Co. of Delaware, a subsidiary, will not be disturbed by the operation.

The new preferred stock will have a stated value of $100 a share against a par value of the same amount for the present stock. The new preferred will be carried on the books at the same aggregate figure as at present, $57,321,300. There will be 4,144,626 shares of the new common stock immediately outstanding.

Asset Values Reduced.

The plan also provides for a reduction in fixed property and asset values of $55,370,000 which will result in a depreciation savings of approximately $2,150,000 yearly. Giving effect to the changes the earnings of the company in the first half of 1934 about covered dividend requirements on the new $6 preferred stock.

The present plan is regarded as more liberal to the preferred stockholders than the program that was defeated by stockholders last summer.

One important feature of the present plan is that the company will not be called on to redeem the holdings of preferred stockholders who do not approve the terms if they constitute less than a third of the outstanding stock.

This is made possible by a change in the company's charter, which allows the issuance of new preferred stock senior to the present preferred. Under the old plan it is believed that the dissenting stockholders could have won judgment and demanded to be paid off in cash.

BLAME POLITICS FOR LOW LEVEL OF GRAIN PRICES

War on Speculation Seen as Brake.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Politics and drouth were the dominant factors in the grain markets during the first six months of 1934, with one about offsetting the other. The government's insistent discouragement of speculation is blamed for preventing what in other years is believed would have been a sensational advance in prices. Prospects indicate the smallest aggregate crops in years, but there has been a conspicuous lack of large scale speculation which made the big markets of other days.

It was not until May, when it be the United States, a move which threatens to add 11 billion dollars to the burden borne by American taxpayers. Lack of confidence among investors causing them to shun long term bonds, thereby driving industry to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and other government agencies for loans, increasing the political interference with business and further impairing the balance of trade as a result of the raising of additional trade barriers between nations and the manipulation of currencies.

Increasing Burden of U.S. Debt Blanks Gains.

Two Points of View.

The optimists in industry point with pride at increased retail sales, the upturn in car loadings, higher prices, and mounting bank deposits and take the pessimist to task for not being entirely reassured by these developments.

The pessimist replies that any nation can acquire the semblance of prosperity by spending more than double the amount of its current income and borrowing the balance from intimidated banks and investors afraid to invest in anything other than government bonds, the prices of which are pegged.

In between these two extremes stand many leading business and financial men who, like Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, firmly believe that the natural forces of recovery are so strong and the return swing of business pendulum after a depression period is so irresistible that at least some degree of prosperity will return in spite of unwise political policies.

Most Persons in Middle.

Most business and financial men, big and little, seem to stand somewhere in this middle group. They are willing to believe that business is ready and waiting to forge ahead with great vigor when as and if the fears of further injudicious economic experiments in Washington subside, and they like to believe that no government would be so completely blind to this potential rallying power of business as to stand in the way.

Meanwhile industry awaits the moment when investors will be sufficiently encouraged to resume long term investing; investors await the stabilization of the currency and the modifying of the more stringent provisions of the new securities laws; and the currency manipulators await the recovery of industry.

The wise ones say that the clew to the fate of business lies in Washington, particularly in the condition of the budget. As long as the government continues to siphon out the available funds of banks and investors to extend emergency loans to various classes of the citizenry, they say, the eventual solution is merely being postponed—and made increasingly difficult.

DR. W. E. MOSHER TO LEAD SURVEY OF POWER RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—Dr. William E. Mosher of Syracuse university today was appointed director of the electric rate survey authorized by congress, it was announced by Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the Federal Power commission.

The survey director is a recognized authority on the subject to be investigated. He published a book on "Public Utility Regulation" last year, and collaborated with other scholars in "Electrical Utilities, The Crisis in Public Control," published in 1929.

"His long practical experience in governmental inquiries, as well as his extensive studies in this field, seem to qualify him particularly for this important undertaking," Chairman McNinch said today.

DOLLAR HOLDS STEADY IN DULL TRADING ABROAD

LONDON, July 4.—(AP)—The United States dollar, after a weak opening, inclined toward firmness today on a slack market, the pound closing at the equivalent of $5.06, an improvement of ¼ cent over the opening rate. The American holiday had aquieting influence on dealings. Yesterday's closing quotation was 5.05¾.

Bar gold declined 2½ pence to 137 shillings 5 pence.

Dollar Steady in Paris.

PARIS, July 4.—(AP)—The United States dollar closed today at 15.1625 francs (6.596 cents to the franc), compared to yesterday's closing price of 15.165 (6.594 cents).

Mark Slightly Firmer.

BERLIN, July 4.—(AP)—The United States dollar sold today at 2.512 marks (39.80 cents to the mark), as compared with yesterday's quotation of 2.514 marks (39.77 cents).

BUILDING WITH CHICAGO BUSINESS SINCE 1863

FARM RETURNS ON LIVE STOCK RISE SHARPLY

Feeder Cattle Bought at $4 Rate Sell at $8.

Notwithstanding unusual conditions in the first half of 1934, such as one of the most devastating drouths in agricultural history, a disparity in the ratio between the price of corn and live stock much of the time, higher cost of production, and the unsettlement caused by government manipulation in the trade in various ways, farmers since Jan. 1 to date have been able to show much less "red" in their live stock account books than in the same period in 1933, exclusive of any of the benefit payments or loans made by the government this year.

The highest returns in dollars are traceable to cattle and sheep feeding, which, despite the higher cost of production this year, has been a paying proposition, whereas at times it was a losing game early in 1933. In fact, because of the low cost of replacement stock in the fall of 1933, farmers were able to stand the higher cost of producing the finished beef animals, and for many weeks have been making some of the biggest margins of profit over initial costs in recent live stock history.

Buy at $4; Sell at $8.

Doubling and even trebling the first costs per hundredweight are not unusual in the top grades of steers. Many of the cattle selling in recent weeks at $8 and above cost the farmers $4 and less when brought into the corn belt feed lots from the range to be fattened on corn for the market. Monthly average prices of feeding steers last fall, when the bulk of the replacement stock was put on feed, ranged from $3.50 to $4, indicating a mean price of $3.75.

Monthly averages for fat steers the last four months, when many of these cattle were brought back in finished condition, ranged from $5.95 to $7.35, showing a mean price of $6.65, a gain of 77 per cent over the feeder price.

A similar comparison for a year earlier indicates a gain of only 11 per cent in the fat steers over the feeder price, while two years ago farmers obtained 18 per cent more per hundredweight for finished animals than they paid for the feeders.

The same is true of sheep, but the gain is not so pronounced this season since lamb feeding has made money for the farmer the last two seasons. Farmers in the first half of 1934 got 50 per cent more per hundredweight for fat lambs than they paid for the feeders, compared to a gain of 38 per cent in 1933 and 25 per cent gain in 1932.

Process Tax Check on Hogs.

Because of the processing tax on swine, hog raisers and feeders have not been able to enjoy the full benefit of the improved consumer demand for meat during the first half of the year. The money collected by the government, amounting to approximately $105,000,000 on hogs slaughtered by plants under federal inspection, has not yet been passed on to the farmers, but is expected to be paid to them during the next few months. Including the money paid in processing taxes to the government, which otherwise would have gone directly to the farmer, since the price of hogs is based on what the consumer can pay, hogs cost the packers 54 per cent more in the first six months of 1934 than in 1933 and 55 per cent more than two years ago.

Fat cattle for the six months averaged 19 per cent higher than in 1933 and fat lambs showed a gain of 47 per cent over the first half of last year.

RETAIL FOOD PRICES ONLY SLIGHTLY BELOW HIGH FOR 2½ YEARS

Washington, D. C., July 4.—(AP)—Retail food prices advanced 6-10ths of 1 per cent during the two weeks ended June 19 bringing the bureau of labor statistics index figure to 109.1 per cent of the 1913 average. Prices were slightly below Jan. 15, 1932, which was the highest point reached during the last two and one-half years when the index was 109.3. Prices are up nearly 13 per cent when compared with the index 96.7 for June 15, 1933.

The increase was attributed to advancing prices in 21 items in the food-stuffs groups. Most fresh meats, eggs, butter, milk, and flour rose during the two week period.

WHEAT ADVANCES ⅝ TO ⅞ OF A CENT IN FOREIGN MARTS

Argentine Stocks Are Reported Spoiling.

Wheat futures advanced ⅝ to ⅞ of a cent a bushel in the Winnipeg market yesterday following the earlier strength in the Liverpool market where future contracts were up from 1¼ to 1⅛ cents in American funds. All American markets were closed in observance of Independence day.

Reports from Liverpool said that more of the Argentine wheat that is stored there was rejected when tendered as delivery under July contracts. This tends to confirm the reports heard during the recent heat spell in England that the big stocks of Argentine wheat in the country were deteriorating. It was this factor to which the advance in Liverpool prices was chiefly attributed and the later advance in Winnipeg.

The Winnipeg market closed slightly under the best prices of the day. The closing quotation on July wheat was 76⅝, October 78⅛ cents, and December 79¼ cents.

Sales of Canadian wheat for export were reported at 300,000 bushels, but the trade believed that actual sales were higher than the figure reported. Active buying was reported by shipping interests to replenish eastern stocks which have been used for export purposes. The trading in the Winnipeg market was quiet, but the trading in cash grains was more active.

EXPECT FEDERAL CROP REPORT TO SHOW INCREASES

The report of the department of agriculture giving the conditions and expected yields of the principal grain crops of the country as of July 1, which will be issued within a few days, is expected to show an improvement over the report for June 1. Private estimates of the wheat yield forecast a crop of 517,000,000 bushels, against the government's estimate of 500,000,000 as of June 1.

The carry-over of wheat as of July 1 is placed at 270,000,000 bushels, so the total domestic supply of wheat for the next twelve months will approximate 782,000,000 bushels. The average domestic consumption for the past several years has run about 625,000,000 bushels, indicating a carry-over next July 1 of about 161,000,000 bushels, or an approximately normal quantity.

BLAME POLITICS FOR LOW LEVEL OF GRAIN PRICES

came evident that America would harvest a wheat crop below its domestic needs, that the prices showed anything resembling sensational strength. On June 1, July wheat in Chicago sold at $1.06½ a bushel, the best price it had brought since last July when prices were carried up on the inflation scare which followed the change in the national administration.

Steady Decline Recorded.

Since the June 1 high price was reached, there has been a gradual and steady decline in prices in the face of continued bullish news on crops. July and September wheat futures are now selling about 18 cents under the high of last month, although the prospects for the wheat crop have not been materially changed during the period.

The decline in wheat prices over the last month is a direct result of the heavy movement of new wheat in the southwest which was hedged in the Chicago market. Unlike years in the past there has not been sufficient buying demand from speculators to offset the constant hedging pressure on the market and the natural result has been a sagging trend.

The total wheat crop this year is forecast at about 517 million bushels, which is slightly below production last year, and considerably below the anticipated domestic needs. While there are sufficient surplus wheat stocks on hand to make up the difference between this year's production and domestic requirements, there are several crop authorities who assert that before another year is out the carryover may be reduced below the margin of national safety.

The European crop situation has been consistently bullish. Broomhall, the leading foreign crop authority, estimates that the total European crop, including Russia, will show a reduction of 480 million bushels from last year.

The world situation as it appeared on July 1 suggests that the total production will fall considerably under last year. The following table, compiled on figures from various sources, shows the fluctuations which have occured in production by the leading wheat nations in the last 5 years [last six ciphers omitted]:

	U. S.	Canada.	Argentina.	Australia.	Europe.
1934 [est.]	516	350	235	150	1,500
1933	527	270	283	174	1,737
1932	744	443	295	213	1,495
1931	932	321	220	191	1,436
1930	890	421	232	214	1,361

The above figures are based on reports from the bureau of agricultural economics, Broomhall and the leading American crop statisticians.

Other Grains Decline.

The indicated reduction in the world's wheat crop will probably be duplicated in other grains such as rye, oats and barley. The corn crop is still a matter of speculation. The first estimates place production in this country at 2,334,000,000 bushels, or approximately the same as last year's output. The crucial period for the crop is now beginning. Reports on the crop generally are favorable, although fears are being expressed of potential damage from further dry weather and the ravages of chinch bugs. The lack of subsoil moisture makes the crop vulnerable to continued dry hot weather.

Oats is the calamity crop of the year. This year's production is estimated at 594 million bushels, the lowest since 1890. Chinch bugs and drouth conspired to bring ruin to this important crop. Damage to oats as well as other crops makes corn even more important in this country this year. Corn will be counted on to make up the deficiencies in the damaged crops. This has provided the basis for the independent strength in corn recently.

Cash corn prices have ranged between 43 and 67½ cents a bushel during the last six months. September corn is currently quoted near 60 cents a bushel, while cash corn is commanding good premiums in the country. There is a general feeling that as the year progresses corn will be in greater demand.

CANADA REPORTS FURTHER GAINS IN PRAIRIE CROPS

OTTAWA, July 4.—(AP)—A further improvement in prairie crop conditions took place during the last week, said a crop report issued today by the dominion bureau of statistics. The only exceptions were some scattered southern districts.

Precipitation was fairly general over the farming districts and unusually heavy in some localities, the report stated.

BUSINESS, NEW DEAL FEARS CUT TRADE IN STOCKS

Half Year Is Fraught with Speculative Anxiety.

the close of the session, in fact, that brokers and their clientele resigned to the inevitable, which happily proved to be a substantial modification of the measure as originally framed.

In the meantime business remained in a rut with turnover down almost to the "irreducible minimum" and price movements adhering to an extremely narrow groove. The general drift since Feb. 5, when THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's index of 50 representative issues hit its high for the six months at 98.27, has been gradually downward. The index closed yesterday at 83.38, which is less than five points above the extreme low for the year, registered May 14.

Trade Lowest in Years.

During this period the exchange has witnessed several days of the lowest trading activity in years. On June 4, for instance, turnover totaled only 357,980 shares, which set a new low since June 2, 1924. The greatest total for the period was on Feb. 5, when 4,940,250 shares changed hands.

Such stimulant as the market has received since the first of the year has come from resurgent waves of inflationary psychology brought about by the trend of affairs at Washington. The silver bill, at first opposed by the White House and later sponsored by the same high authority, prompted one of the most sustained of these so-called waves and for a time raised visions in some quarters of a major movement into higher grounds. Reports from time to time that the President was preparing to exercise the authority conferred on him by congress to further devalue the dollar have been instrumental in reviving the drooping spirits of the depleted bull contingent on various occasions.

Labor a Bear Factor.

The labor situation has been a factor on the bear side and in its more acute stages, such as the automobile strike threat and the more recent steel strike move, has caused the market to backtrack on much of its laborious progress.

Sentiment in the street at the moment is greatly confused. Many commentators believe an advance is inevitable in the fall, if not earlier, either on the score of business improvement or falling in that, through the exercise of some of the radical monetary inflationary powers held by the administration.

On the other hand, many far seeing observers can find grounds for nothing but discouragement in the situation fraught, as it is, with crop damage news, unparalleled government expenditures which must be paid for sooner or later, labor troubles that are far from permanently settled, and figures on the country's idle still running high into the millions. The market meanwhile idles in its rut and awaits more enlightening developments.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS DULL; RANGE NARROW

LONDON, July 4.—(AP)—Trading was inactive on the stock exchange today. Home rails improved on increased trafic receipts and gilt edged securities remained firm. German bonds were firm on the hopeful view taken regarding the debt position. Rubber issues were steady on the advance in that commodity, while trans-Atlantic and industrial shares were mostly firmer. The closing was steady.

Loan Denial Aids Rentes.

PARIS, July 4.—(AP)—Rentes led a moderate upward movement on the bourse today upon denial that the government was planning another loan. Bank shares and rubber stocks were particularly active. The closing tone was firm.

Berlin Close Dull.

BERLIN, July 4.—(AP)—Prices fluctuated on the bourse at the opening and business improved later, but the closing was dull.

NATION'S STEEL OUTPUT FALLS TO 21% CAPACITY

Drop Is Accompanied by Reduced Prices.

Operations in the nation's steel industry were curtailed drastically last week with production dropping to 21 per cent of the industry's rated capacity. The contraction was accompanied by declines in prices on important steel products and a further threat to the industry's price structure under the code by the issuance of a presidential order. These are the highlights of events in the industry last week as set forth in the review by Iron Age.

The big drop in operations had been expected and was partly due to the fact that the figures were based on a five day week. Independence day is one of the two official holidays recognized in the industry. The decline was unusually sharp, however, and the 21 per cent rate compares with 48 per cent in the preceding week and 60 per cent two weeks ago.

Some Suspend Operations.

Operations were suspended by several large plants and others closed down either in the first two days of the week or are closing down in the last three days, the review said.

The trade publication asserted that the presidential order issued June 30 permitting a bidder on federal, state or municipal projects to reduce prices up to 15 per cent from those filed with the code authority seems to nullify all the price stabilization so far achieved under the NRA code.

"The order further provides," the journal added, "that any price filed on such a contract must then become the official minimum price on file with a code authority and to extend to the trade generally. This process might be repeated indefinitly with obvious results.

Will Seek Exemption.

"The steel code authority will seek exemption from the order on the grounds that the code constitutes a contract which cannot be abrogated except by mutual consent of all concerned. Exemption has already been granted the coal industry."

While the rate of production in the industry was dropping to 21 per cent operations in the Chicago district fell from 52 to 28 per cent. Schedules in Pittsburgh, Youngstown, and Buffalo districts averaged only 10 per cent of capacity, while the Cleveland and Philadelphia districts were running at 15 and 19 per cent respectively.

W. A. Sheaffer Pen.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate your report on W. A. Sheaffer Pen company.—M. H. R.

Answer: W. A. Sheaffer Pen company was established a little over 20 years ago. It is a leading manufacturer of fountain pens, pencils, and ink.

Net income for the year ended Feb. 28, 1934, was $236,000, which was 11.02 times preferred dividends and equal to $1.33 per common share. In the preceding year the company lost $676,000. Net income for the Feb. 29, 1932, year was $236,000, or $1.10 per common share, on a larger number of shares, against net income of $702,000 for the Feb. 28, 1931, year. In the year ended Feb. 28, 1930, net income was $1,531,000.

On Feb. 28, 1934, current assets, including cash of $277,000, totaled $1,332,000 and current liabilities were $114,000. During the year the company liquidated $395,000 notes payable to banks.

There are outstanding 2,672 shares of 8 per cent $100 par preferred, on which dividends have been paid regularly, and 161,295 shares of no par common, on which nothing has been paid since May 15, 1932. The company retired 33,405 shares of common in the last two years.

The preferred is rather high grade. The common is speculative.

Line Material.

Investors' Guide: Will you please send me a report on Line Material company 6 per cent notes, due 1938? —B. C. C.

Answer: Line Material company manufactures equipment for transmission of electricity, such as pole line hardware, switches, transformers, etc.

Reflecting sharp drop in sales, fixed charges were not covered either in 1933 or 1932. Sales in 1933 were just about equal to 1932 sales, but loss was cut considerably.

Sales in 1933 were $1,874,000 and loss was $43,000. Only 10 per cent of charges was earned. In 1932 sales were $1,873,000 and loss before interest was $130,000. Sales in 1931 were $3,383,000, against $4,516,000 in 1930 Charges were covered 2.47 times in 1931 and 4.92 times in 1930.

At the close of 1933 current assets were $1,558,000 and current liabilities were $194,000. Funded debt, consisting of 6 per cent notes due serially to April 15, 1939, totaled $624,400.

The notes are speculative at present.

Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing.

Investors' Guide: Can Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company 5 per cent bonds, due 1937, be purchased in denominations of $100?—O. D. E.

Answer: No, they are available in denominations of $500 and $1,000 only.

Men, Insure Your Future with a Permanent, Well Paying Position

We want men with ambition, perseverance and proven ability. An opportunity exists for the right men. NOW.

Experience in our line is NOT essential. Our training, supervision and sales helps make alertness and energy the only requisites for a new man.

Any average person can make at least $35 or more per week at the start on advanced commission plan.

OUR PRODUCT

new, revolutionary, and exclusively patented, is opening a field of new and unlimited opportunity. Comparable in importance and acceptance of this new invention is—Cellophane, sanitary drinking cups, pasteurizing of milk, inspection of meat—the service of our product answers a need as important as the above examples. There is no postponement until conditions improve. This NEW INVENTION, EMPLOYMENT SERVICE, DEMANDS IMMEDIATE CONSIDERATION. In stores, public buildings, homes, theaters—in fact, the need is universal.

We train the men carefully for this work that we hire, and we finance them for stock and equipment.

NO INVESTMENT.

You don't have to invest or put up one cent. Come in, we will tell you frankly if we can use you or otherwise.
